Legislature Launches 8 Bills

Two Bills Deal With Sales Tax

Special Session Organization Set

By ARCH DONOVAN
Star Staff Writer

The 66th extraordinary session of the Legislature got under way Tuesday afternoon, organized, heard a message from the governor, introduced eight bills and immediately made plans to recess Wednesday until next Monday.

The eight bills, nucleus of the special session, were quickly introduced and read after which Sen. Earl Lee sought to have the rules suspended and limit the introduction of bills to the first day. Sen. W. J. Williams obtained an amendment to permit introduction for two days so that he can have another bill prepared for introduction.

One of the bills by the budget committee was a formality for appropriating $6,000 to meet expenses of the session. It was voted to have a transcript taken of all floor debate for inclusion in the record.

The other seven bills propose constitutional amendments to be submitted to voters at the general election in November.

Two of the bills provided for homestead exemptions. One by Sen. Tom Coffey would allow 20 per cent of owner occupied homes with a limit of $2,000. Another by Sen. Lester Anderson would exempt all homesteads.

Different Forms

Neither bill followed the original proposal of Gov. Robert Crosby which would have provided a 10 per cent exemption to owner occupied homes but not to exceed $1,000.

Other bills proposed amendments under which the Legislature could provide for appointment of assessors, a tax commissioner or commission to replace the preent board of equalization, exempt household goods and personal effects from taxes and establish standards and methods for assessment of personal property.

These bills were introduced by Sen. Otto Liebers, chairman of the Legislative Council Tax Study Committee.

Sales Tax

Sen. Liebers also introduced one of two sales tax proposals. It calls for an order on the Legislature to adopt a sales tax with the revenue to be used first to meet any obligations of the general fund and the remainder going as state aid to schools.

Sen. Herbert Duis of Gothenburg introduced a proposal that if a sales or income tax are ever adopted by the Legislature, it must be a replacement of state property taxes. The governor recommended a vote on such a proposal without specifying whether he was for or against a sales tax.

Two new senators were sworn in as members of the session. Mrs. Fay Britt of Lincoln to fill the vacancy caused by the death of her husband, Sen. Howard Britt, and former Sen. Clyde Cretsinger of Paxton to replace Sen. J. L. Brown of Brule who resigned because of ill health.

Mrs. Britt is the only woman member of the legislative body.

There was considerable difference of opinion among the members regarding the session. Some agreed with Gov. Crosby's statement, "not in many years has there been a special session as important as this one." Others contended that it was unnecessary and any action could have waited until the regular session next January.

Some even argued that amendments to the Constitution are not necessary and the "tax mess" could be straightened out by passing laws at the next session.

Terry Plans Petition

Sen. Terry Carpenter, in turn, said he would start a petition move to have another special session so that laws could be passed to bring immediate relief for Omaha taxpayers who paid taxes before a recent Supreme Court decision and are not eligible for refunds.

He would also have the call to consider a sales tax, revision of highway laws and drought relief.

"I don't think the people of Nebraska should vote on a sales tax," Sen. Carpenter said. "That's the Legislature's responsibility. If the people vote the sales tax down, then where are we? People are desperate and they expect the Legislature to do something."

Carpenter's view on allowing the people to vote on a sales tax seemed to be the same view held by a number of others who previously had been advocates of such a tax. The only reason given for fear of allowing a vote by the people was that it was a responsibility of the Legislature.

The opening session was well attended by those who in regular sessions have been registered as lobbyists. Nearly all denied that they were lobbying for or against any proposals. "I'm just an observor," was the usual explanation for their attendance.

New Senators Sworn In

Sen. Clyde Cretsinger of Paxton and Sen. Mrs. Fay Britt of Lincoln, new members of the Legislature, take their oaths of office. Both were appointed by Gov. Crosby. Cretsinger fills the unexpired term of Sen. Josh Brown who resigned because of ill health. Mrs. Britt, the second woman to serve in the Unicameral, completes the term of her late husband, Howard Britt. (Star Photo.)

Rain, Hail Hit State's East Area

A heavy rain and hailstorm center moved eastward across Nebraska early Wednesday morning, leaving in its wake disrupted communications systems in several spots.

Lincoln, Grand Island, Hastings, Norfolk, Seward and York, as well as others in the eastern half of the state all reported heavy storm activity.

Lincoln had received .85 of an inch of rain at 2 a.m., and it was still raining hard.

Heavy rain which fell here, a strong wind and hail, combined with frequent lightning flashes, added up to a first class spring storm.

Wind blew open a door and broke the glass at the Pyramid Life Insurance Co., 1443 M, police reported.

An unofficial report said there were large hailstones at Waco, and both Hastings and York reported both rain and hail. Further west at Grand Island, the weather bureau reported "quite a bit of thunderstorm activity, but not too much rain." Grand Island precipitation was about .35 of an inch.

Utica reported a heavy driving rain accompanied by high winds and lightning from 8 p.m., and it was still raining at midnight.

Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph reported no long distance lines from Lincoln down, but said Hastings lines to Harvard and Sutton were out and about 30 local lines reported down. York reported lines to Henderson and Waco out, and local wire trouble.

Other precipitation figures include Imperial .05, Lexington .21, Omaha .08 and Scottsbluff and Valentine both a trace.

Vice President Clears Indo-China Remarks

CINCINNATI (AP)—Vice President Nixon said Tuesday night the Republican administration's aims and purposes are to develop policies "which will keep us from having to send American boys to fight in Indo-China or anywhere else."

Nixon

He made the statement in a speech before the 20th annual University of Cincinnati's Founders' Day dinner, dedicated to the memory of the late Sen. Taft (R-Ohio).

It was the first statement on the Indo-China situation by the Vice President since he told the American Society of Newspaper Editors last Friday it might be necessary to send American land troops to Indo-China if the French pulled out.

The Vice President made no reference to his speech last week that American boys might have to be sent to Indo-China. His remarks, delivered as "off-the-record," but later leaked out, touched off a furore in Congress.

Firmness Of Strength

After reviewing the situation in Indo-China, Nixon said:

"And may I say unequivocally here tonight that this administration's aim and this administration's purpose is to develop policies which will keep us from having to send American boys to fight in Indo-China or anywhere else if we possibly can. And we believe that our policy of firmness of strength, of united action which we have developed with regard to the Indo-China conflict has the best chance to accomplish that purpose."

Millard M. Liggett Dies At Age Of 50 After Long Illness

Millard M. Liggett, an employee of the State Board of Control, died at a local hospital Tuesday night after a long illness. He was 50.

A resident of Lincoln for the past 17 years, he lived at 3360 East Pershing Rd. Before moving to Lincoln he had lived at York. He was born in Iowa, and was a member of Scottish Rite.

Mr. Liggett is survived by his wife, Catherine; one son, James, in the Air Force at Phoenix, Ariz.; two brothers, Darwin S., San Marino, Calif., and Wilber G., of Los Angeles, and his mother, Mrs. Grace Liggett of York.

Two Firemen Hurt In Omaha Blaze; Smoke Obscures Downtown Area

OMAHA (AP) — Two firemen were slightly injured Tuesday when a wall of a downtown furniture store collapsed after fire had destroyed the inside of a section of the building.

The flames that raced through the three story structure were believed to have started in a trash barrel. When the wall fell after an hour and a half of fire fighting, it pitched off to the side onto the roof of a small one-story photo shop in which one person was hurt.

The store—the State Furniture Co.,—is one of Omaha's oldest, located at 14th and Dodge streets, at the edge of the shopping area. Shipping Clerk Elmer Carr said the blaze started in some enclosed trash barrels at the south end of the building on the first floor, then spread rapidly through the upper sections. There was no immediate estimate of damage.

Two-Headed Baby Dies

WASHINGTON, Ind. (AP)—The two-headed child of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hartley, died late Tuesday of a respirtaory difficulty.

The child had been taken to the Daviess County Hospital from the Hartley home in nearby Petersburg by their family physician an hour before he died.

The hospital said that both heads of the child were blue when it was admitted, and that the two heads died simultaneously.

NU's Dick Geier Hurls No-Hitter

Lefthander Dick Geier, sophomore at the University of Nebraska, Tuesday faced only 27 men—the minimum in a nine-inning game—as he shut out the University of Kansas without a hit.

Nebraska won the game, 1-0. For a complete story and box score, see Sports Page 13.

Consumers Files Power Suit Answer

COLUMBUS, Neb. (AP)—Consumers Public Power District filed in district court here an answer and cross petition to the suit of the Custer County Public Power District to halt issuance of $17,600,000 in bonds for construction of a steam generating plant near Beatrice.

Consumers was named as a defendant in the suit. Consumers plans to build additional generating facilities itself, and in its answer to the Custer suit, it asked the court to:

Find that Consumers may finance, construct, operate and maintain a steam generating plant and the necessary related facilities to supply an increased part of the requirements of its eastern division;

Find that neither the Loup District nor its officers have authority to issue the bonds;

Find that the Loup River District, the Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigations District are under a duty not to construct the plant which will contain excess capacity.

The Consumers petition said the NPPS plans "will greatly exceed the needs of the customers of NPPS which will not be supplied by generating facilities to be constructed by Consumers x x x."

J. Thomas Is Beaten In Primary

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—J. Parnell Thomas, who tried to ride back to Congress on a pro-McCarthy platform, Tuesday was overwhelmingly defeated in a Republican primary election in New Jersey's Seventh District.

Thomas

Rep. William B. Widnall, the incumbent, easily defeated Thomas, who was jailed in 1949 for payroll padding and later pardoned by President Truman. Thomas had campaigned as a "1,000 per cent" supporter of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis).

Widnall held a 31,393 to 4,07g lead over -homas in unofficial returns from 227 of 264 election districts in the mostly rural Seventh Congressional District.

Professor Slaymaker Dies At 76

Philip K. Slaymaker, 76, 425 So. 26th, professor emeritus of the University of Nebraska and organizer of the Department of Architecture there, died Tuesday at a local hospital.

Mr. Slaymaker came to Lincoln in 1907 as professor of machine design at the University. He retired in September, 1949.

Prof. Slaymaker

Born at Kittanning, Pa., he was graduated from Kittanning High School, the Armstrong County Academy and Western University of Pennsylvania, now the University of Pittsburgh.

He had been a steel works engineer in Pittsburgh in the Wheeling, W. Va., district for nine years before coming here.

For many years an elder of the First Presbyterian Church, he also belonged to the Nebraska Art Association and Lincoln Dinner Club.

He was past president of Nebraska chapter, American Association of University Professors; past treasurer of the Nebraska Academy of Sciences, a charter member of the Lincoln Engineers Club and a charter member of the Lincoln Sons of the American Revolution and past state treasurer of the SAR.

Mr. Slaymaker belonged to the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, American Society for Engineering Education, American Association for the Advancement of Science, Sigma Tau, Pi Tau Sigma and Lambda Chi Alpha.

Surviving are his wife, Carrie Ridgley Slaymaker, sons, Robert B. of Cleveland, O., and Frank H. of Rochester, N.Y., and a sister, Mrs. Paul B. Copley of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Services will be at 4 p.m. Friday at First Presbyterian Church, Dr. C. Ivan White officiating. Burial will be in Lincoln Memorial Park.

High-Up Pentagon Man Is Accused Of Misconduct

Fix 'Ground Rules'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) charged Tuesday an Army report blasting him and his chief aids was instigated by a high Pentagon official trying to dodge investigation "for misconduct and possibly for law violations."

The official, Assistant Secretary of Defense H. Struve Hensel, retorted: "Bare-faced lies."

McCarthy hurled the accusation as investigating senators reached final agreement on "ground rules" for public, televised hearings opening Thursday in McCarthy's bitter row with Army officials.

Hensel

The gist of the agreement:

McCarthy will step off the Senate Investigations Subcommittee during the hearings. Sen. Dworshak (R-Idaho) will sit in for him. But McCarthy and his Army antagonists will have—as McCarthy has insisted all along—the right to cross-examine witnesses.

"Bill of Particulars"

While this agreement was being hammered out, McCarthy and aids Roy M. Cohn and Francis Carr filed a "Bill of Particulars" declaring the Army's original charges against them were put out under the "influence and guidance" of Hensel in an effort to block an investigation of "serious charges" against himself.

The McCarthy statement said the investigations subcommitttee has established Hensel made at least $56,526 in three World War II years from a private ship supply firm operating with government priorities while he was a high-ranking Navy official.

Declaring McCarthy is "concerned" and resorting to "cowardly irresponsibility," Hensel threatened to sue him if the senator repeated the charge without the protection of senatorial immunity.

Inactive Partnership

Hensel said he has had an inactive partnership in the Arthur L. Pierson & Co., which he said supplied food to private steamship companies and private ship chandlers. He said he has withdrawn no profits from the firm, but that profits have been credited to him on its books, and "if I'm very lucky, I might get $10,000" out of it later on. He said income taxes have been paid on the profits. In response to a question, Hensel said he invested no money in the firm, that his contribution was help in organizing and getting it going. He asserted that "the allegations that there has been anything illegal or even unethical in my financial or governmental history is both malicious and dishonest."

McCarthy was asked to comment on Hensel's statement when he landed at Houston, Tex., late Tuesday afternoon after a flight from Washington.

"I haven't seen the statement," he said, "but I understand he's suggesting we thrash this out in a law suit.

"I wouldn't co-operate in any delay like that.

"Hensel knows it would take years to do this in a trial. We will be under oath when the committee hears this case and the witnesses will be under oath. He can call any witnesses he wants to.

"After that's over, if he wants me to repeat it anywhere else, I can see no reason why I shouldn't repeat this stuff."

Ag Conservation Program Gets OK By Farmers

By JOHN SWANSON
Star Farm Editor

The Agricultural Conservation Program as it is presently operated has received a strong vote of approval.

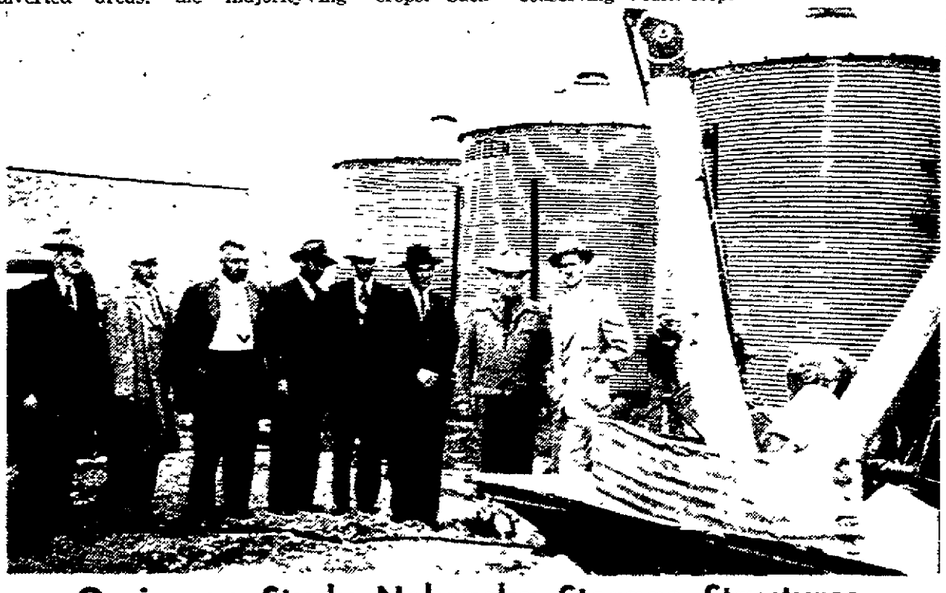

A survey to gather recommendations on the ACP from county offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee has shown the great majority of the local men favor continuation of the program as is.

Robert Zink of the conservation division of the state ASC office in Lincoln, announced the results of the survey Tuesday. The county and state recommendations are being gathered at the request of the USDA in Washington, D.C. for use in formulating the 1955 program.

Zink said most changes recommended by the counties involve making provisions for conservation work "more flexible" and thus easier to adopt in local areas. The county ASC men, by an overwhelming majority, described the present fifty-fifty cost sharing between the government and landowner in conservation projects as sufficient and fair to the farmer.

A definite response came in regarding means of stepping up conservation work in the counties. "Most of them told us the only way to get more conservation work is to have more funds available for it," Zink said.

The ASC county men took a long range view of the current problem of planning crops for acres diverted from wheat or corn use because of acreage and marketing quotas. Asked what conservation steps should be taken on the diverted areas, the majority thought the use of diverted acres should be restricted to "conserving" crops. Such "conserving" crops, Zink said, would include just about anything that is not a cash crop.

Grainmen Study Nebraska Storage Structures

Representatives of Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committees from six states, grain program officers from Washington, D. C., and representatives of grain bin and steel firms Tuesday took a first-hand look at Commodity Credit Corporation bins in Nebraska. ASC men from Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Wyoming, Colorado and Nebraska studied the bin operation at Gretna, Greenwood, Waverly, Ceresco, Mead, Wahoo, Fremont and Valley. The tour was part of a conference in Omaha to acquaint ASC men from various states with handling of binsites. Many of the areas will be receiving CCC bins for the first time this summer under a program of expanded government storage. Shown above at the 850,000-bushel storage center near Waverly are E. A. Ellison of Ames, Ia., one of the pioneers of the grain storage program; A. F. Troyer of the USDA grain division; R. J. Hohenthaner of South Dakota, C. D. Palmby of Minnesota, A. D. Cheesbrough of Casper, Wyo.; Carl Schaefer of South Dakota, Parr Young of Nebraska, Neb., chairman of the Nebraska ASC Committee, and G. F. Widmer of Montana. (Star Staff Photo).

Rain, Hail Hit State's East Area

A heavy rain and hailstorm center moved eastward across Nebraska early Wednesday morning, leaving in its wake disrupted communications systems in several spots.

Lincoln, Grand Island, Hastings, Norfolk, Seward and York, as well as others in the eastern half of the state all reported heavy storm activity.

Lincoln had received .85 of an inch of rain at 2 a.m., and it was still raining hard.

Heavy rain which fell here, a strong wind and hail, combined with frequent lightning flashes, added up to a first class spring storm.

Wind blew open a door and broke the glass at the Pyramid Life Insurance Co., 1443 M, police reported.

An unofficial report said there were large hailstones at Waco, and both Hastings and York reported both rain and hail. Further west at Grand Island, the weather bureau reported "quite a bit of thunderstorm activity, but not too much rain." Grand Island precipitation was about .35 of an inch.

Utica reported a heavy driving rain accompanied by high winds and lightning from 8 p.m., and it was still raining at midnight.

Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph reported no long distance lines from Lincoln down, but said Hastings lines to Harvard and Sutton were out and about 30 local lines reported down. York reported lines to Henderson and Waco out, and local wire trouble.

Other precipitation figures include Imperial .05, Lexington .21, Omaha .08 and Scottsbluff and Valentine both a trace.

Vice President Clears Indo-China Remarks

CINCINNATI (AP)—Vice President Nixon said Tuesday night the Republican administration's aims and purposes are to develop policies "which will keep us from having to send American boys to fight in Indo-China or anywhere else."

Nixon

He made the statement in a speech before the 20th annual University of Cincinnati's Founders' Day dinner, dedicated to the memory of the late Sen. Taft (R-Ohio).

It was the first statement on the Indo-China situation by the Vice President since he told the American Society of Newspaper Editors last Friday it might be necessary to send American land troops to Indo-China if the French pulled out.

The Vice President made no reference to his speech last week that American boys might have to be sent to Indo-China. His remarks, delivered as "off-the-record," but later leaked out, touched off a furore in Congress.

Firmness Of Strength

After reviewing the situation in Indo-China, Nixon said:

"And may I say unequivocally here tonight that this administration's aim and this administration's purpose is to develop policies which will keep us from having to send American boys to fight in Indo-China or anywhere else if we possibly can. And we believe that our policy of firmness of strength, of united action which we have developed with regard to the Indo-China conflict has the best chance to accomplish that purpose."

Millard M. Liggett Dies At Age Of 50 After Long Illness

Millard M. Liggett, an employee of the State Board of Control, died at a local hospital Tuesday night after a long illness. He was 50.

A resident of Lincoln for the past 17 years, he lived at 3360 East Pershing Rd. Before moving to Lincoln he had lived at York. He was born in Iowa, and was a member of Scottish Rite.

Mr. Liggett is survived by his wife, Catherine; one son, James, in the Air Force at Phoenix, Ariz.; two brothers, Darwin S., San Marino, Calif., and Wilber G., of Los Angeles, and his mother, Mrs. Grace Liggett of York.

Omaha Furniture Store Blaze Injures Firemen

Two Firemen Hurt In Omaha Blaze; Smoke Obscures Downtown Area

OMAHA (AP) — Two firemen were slightly injured Tuesday when a wall of a downtown furniture store collapsed after fire had destroyed the inside of a section of the building.

The flames that raced through the three story structure were believed to have started in a trash barrel. When the wall fell after an hour and a half of fire fighting, it pitched off to the side onto the roof of a small one-story photo shop in which one person was hurt.

The store—the State Furniture Co.,—is one of Omaha's oldest, located at 14th and Dodge streets, at the edge of the shopping area. Shipping Clerk Elmer Carr said the blaze started in some enclosed trash barrels at the south end of the building on the first floor, then spread rapidly through the upper sections. There was no immediate estimate of damage.

Two-Headed Baby Dies

WASHINGTON, Ind. (AP)—The two-headed child of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hartley, died late Tuesday of a respirtaory difficulty.

The child had been taken to the Daviess County Hospital from the Hartley home in nearby Petersburg by their family physician an hour before he died.

The hospital said that both heads of the child were blue when it was admitted, and that the two heads died simultaneously.

NU's Dick Geier Hurls No-Hitter

Consumers Files Power Suit Answer

COLUMBUS, Neb. (AP)—Consumers Public Power District filed in district court here an answer and cross petition to the suit of the Custer County Public Power District to halt issuance of $17,600,000 in bonds for construction of a steam generating plant near Beatrice.

Consumers was named as a defendant in the suit. Consumers plans to build additional generating facilities itself, and in its answer to the Custer suit, it asked the court to:

Find that Consumers may finance, construct, operate and maintain a steam generating plant and the necessary related facilities to supply an increased part of the requirements of its eastern division;

Find that neither the Loup District nor its officers have authority to issue the bonds;

Find that the Loup River District, the Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigations District are under a duty not to construct the plant which will contain excess capacity.

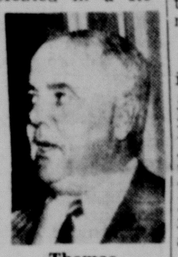

The Consumers petition said the NPPS plans "will greatly exceed the needs of the customers of NPPS which will not be supplied by generating facilities to be constructed by Consumers x x x."

J. Thomas Is Beaten In Primary

Thomas

Rep. William B. Widnall, the incumbent, easily defeated Thomas, who was jailed in 1949 for payroll padding and later pardoned by President Truman. Thomas had campaigned as a "1,000 per cent" supporter of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis).

Widnall held a 31,393 to 4,07g lead over -homas in unofficial returns from 227 of 264 election districts in the mostly rural Seventh Congressional District.

Professor Slaymaker Dies At 76

Philip K. Slaymaker, 76, 425 So. 26th, professor emeritus of the University of Nebraska and organizer of the Department of Architecture there, died Tuesday at a local hospital.

Mr. Slaymaker came to Lincoln in 1907 as professor of machine design at the University. He retired in September, 1949.

Prof. Slaymaker

Born at Kittanning, Pa., he was graduated from Kittanning High School, the Armstrong County Academy and Western University of Pennsylvania, now the University of Pittsburgh.

He had been a steel works engineer in Pittsburgh in the Wheeling, W. Va., district for nine years before coming here.

For many years an elder of the First Presbyterian Church, he also belonged to the Nebraska Art Association and Lincoln Dinner Club.

He was past president of Nebraska chapter, American Association of University Professors; past treasurer of the Nebraska Academy of Sciences; a charter member of the Lincoln Engineers Club and a charter member of the Lincoln Sons of the American Revolution and past state treasurer of the SAR.

Mr. Slaymaker belonged to the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, American Society for Engineering Education, American Association for the Advancement of Science, Sigma Tau, Pi Tau Sigma and Lambda Chi Alpha.

Surviving are his wife, Carrie Ridgley Slaymaker, sons, Robert R. of Cleveland, O., and Frank H. of Rochester, N.Y., and a sister, Mrs. Paul B. Copley of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Services will be at 4 p.m. Friday at First Presbyterian Church, Dr. C. Vin White officiating. Burial will be in Lincoln Memorial Park.

High-Up Pentagon Man Is Accused Of Misconduct

Fix 'Ground Rules'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) charged Tuesday an Army report blasting him and his chief aids was instigated by a high Pentagon official trying to dodge investigation "for misconduct and possibly for law violations."

The official, Assistant Secretary of Defense H. Struve Hensel, retorted: "Bare-faced lies."

McCarthy hurled the accusation as investigating senators reached final agreement on "ground rules" for public, televised hearings opening Thursday in McCarthy's bitter row with Army officials.

Hensel

The gist of the agreement:

McCarthy will step off the Senate Investigations Subcommittee during the hearings. Sen. Dworshak (R-Idaho) will sit in for him. But McCarthy and his Army antagonists will have—as McCarthy has insisted all along—the right to cross-examine witnesses.

"Bill of Particulars"

While this agreement was being hammered out, McCarthy and aids Roy M. Cohn and Francis Carr filed a "Bill of Particulars" declaring the Army's original charges against them were put out under the "influence and guidance" of Hensel in an effort to block an investigation of "serious charges" against himself.

The McCarthy statement said the investigations subcommitttee has established Hensel made at least $56,526 in three World War II years from a private ship supply firm operating with government priorities while he was a high-ranking Navy official.

Declaring McCarthy is "concerned" and resorting to "cowardly irresponsibility," Hensel threatened to sue him if the senator repeated the charge without the protection of senatorial immunity.

Inactive Partnership

Hensel said he has had an inactive partnership in the Arthur L. Pierson & Co., which he said supplied food to private steamship companies and private ship chandlers. He said he has withdrawn no profits from the firm, but that profits have been credited to him on its books, and "if I'm very lucky, I might get $10,000" out of it later on. He said income taxes have been paid on the profits. In response to a question, Hensel said he invested no money in the firm, that his contribution was help in organizing and getting it going. He asserted that "the allegations that there has been anything illegal or even unethical in my financial or governmental history is both malicious and dishonest."

McCarthy was asked to comment on Hensel's statement when he landed at Houston, Tex., late Tuesday afternoon after a flight from Washington.

"I haven't seen the statement," he said, "but I understand he's suggesting we thrash this out in a law suit.

"I wouldn't co-operate in any delay like that.

"Hensel knows it would take years to do this in a trial. We will be under oath when the committee hears this case and the witnesses will be under oath. He can call any witnesses he wants to.

"After that's over, if he wants me to repeat it anywhere else, I can see no reason why I shouldn't repeat this stuff."

Bulldozer Crashes From Bridge, Hurts Tecumseh Man, 23

Lincoln Star Special

TECUMSEH, Neb. — Robert Johnson, 23, of Tecumseh was seriously injured about 4:15 p.m. Tuesday when the bulldozer which he was operating plunged through a bridge rail on a rural road two miles southwest of Elk Creek, Neb.

He was taken to Tecumseh Hospital where it was learned the man had suffered a crushed forehead. He was later transferred to Methodist Hospital in Omaha.

The bulldozer fell about 20 feet into a creek bed.

Ag Conservation Program Gets OK By Farmers

By JOHN SWANSON
Star Farm Editor

The Agricultural Conservation Program as it is presently operated has received a strong vote of approval.

A survey to gather recommendations on the ACP from county offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee has shown the great majority of the local men favor continuation of the program as is.

Robert Zink of the conservation division of the state ASC office in Lincoln, announced the results of the survey Tuesday. The county and state recommendations are being gathered at the request of the USDA in Washington, D.C. for use in formulating the 1955 program.

Zink said most changes recommended by the counties involve making provisions for conservation work "more flexible" and thus easier to adopt in local areas. The county ASC men, by an overwhelming majority, described the present fifty-fifty cost sharing between the government and landowner in conservation projects as sufficient and fair to the farmer.

A definite response came in regarding means of stepping up conservation work in the counties. "Most of them told us the only way to get more conservation work is to have more funds available for it," Zink said.

The ASC county men took a long range view of the current problem of planning crops for acres diverted from wheat or corn use because of acreage and marketing quotas. Asked what conservation steps should be taken on the diverted areas, the majority thought the use of diverted acres should be restricted to "conserving" crops. Such "conserving" crops, Zink said, would include just about anything that is not a cash crop.

Grainmen Study Nebraska Storage Structures

Representatives of Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committees from six states, grain program officers from Washington, D. C., and representatives of grain bin and steel firms Tuesday took a first-hand look at Commodity Credit Corporation bins in Nebraska. ASC men from Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Wyoming, Colorado and Nebraska studied the bin operation at Gretna, Greenwood, Waverly, Ceresco, Mead, Wahoo, Fremont and Valley. The tour was part of a conference in Omaha to acquaint ASC men from various states with handling of binsites. Many of the areas will be receiving CCC bins for the first time this summer under a program of expanded government storage. Shown above at the 830,000-bushel storage center near Waverly are E. A. Ellison of Ames, Ia., one of the pioneers of the grain storage program; A. F. Troyer of the USDA grain division, R. J. Hohenthaner of South Dakota, C. D. Palmby of Minnesota, A. D. Cheesbrough of Casper, Wyo.; Carl Schaefer of South Dakota, Parr Young of Nehawka, Neb., chairman of the Nebraska ASC Committee, and G. F. Widmer of Montana. (Star Staff Photo).

SEC. DULLES DEPARTS FOR GENEVA MEETING

'Reckless Assaults' Deplored

Indo-China Sacrifices Not A Good Prelude For 'Peace Conference'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles left for the Geneva conference Tuesday night, promising to seek an "honorable" peace in Indo-China and a free, united Korea.

But he said the recent "reckless assaults" by the Reds in Indo-China are "not a good prelude to Geneva." He said it is tragic that the lives of tens of thousands should be sacrificed by the Communists in an attempt "to improve their bargaining power at Geneva."

But Dulles served notice that he would oppose an expected Russian move to turn the Geneva meeting on Far East issues into a Big Five meeting on world problems.

This was in line with the U. S. government view that specific problems should be tackled one by one, as a means of testing Russian good faith.

No Recognition

Dulles declared anew that American participation in the Geneva conference on Indo-China and Korea "does not imply our diplomatic recognition of Red China," which will sit in at the conference.

Dulles laid down the government's position as he boarded a special Air Force plane with a 29-man delegation which will represent the United States at the conference beginning Monday.

In advance of his departure, he conferred with congressional leaders of both parties and diplomats representing the United States' 16 Korean War allies.

Two senators said after their lengthy briefing by Dulles that they know of no plan which is being considered to send American troops to Indo-China to help defeat Red aggression there.

In his farewell statement, Dulles said: "There is some evidence that the Soviet Union may attempt to make the Geneva conference something other than what had been agreed upon" at the Berlin foreign ministers' meeting which made the arrangements.

One Important Point

The secretary said it is important to bear in mind what the Geneva conference is and what it is not.

"There are some things it is not," he said. "It is not a Big Five conference. The Soviet Union tried to make it that, but gave way before the combined opposition of France, Great Britain and the United States.

Dulles said he will expect Russia to comply fully with the Berlin agreement, under which Red China was invtied to attend along with other Red regimes but not on a footing of co-sponsor of the meeting.

The United States, he declared, will go to the Geneva parley "determined to seek in good faith" the establishment of a genuinely independent and united Korea.

He also said the American delegation will "strive to achieve" peace in Indo-China "on honorable terms..."

Seaton And Accused Colleague Confer

H. Struve Hensel (right), assistant secretary of defense, confers with Fred A. Seaton, another assistant defense secretary, after Sen. Joseph McCarthy charged in Washington that Hensel was under investigation for "misconduct and possibly for law violations." Hensel fired back that the charges were "bare faced lies" and threatened to sue McCarthy. Appointed to his present position last February by President Eisenhower, Hensel served under administrations of Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry Truman. (AP Wirephoto.)

News Around The Globe

Charges Aired

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charges of bribe-seeking and possible corruption in getting FHA loan insurance were aired Tuesday amid testimony that 1,149 apartment builders reaped more than 65 million dollars in quick profits from their operations.

No names were mentioned in testimony at twin hearings by the Senate Banking Committee and the Joint Committee on reduction of Non-Essential Federal Expenditures.

Corsair Help

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Navy spokesman said Tuesday night that several F-4U Corsair fighters were flown from the U.S. aircraft carrier Saipan to Indo-China to bolster the French air strength against the Communists there.

The spokesman revealed the delivery in answer to an inquiry but said he did not know the exact number of planes involved. He called it a "routine" delivery under the American arms aid program.

Defenders Aided

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—American-supplied planes dropped tons of food and war materiel to the defenders of Dien Bien Phu Tuesday.

Braving rebel antiaircraft fire, American civilian pilots swooped in low in Dakotas and Flying Boxcars to parachute ammunition, food and war material of all types into the heart-shaped area still held by the French Union troops.

No Butter Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Agriculture Department officials said no final decisions have been made yet on plans for disposing of the government's stock of 350 million pounds of surplus butter.

They said Secretary Benson and his aids have developed tentative plans for testing disposal programs in two or more smaller cities to determine their practibility.

Viaduct Area Coming Back

Lancaster County has moved to transfer the West O viaduct "strip" back to the City of Lincoln.

Board Chairman Russell Brehm will convey to Mayor Clark Jeary the commissioners' "request that O street from the west line of 9th to the east bank of Salt Creek be included within the corporate limits of Lincoln."

City officials transferred the "strip" to the county in an attempt to qualify the new viaduct proposed for West O for federal primary aid funds.

Now with the possibility that "urban aid" funds may become available, the necessity for giving the land back to the city fathers has arisen.

Auto-Pedestrian Crash Injures Boy Of Eight

Robert L. Smith, 8, of 1320 Peach, suffered bruised knees and elbows Tuesday when he was struck by a car driven by Dorothy H. Debus, 24, of 2523 So. 8. Robert was walking from north to south across South St. when he was struck by the car as it headed west on South.

The boy was treated and released at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Nourse Says Americans 'Can't Have It So Good All The Time'

By ALLEN EDEE
Star Staff Writer

Dr. Edwin Nourse, former economic advisor to President Truman, asserted here Tuesday night that the American economy is coming to a "caught-up stage."

The American public, he said, should be told that they "can't have it so good all the time."

"We have had 12 years of pie in the sky," Dr. Nourse said. "We have come to love inflation."

He cited the home building situation as especially vulnerable if a slight recession hits that trade.

'No More 1929'

"There is no possibility of a repetition of the debacle of 1929," the former chairman of the first Council of Economic Advisors stated flatly.

"Stocks are in strong hands and are not overvalued as to earning capacity," he pointed out.

He also cited the economic pillars of federal deposit insurance, farm credit, regulation of the securities and exchanges and social security.

There is a need, he said, to transfer the funds used in the past for a big military build-up for use in state, local and federal public projects.

Presumably, the economist said, "we should tax ourselves just as hard for that."

'Not By Mirrors'

"It is very easy to say we take up the bottleneck by public works," Dr. Nourse said, 'but it is not done by mirrors."

He said it was a long, slow, complicated process to allocate public works to different states and plan projects.

The economist emphasized the need for public highway and street projects to cope with an "outmoded traffic system" over the country. He also cited the need for modern schools and correctional institutions.

The maintenance of the economic vigor of the economy, he said, depends mainly "on the balance between the capacity to produce and the ability to distribute products in the open market."

"Our situation is pregnant with strength, yet it is susceptible," Dr. Nourse said.

'Disinflated Prosperity'

He said the philosophy the present administration wants to follow is that of a "disinflated prosperity."

The government is "overbidding its hand," the elder economic statesman said, when they say that the government will not let a depression happen.

That is encouraging everyone to run to Washington for help instead of trying to first help themselves, Dr. Nourse asserted.

There is a danger in drastic measures of government intervention he said, as well as a depression.

"There is a need to put public interest above individual profit and prestige," he said, a latter example being the race between Ford and Chevrolet to sell the most cars.

Shortages In Home Savings Firm $85,653

BEATRICE, Neb. (AP) — Home Savings and Loan Assn. shareholders have been informed that shortages which sent the association into insolvency totaled $85,653.41.

J. F. McLain, director of the state banking department, made the report following an audit.

Shareholders have voted to liquidate the association. They had a choice between that move and reorganizing at a lowered share value. In either case the loss would have been between 12 and 30 per cent.

An audit was begun April 2. A few hours later Paul O. Staehs, 56, secretary-treasurer of the association, was found dead. Sheriff E. G. Maxwell said Staehs had shot himself.

"We don't know how all of the shortage occurred," McLain said. Some of it was accomplished by crediting investors' pass books without making entries on the records, he said, and in other cases by keeping ledger sheets out of the regular ledger books where bank examiners would not find them.

Hale McCowan, a director, said some of the shortage may be represented by accumulated dividends on deposits which had never been properly recorded.

Dulles declared anew that American participation in the Geneva conference on Indo-China and Korea "does not imply our diplomatic recognition of Red China," which will sit in at the conference.

Dulles laid down the government's position as he boarded a special Air Force plane with a 29-man delegation which will represent the United States at the conference beginning Monday.

In advance of his departure, he conferred with congressional leaders of both parties and diplomats representing the United States' 16 Korean War allies.

Two senators said after their lengthy briefing by Dulles that they know of no plan which is being considered to send American troops to Indo-China to help defeat Red aggression there.

In his farewell statement, Dulles said: "There is some evidence that the Soviet Union may attempt to make the Geneva conference something other than what had been agreed upon" at the Berlin foreign ministers' meeting which made the arrangements.

One Important Point

The secretary said it is important to bear in mind what the Geneva conference is and what it is not.

"There are some things it is not," he said. "It is not a Big Five conference. The Soviet Union tried to make it that, but gave way before the combined opposition of France, Great Britain and the United States.

Dulles said he will expect Russia to comply fully with the Berlin agreement, under which Red China was invtied to attend along with other Red regimes but not on a footing of co-sponsor of the meeting.

The United States, he declared, will go to the Geneva parley "determined to seek in good faith" the establishment of a genuinely independent and united Korea.

He also said the American delegation will "strive to achieve" peace in Indo-China "on honorable terms..."

Seaton And Accused Colleague Confer

H. Struve Hensel (right), assistant secretary of defense, confers with Fred A. Seaton, another assistant defense secretary, after Sen. Joseph McCarthy charged in Washington that Hensel was under investigation for "misconduct and possibly for law violations." Hensel fired back that the charges were "bare faced lies" and threatened to sue McCarthy. Appointed to his present position last February by President Eisenhower, Hensel served under administrations of Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry Truman. (AP Wirephoto.)

News Around The Globe

Charges Aired

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charges of bribe-seeking and possible corruption in getting FHA loan insurance were aired Tuesday amid testimony that 1,149 apartment builders reaped more than 65 million dollars in quick profits from their operations.

No names were mentioned in testimony at twin hearings by the Senate Banking Committee and the Joint Committee on reduction of Non-Essential Federal Expenditures.

Corsair Help

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Navy spokesman said Tuesday night that several F-4U Corsair fighters were flown from the U.S. aircraft carrier Saipan to Indo-China to bolster the French air strength against the Communists there.

The spokesman revealed the delivery in answer to an inquiry but said he did not know the exact number of planes involved. He called it a "routine" delivery under the American arms aid program.

Viaduct Area Coming Back

Lancaster County has moved to transfer the West O viaduct "strip" back to the City of Lincoln.

Board Chairman Russell Brehm will convey to Mayor Clark Jeary the commissioners' "request that O street from the west line of 9th to the east bank of Salt Creek be included within the corporate limits of Lincoln."

City officials transferred the "strip" to the county in an attempt to qualify the new viaduct proposed for West O for federal primary aid funds.

Now with the possibility that "urban aid" funds may become available, the necessity for giving the land back to the city fathers has arisen.

Defenders Aided

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—American-supplied planes dropped tons of food and war materiel to the defenders of Dien Bien Phu Tuesday.

Braving rebel antiaircraft fire, American civilian pilots swooped in low in Dakotas and Flying Boxcars to parachute ammunition, food and war material of all types into the heart-shaped area still held by the French Union troops.

No Butter Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Agriculture Department officials said no final decisions have been made yet on plans for disposing of the government's stock of 350 million pounds of surplus butter.

They said Secretary Benson and his aids have developed tentative plans for testing disposal programs in two or more smaller cities to determine their practibility.

Auto-Pedestrian Crash Injures Boy Of Eight

Robert L. Smith, 8, of 1320 Peach, suffered bruised knees and elbows Tuesday when he was struck by a car driven by Dorothy H. Debus, 24, of 2523 So. 8. Robert was walking from north to south across South St. when he was struck by the car as it headed west on South.

The boy was treated and released at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Nourse Says Americans 'Can't Have It So Good All The Time'

By ALLEN EDEE
Star Staff Writer

Dr. Edwin Nourse, former economic advisor to President Truman, asserted here Tuesday night that the American economy is coming to a "caught-up stage."

The American public, he said, should be told that they "can't have it so good all the time."

"We have had 12 years of pie in the sky," Dr. Nourse said. "We have come to love inflation."

He cited the home building situation as especially vulnerable if a slight recession hits that trade.

'No More 1929'

"There is no possibility of a repetition of the debacle of 1929," the former chairman of the first Council of Economic Advisors stated flatly.

"Stocks are in strong hands and are not overvalued as to earning capacity," he pointed out.

He also cited the economic pillars of federal deposit insurance, farm credit, regulation of the securities and exchanges and social security.

There is a need, he said, to transfer the funds used in the past for a big military build-up for use in state, local and federal public projects.

Presumably, the economist said, "we should tax ourselves just as hard for that."

'Not By Mirrors'

"It is very easy to say we take up the bottleneck by public works," Dr. Nourse said, 'but it is not done by mirrors."

He said it was a long, slow, complicated process to allocate public works to different states and plan projects.

The economist emphasized the need for public highway and street projects to cope with an "outmoded traffic system" over the country. He also cited the need for modern schools and correctional institutions.

The maintenance of the economic vigor of the economy, he said, depends mainly "on the balance between the capacity to produce and the ability to distribute products in the open market."

"Our situation is pregnant with strength, yet it is susceptible," Dr. Nourse said.

'Disinflated Prosperity'

He said the philosophy the present administration wants to follow is that of a "disinflated prosperity.'

The government is "overbidding its hand," the elder economic statesman said, when they say that the government will not let a depression happen.

That is encouraging everyone to run to Washington for help instead of trying to first help themselves, Dr. Nourse asserted.

There is a danger in drastic measures of government intervention he said, as well as a depression.

"There is a need to put public interest above individual profit and prestige," he said, a latter example being the race between Ford and Chevrolet to sell the most cars.

Shortages In Home Savings Firm $85,653

BEATRICE, Neb. (AP) — Home Savings and Loan Assn. shareholders have been informed that shortages which sent the association into insolvency totaled $85,653.41.

J. F. McLain, director of the state banking department, made the report following an audit.

Shareholders have voted to liquidate the association. They had a choice between that move and reorganizing at a lowered share value. In either case the loss would have been between 12 and 30 per cent.

An audit was begun April 2. A few hours later Paul O. Staehs, 56, secretary-treasurer of the association, was found dead. Sheriff E. G. Maxwell said Staehs had shot himself.

"We don't know how all of the shortage occurred," McLain said. Some of it was accomplished by crediting investors' pass books without making entries on the records, he said, and in other cases by keeping ledger sheets out of the regular ledger books where bank examiners would not find them.

Hale McCowan, a director, said some of the shortage may be represented by accumulated dividends on deposits which had never been properly recorded.

Mrs. Eva Bowring To Take Senate Oath Next Monday

OMAHA (AP)—Mrs. Eva Bowring said late Tuesday she will be sworn in as U. S. senator next Monday in Washington.

Mrs. Bowring said she planned to leave Sunday for Washington.

Palmyra High's Seniors Are Feted

Members of the Palmyra High School junior class were hosts to the graduating senior class at a banquet held at Cotner Terrace Tuesday night.

Approximately 40 persons attended the event. Students provided the program and the entire evening was under the direction of Lena Bryan, junior class sponsor.

Graduating seniors are Velda Anderson, Betty Cooper, Marilyn Kelly, Warren Lashley, Richard Reimer, Frances Stillwell, James Thomson and Vera Thomson.

Sargent Student Head Of Campus Young Democrats

John Olson, Sargent, sophomore in the College of Agriculture, was elected president of the University of Nebraska Young Democrats at a meeting of the campus group Tuesday night.

Bea Beutel, Lincoln, Arts and Science junior, was named vice president, and Janet Gordon, also of Lincoln and the Arts and Sciences College, replaced her sister Connie as secretary.

Other officers named were Marrianne Hansen, Sioux City, treasurer, and Charles Beal, Broken Bow, historian.

The new officers will be installed Friday at an installation and charter banquet at which the speaker will be Frank Morrison, McCook, candidate for the Democratic nomination to Congress from the First District.

Sen. Kennedy Says U.S. Should Hear Truth About Far East

Foreign Affairs Serious

...Douglas Claims

CHICAGO (AP)—Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass) Tuesday night asserted "The American people should be told the truth about the situation in the Far East."

Kennedy

He also said that recent statements by high administration officials about the crisis in Indo-China could be taken to mean "we are about to enter the jungle and do battle with the tiger."

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) agreed that affairs had taken a serious turn abroad. He also predicted victory for himself and fellow Democrats in Illinois in the November election on a program tailored for the "individual man."

The two senators were the featured speakers at a $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner sponsored by Cook County (Chicago) Democrats.

"The deterioration of the French position in Indo-China has caused the United States to be faced with decisions both somber and complex, on which hang the future of the free world," Kennedy set forth in his speech.

"For if Secretary Dulles' and Vice President Nixon's words are to be taken at their face value, we are about to enter the jungle and do battle with the tiger."

Sen. Kennedy said he didn't want to make President Eisenhower's task "more difficult," and added:

"But I do believe it both proper and necessary that those who bear responsibility should indicate in advance the course of action that should be adopted x x x."

He also stated:

"It is my belief that the American people should be told the truth about the situation in the Far East. This has not been done."

Kennedy said the independence of Indo-China and southeast Asia could not be preserved unless the people of Indo-China, India, Burma and Indonesia "play their proper part in any united effort."

Kennedy urged "independence at once" for Indo-China. The three Indo-China states now have nominal independence under French guidance.

Sen. Douglas, who received about 600,000 votes in last week's primary although he had no opposition, will face the Republican nominee, Joseph T. Meek, in the fall battle for the Senate seat Douglas now holds.

Douglas told his fellow Democrats:

"We meet in an atmosphere redolent of victory. The prospect of millions of Texas oil dollars against us cannot discourage a cause that is righteous."

Mayor Clark Jeary Presented First Jaycee Award For Good Government

Mayor Clark Jeary was the first recipient of the Lincoln Junior Chamber of Commerce award for the promotion of good government.

In presenting the award to JQeary, Dean Krtz, Junior Chamber president, emphasized the mayor's achievements during his past year in office. While attributing a host of previous accomplishments to Jeary, Kratz noted that the mayor has seen inauguration during the past year of the city's $8.5 million water expansion program, the combination and change in administration of the park and recreation departments, the appointment of a Power Advisory Board and other important steps.

It was also noted by Kratz that a special city election is planned this summer. This election has been pushed and guided by Jeary.

In accepting the award, Jeary paid tribute to those who have worked with him the past year.

"Whatever success has been accomplished," he said, "is due largely to the cooperation of all members of the City Council and all other city employees. Nothing can be accomplished by one man alone."

The award is to be an annual Jaycee project with selection made from the entire county. Jeary was selected this year by the Jaycee board of directors in cooperation with the public affairs committee.

Da Vinci's 'Combination' Is Praised

"Leonardo da Vinci is a unique example of the glorious human being able to combine in his work scientific truth and artistic beauty."

Dr. George Sarton, professor emeritus of the history of science at Harvard, made that statement in an informal lecture Tuesday at the University of Nebraska.

Dr. Sarton pointed out the "holly impractical" Leonardo was a "remarkable combination," of the scientist and the artist.

"This combination," he said, "is to be seen not only in his pictures but in the drawings of his notebooks and in the integrity of his personality."

Leonardo, Dr. Sarton said, "did not influence the science of his own generation but was a dinstinguished inventor and an original anatomist who dissected more corpses than any professor of anatomy today."

Dr. Sarton showe d how interested Leonardo was in applying his knowledge of science, especially of perspective and anatomy, to his art as a painter.

Leonardo, he said, was "a restless genius without formal schooling, guided solely by the interest of his genius and rarely finishing anything he was working on."

Dr. Sarton will deliver the second in a series of three Montgomery lectures at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Love Library auditorium. Topc is Ptolemy.

For A Bipartisan Policy

We think Sen. Sparkman's plea for a return to bipartisan policy in foreign affairs is both timely and urgent.

Surely there is nothing in the gathering crisis in Indo-China that divides Republicans and Democrats. In a very large sense, partisanship should and must end at the water's edge if this nation is to survive in a dangerous world.

There seems to be something in the air destructive to the spirit that brought about unified action by the free peoples in their struggle against totalitarian ideas. Britain, for example, in its maturity by common consent presented a united front in the foreign field until recent months. Now the Labor group there, or an essential part of it, is at sword's point with the Churchill government, and still worse, the British Labor party is split into two sharply warring factions no less divided than British Labor and the British Conservatives under Churchill.

There is no real unanimity within Republican ranks on foreign policy. The split there is deeply rooted and is serious. Mr. Eisenhower actually can depend more upon Democratic support in certain areas of foreign policy than he can rely upon the two factions of his own party.

The recent blowup resulting from a speech made by Vice President Nixon is not clarified in any sense by Secretary of State Dulles's latest statement to members of Congress. Two senators meeting in Washington Tuesday with Mr. Dulles told newsmen that no decision to dispatch American fighting forces to Indo-China is being considered. If that is the case, then what was the vice president talking about when he addressed the American Society of Newspaper Editors? He had been asked a hypothetical question, it is true. What he said in answer fitted in very well with recent statements coming from the administration.

While bipartisan policy will not influence developments in Indo-China, a little closer liaison between Republican and Democratic leadership in Washington will contribute materially to understanding here at home. There will be fewer confusing charges and counter charges.

The Quiet Places

One Nebraska newspaperman has given a matter some careful thought over a period of time, and has worked out to his own satisfaction the exact psychological moment for a proposed course of action.

Harold L. Spence, who edits the worthy Holdrege Citizen, only recently acquired membership in a unique organization known as the Underground Press Club, the headquarters of which is a five-story cave near Stanton, Mo. Here one descends deep into Mother Earth—so far, indeed, that nothing more distracting is to be heard than, in Mr. Spence's words, "an occasional tiny drip of water from the roof or the stealthy slithering of a lizard across the floor." There are facilities for hunting there, and for fishing and for boating and a lodge has been constructed for housing and meals. And to this subterranean seclusion Editor Spence will beat his retreat "just before the jangling phones, the clatter of the teletype and linotypes, the rumbling of presses and the constant looming of deadlines drives the writer of these paragraphs to the bughouse."

We can well understand the daily pressures prompting the desire of a fellow worker to "get away from it all." But we can't quite go along with his choice of a utopian Shangri La for complete enjoyment of what should in the very nature of the enterprise be an ethereal exile.

Take fishing, for example—and who could not take a little those warming days, with spring beckoning one out and away? The pleasure lies not wholly in the take-home catch. Indeed, with many avid anglers, that is the least of the game. For the full measure, one must prop oneself against a friendly willow or find a curve of earth in the stream bank to fit the contours of relaxed body muscles. Prime ingredients include also an ancient, battered and well-loved hat, the fishing gear—and here simplicity is the order, since it is the complexities one has cast aside for the moment—and a paper sack containing peanut butter sandwiches and an apple. No dank, dark depths for us, please, nor "slithering of a lizard across the floor." We'll take the feel of the warm sun on the back of our neck and shoulders, and the dapple of sunlight and shadow on bank and stream, an occasional trill of a woodland warbler and the small water sounds as the cork bobs lazily at line's end. Time is a myth here and the tempo of living slows to a state of near-suspension. The unsnarling of nerve knots is done so effortlessly that there is not even an awareness of its accomplishment.

The increasing need for these quiet havens of serenity was emphasized in the recent news story concerning Justice William Douglas's pilgrimage on foot along the old Chesapeake and Ohio Canal for a distance of 189 miles. There had been some advocacy of building a roadway bordering the now-abandoned canal. Mr. Douglas wanted it left as it was, took the walk to prove it. "A refuge," he described it. "A long stretch of quiet and peace . . . a wilderness where man can be alone with his thoughts . . . a place not yet marred by the roar of wheels and the sound of horns."

And if in the end, another Nebraska writer comments, man deprives himself of the spots where from time to time he can step out of the mainstream for a period of contemplation, he will eventually lose sight of the meaning of his existence.

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

We do not envy the conscientious members of the Nebraska Unicameral Legislature in the assigned task which falls to them in the calling of a special session, starting Tuesday. In the fullest sense, the business at hand is not an emergency. To dismiss it as such is folly. Actually what they are called in special session for is a revision of Nebraska's tax structure, which is not a short-order assignment.

★

What it is proposed shall be done may influence Nebraska thinking for years to come. In the field of taxation, there is nothing in human behavior to suggest the will in political leadership to apply the system of trial and error generously. Chances are that we will live with whatever decisions are reached for a long time. One paragraph of Gov. Crosby's address to the special legislative session is unforgettable. "As of that time (Nebraska's tax procedures prior to the supreme court decision on January 9, 1953), the assessment picture in Nebraska was a fantastic pattern of injustice," the governor said. "Among the 93 counties, farm land assessments ranged from an estimated 56 per cent of market value to as low as 21 per cent; and town real estate, from 37 per cent to as low as 13 per cent. Cattle were assessed at 75 per cent of market value, automobiles at about 80 per cent, grain at still a different per cent. Non-exempt household goods and personal equipment (excepting special household equipment) in some counties averaged $127.50 per schedule; in other counties, as low as $11.68. In some counties, schedules of business merchandise were estimated to average 49 per cent of actual value; in other counties, as low as 15 per cent. All of this was true notwithstanding that the constitution required uniformity and the state law required assessment at 100 per cent of actual value."

Is This A Portrait Of Nebraskans?

★

We assume the figures utilized by the governor were furnished him from the records of assessing authorities. Yet it is a little bit difficult to believe that this is a full, complete, finished portrait of the conscience of most Nebraskans. If it is, then there can be only one conclusion. The people of Nebraska in honest spirit do not accept the tax structure which they say shall constitute an adequate base for raising the revenue necessary for the support of government at the state level, and for political subdivisions below that.

★

In the truest sense, this special legislative session is not for the purpose of drawing up a tax program to fit needs in 1955, 1960, or any immediate year ahead. If that is the objective, then all that we are doing is improvising to meet an emergency. Over the long pull, we are settling nothing. Thoughtful people, we believe, will have doubts in their minds when it comes to thinking that the appointment rather than the election of assessors would furnish the answer to the fundamental problem involved. That fundamental problem, it must be acknowledged in honest spirit, is whether the present tax base can continue indefinitely to bear all the burdens of the costs of government, burdens which have continued to increase through years of inflation. We are sure that economies are possible, and equally sure that even the practice of the sternest frugality in state government still will not make a great deal of difference in the individual tax bill. State government itself claims a relatively small share of the tax dollar. Other political subdivisions take more of it.

What Of The Years Ahead?

★

Perhaps the finest development that could take place at this time is the revelation of a spirit of understanding on the part of all of us. We want to grow. We want to take our place in the nation. We insist upon marching forward. If we are to attain reasonable objectives, then we cannot think narrowly in terms of a few months or a few years. It would be a wonderful privilege to gaze upon Nebraska life 25 or 50 years hence. This special session called to deal with the tax problem could have a hand in the outline of this state as it will be a quarter of a century or more hence.

Communism

If any American is thinking about turning Communist, it is beginning to look as though Karl Marx provided the wrong textbook. One had better take a good stiff refresher course in capitalism instead. He will catch the Moscow swing better that way.

Moscow is not saying much about workers' democracies nowadays. Instead, it is announcing bigger production quotas for television, vacuum cleaners and refrigerators. More than that, Anastas Mikoyan (he is the minister of trade) thinks Russian advertising is too dull. He admires the American approach and is ordering the copy writers to get a little dash into their words.

Actually if Rusisa didn't have such a bad temper, it would be the world's most amusing nation.

Nixon Speaks For Ike, May Be '56 Candidate

WASHINGTON—The international and political furor kicked up by Vice President Nixon's speech before the American Society of Newspaper Editors has now subsided, leaving two main points very clear:

1. Dicky Nixon looms more and more definitely as the man Eisenhower has picked to succeed him in 1956.

2. There is no question whatsoever that the Eisenhower administration contemplates the use of armed force in Indo-China if necessary. Despite a modifying statement by the State Department following Nixon's speech, both the use of American ground troops and small atomic bombs have been under discussion.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEGREE IN ORATORY

The Nixon speech before the editors was not only a masterpiece; it was calculated to win him recognition from a powerful group of opinion-makers. Even Democratic editors who didn't like Nixon came away admitting that the college degree he took in public speaking was paying dividends. Jim Bassett, Nixon's old public-relations man, now PRO for the GOP National Committee, purred as he listened.

Nixon spoke for one hour without reading a manuscript and scarcely looking at his notes. His delivery had force, earnestness and a grasp of his subject. He was not partisan. The first half hour was devoted to a disarming exposition of the problems of Southeast Asia, interlaced with a pleasurable variety of personal "I was there" observations.

For instance, he told about the difficulty of getting along with cantankerous but courageous President Syngman Rhee in Korea. Then in almost the same breath he quoted a British general who was asked what was needed most in Indo-China.

"Nothing would stand us in such good stead," said the general, "as another Syngman Rhee."

The latter part of Nixon's talk was devoted to the difficulties faced in Indo-China, the political problems of the French Laniel government which could easily be overthrown because of Indo-China; the great problem of creating a spiritual leadership among the native peoples: and the U.S. alternative policy of appeasing Red China by admitting its Communist government to a seat on the United Nations.

Someone has to grit his teeth and face up to things, Nixon warned . . . It would be more expedient to compromise by giving Red China a seat on the UN, but we must adhere to principle . . . The administration has a duty to the higher interests of the nation, even if unpopular . . . It is necessary to take definite action despite the handicaps . . . American policy cannot be bogged down by uninformed public opinion on one hand or reluctant allies on the other . . . We may have to go it alone in Indo-China even though unpopular. We must hold the line at any cost regardless of political repercussions.

Note—General reaction among editors was that the vice president did a brilliant job and enhanced himself with the newspaper profession, but that the American public was a long way from being ready to send troops to Indo-China.

☆ ☆ ☆

NO TRIAL BALLOON

Some editors figured the Nixon fireside chat was a mere trial balloon sent up by the administration's No. 2 man, so that Eisenhower himself, if necessary, could deny it later. This writer deduces differently for the following reasons:

A. Ike has repeatedly, deliberately relied on Nixon to speak for him, no later than the reply to Adlai Stevenson. He has also let Nixon carry to ball as negotiator with Joe McCarthy, as the pacifier on Capitol Hill, and as the all-around political handyman of the administration.

This began partly because Ike gets both bored and tired while Dick is an eager beaver; partly because Ike doesn't understand politics and Dicky loves politics; partly because Ike hates political chores and the vice presidency is a job where time hangs heavily on one's hands. Subbing for the President began as an accident, but has now become a habit—a habit likely to be recognized when the Republicans start looking for Ike's successor in 1956.

B. The plan to stand firm in Indo-China, with U. S. forces if necessary, was drawn by the National Security Council to which Ike now delegates major decisions on foreign policy. Its Indo-Chinese decision has now become the hard-and-fixed policy of the Eisenhower administration.

As reported by this column April 8, eight days before the Nixon speech: "The current education campaign to prepare the American people for war in Indo-China was preceded by a special study by the National Security Council . . . The sending of ground troops has been under discussion. They would replace French metropolitan troops, thus relieving the political furor in Paris where it's demanded that French troops come home . . . U. S. admirals propose sending two or more airplane carriers." (The carriers are now off the Indo-China coast.)

CLOSE TO WAR

Again on April 6, ten days before the Nixon speech, this column reported: "The White House has made careful but pointed overtures to Democratic leaders to get their support in case the Eisenhower administration becomes military involved in the jungles of Indo-China."

Again on April 12, it was reported: "How near the United States has been to full scale intervention, even war in Indo-China, was emphasized as a secret meeting between Secretary of State Dulles and Adm. Arthur Radford with top congressional leaders of both political parties . . . They proposed two moves which startled Republican congressmen as much as Democrats . . . send air plane carriers from the Philippines; also long-range bombers based on Manila . . . second, a joint resolution by Congress giving the President blanket authority to do anything he deemed advisable.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Asia Defense Firmed By United Front Plea

PARIS—While it is too early for a final verdict, U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles by his sudden bold proposal for a united front to create an Asian defense system may have succeeded in maintaining the resistance to Communism in Indo-China and, therefore, in the rest of Southeast Asia. Fortunately for the West, the Dulles proposal was made against the background of the defense of Dien Bien Phu, which almost for the first time in eight years of war dramatized in personal and heroic terms that bitter jungle conflict.

So long as official French communiques from Saigon proclaimed battles in progress, battles won and rarely battles lost, the policy was to give the French almost everything they asked without putting any embarrassing questions. One of the tragic consequences is that with no pressure from the outside and with America finally taking over nearly 80 per cent of the cost of the war, the French government has never come to grips with the issue of independence for the associated states in any really meaningful sense.

There have been so many lost opportunities. Last June the French sent to Washington an urgent appeal for additional aid of $385 million to step up the war. This request precipitated a sharp division within the American government.

Some American military men and some of our diplomats here in Paris took the view that this represented a last chance. They argued that America should attach certain conditions to this new and larger grant, the first one being a pledge to ratify the European Defense Community in 90 days and the second being a promise to grant independence to the associated states.

Harold Stassen, as director of Mutual Aid, insisted that a great power such as France should not be subjected to that kind of bargaining in the midst of a war. Dulles finally decided with Stassen and the French got their increased aid with no strings either visible or invisible attached to it.

So much is happening behind the screen of words reciting battles lost and won and so little has been really known. Because their forces have been limited inasmuch as no draftee in France may be sent to Indo-China, the French had to put a strict limit on casualties. According to American sources, this limit over long periods was three per cent, so that headlined battles were often hardly more than skirmishes. Americans in both the diplomatic and military side in Saigon have found it difficult and often impossible to get facts and figures.

The situation was definitely worsened after the U.S. agreed to an armistice in Korea. When that happened the French could no longer believe that they were part of a common front against Communism in Asia. They were fighting a lonely war 10,000 miles away, with no intervening bases on that long sea route.

What one comes back to is the strange lack of co-ordination and apparently even any common base of information between Saigon, Paris and Washington. At the very time Defense Minister Rene Pleven was saying privately here that the French simply could not go on without a great augmentation both in men and in bombers that could come only from America, Eisenhower and Dulles were talking about victory and these victory assertions had been preceded only a short time before by statements that it would be a disaster for America to become engaged in the Indo-Chinese war.

Talk of America taking over a large share of responsibility for the war—particularly in the training of Viet-Namese and other local troops—gives Americans with knowledge of the conflict and the country a slight chill.

There is no use, however, walking blindly into this situation. Dulles, in the course of his talks with Bidault and Laniel, said that it was essential to get neighboring powers such as Siam, the Philippines and the British in Malaya to show their willingness to commit forces to the struggle. Otherwise he said, as reported by French participants in the discussion, the American congress would never understand a request for American military commitments. This last is certainly a diplomatic understatement. It is just possible that with a little more candor, understanding—and resolution—would increase.

FACTS FORUM BACKER

Made His Millions In Oil

Editor's Note: Edward T. Folliard of the Washington Post went into Texas for a close look at H. L. Hunt, reputed to be America's richest man, whose largess greatly supports radio's controversial Facts Forum. What he learned follows:

★

H. L. Hunt, the Texas oil colossus, doesn't reject the tag of America's "richest man." He didn't, at least, in talking to me. He merely laughed, mentioned all the money he owned, and told me how the whole thing started.

Hunt said that Life, in April of 1948, carried a picture of him (which had been snapped on the street without his knowing it) and a story, quoting its sister magazine Fortune, to the effect that he was "the richest single individual in the United States."

But though he doesn't argue about the "richest man" title, Hunt does try to combat the idea that he is the angel and guiding spirit of Facts Forum. In our talk, he agreed that he had helped it financially but he insisted that it was started in 1951 "by a group of white-collar office workers, nonprofessional young men and women."

He obviously does not want Facts Forum regarded as a one-man show—an H. L. Hunt enterprise.

Yet his office is piled high with Facts Forum literature, which he showed me, and I found that back in 1950 he was calling for the formation of an Educational Facts League.

☆ ☆ ☆

"The Facts League," he wrote in a pamphlet, "must maintain and prove that the public is entitled to the facts on both sides of all issues and cannot be pacified with the . . . kind of news which left-wing workers are willing to let them have."

He suggested that the people who would form the Facts League might call themselves "Constructives." He said that the word "conservative" had been none too popular since 1929, when the stock market crash wiped out those trying to get "something for nothing."

As for the words "liberal" and "progressive," these were fine in the beginning, he said, but had been taken over by vicious, spendthrift elements.

Constructives, Hunt said, would "expose and condemn the liberality of the Yalta-minded liberals infesting the State Department and the Commerce Department and other high places in the government, who have been and are still giving up or assisting in the surrender of the liberty of many nations and hundreds of millions of people into the tyranny of alfeged people's parties ruled by the ruthless and murderous dictators who say they also are liberals."

☆ ☆ ☆

Hunt, in our interview, said that Facts Forum was out to help the American people to be so well informed that they would be their own "strong man."

Hunt broke off the interview, led me to another room, and up to a table with stacks of Forum literature. He began handing me photostatic copies of letters that had come in from notables.

He said he hoped he would be able to find one that was critical and so show me that Facts Forum always was ready to give both sides.

There were copies of letters from Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas, Gov. Johnston Murray of Oklahoma, Gov. John S. Fine of Pennsylvania, and from Senators Price Daniel (Dem.), Texas and George W. Malone (Rep.), Nevada. All were congratulatory.

Hunt finally gave up his search for a letter "on the other side." He later suggested that I listen that night to a radio broadcast by Dan Smoot, regular moderator of Facts Forum.

Smoot's talk turned out to be a fiery reply to Time magazine's article on Hunt and Facts Forum. In the course of it, he gave Hunt far more credit for Facts Forum than Hunt had been willing to assume in talking to me.

He said it was true that, since Facts Forum is listed as a non-profit, educational organization, Facts Forum is exempt from taxes and that Hunt can deduct his contributions from his personal income tax. He said the same opportunity was open to all Americans.

Smoot said that Facts Forum programs went out over 22 television and 360 radio stations, and that the organization was getting $3,000,000 worth of free time from the broadcasting industry annually as public service.

☆ ☆ ☆

Answering Time's charge that Facts Forum's point of view was compounded of "isolationism, ultraconservatism and McCarthyism," Moderator Smoot said:

"Facts Forum has presented—and will continue to present—the views of such outstanding Americans as Senators Bricker, Jenner, McCarthy and McCarran, as long as they are prominent in public affairs. Whenever we present their point of view, we also will present the opposite point of view."

H. L. Hunt—the initials stand for Haroldson Lafayette — was born on a farm near Vandalia, Ill., in 1889.

H. L. learned to read and write by the time he was 3 years old. He attended school through the fifth grade. Then he took what amounted to an eighth-grade examination and got a diploma.

Thereafter, he began to wander and to get a very practical education as a ranch hand in California, the Dakotas and Canada, and as a lumberjack in Arizona.

In 1921 he drilled his first well on a small proven lease near El Dorado, Ark. He just about broke even on the venture, but he had picked up the oil fever. Once H. L. got started in oil, he moved fast and far, eventually winning the title of "King of the Wildcatters."

THE PEOPLE SPEAK

Local 'Honesty'

Diller, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: The governor of our state has brought forward a thought which deserves the loyal support of every citizen of Nebraska—"Operation Honesty." It is true that some people will scoff and say that this is only a slogan, designed to pull the wool over the eyes of the people. But I believe it can be much more than a slogan, and that carefully applied to the civic affairs of our state, it could mean a great improvement in the welfare of all.

In the face of this, a condition has arisen which comes as a shock to a good many citizens in the Diller area. The town maintains a good high school which receives the support of the majority of the citizens in and around Diller. Since the school building burned down last winter, the school has continued to meet and hold its high standards in the three churches, Legion hall, town hall, library and store buildings.

The need for a new high school building is apparent, and this pressing need has been recognized by the majority of citizens in 12 school districts which include the town of Diller. This majority has petitioned for the formation of a rural high school district centering in Diller. A determined minority has attacked the proposed rural high school district, either on the grounds that it would increase taxation or on the basis of personal disagreement with some of the proponents of the measure. Despite this attack, it is a matter of record that the majority of voters in the area involved have petitioned for the formation of a rural high school district.

However, those who oppose the formation of the district are finding ways to block and possibly in the end even to defeat the clearly expressed will of the majority of the citizens in this area. The issue here is indeed clear. On the one hand, the majority of voters in the area are concerned with the adequate education of the youth and the maintenance of a school which has proved its value to the community. On the other hand, a determined minority seeks to save taxes by the false idea of economizing on the education of youth.

The minority has resorted to obstruction and legal technicalities.

Comparing Prices

Riverton, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: First I must say that by all means we want a two-party system and that we all have our pro's and con's concerning each party. Do some people blame the low prices of eggs and cream on the Republican party? If so, just take a look at the record books and see that we sold eggs for 20 cents a dozen in December of 1948, with the price of feed about the same as now.

Yes, we are under a Republican administration. Things we buy are going up while what we sell is going down. But take another look at hog prices today compared to 1948. Corn was $2.50 per bushel, and I sold 80 head of hogs for $15.15—and that was under a Democratic administration. I believe the peak in high prices has been reached and after the peak, the fall must come regardless of who is in office. Under a Democratic administration, we have gone through two wars. I spent 40 months in the service during World War II, and what do wars bring? Lots of work, lots of good pay—but at the same time lots of boys killed, blinded, wounded, and in prison camps. That's the sad part. Do we know for sure that all the American boys who were captured are home and not perhaps in work camps behind the Iron Curtain? We'll never know.

Wheat, corn and other crops will fall in price, too. Why? Think of the thousands of bushels of grain now in storage, and who put it there. Yes, the Republicans get a kick in the pants for what the Democrats have done for the past 20 years.

Now, may I ask, would we rather see 24-cent eggs and 51-cent cream—or would we rather see our boys, husbands and friends fighting and have 50-cent eggs and 90-cent cream? For myself, I'll take it as it is at the present time and I'll vote again for the man we now have—Ike. I believe he is the man we need—great and honest—and that we haven't had for a long time.

Yes, if anyone wants high prices for cream, eggs and grain, he should cast his vote for the Democrats. They'll get them one way or another—and might even get a Russian "egg" in the back yard with a great big b-o-o-m.

Nixon Talk Forces Fast GOP Turnabout

WASHINGTON—The politics of the Nixon affair is that the vice president has left the Republicans up the creek on their favorite campaign issue which is that they ended the war in Korea.

For Mr. Nixon answered still another important question with remarkable candor in his famous briefing on Asia for the American Society of Newspaper Editors. That answer, as reported by the press, was as follows:

By hindsight a "better decision might have been made during the Korean war" that would have "inflicted a substantial defeat on the Chinese Communists." The end of the Korean war produced the present French crisis by permitting the Chinese Communists to increase their help to the Communist-led Viet Minh forces.

The vice president in these remarks planted a land mine on the well-defined GOP campaign trail. At least one astute Midwest editor spotted it immediately and a number of senators are about to give it their attention.

Just 24 hours earlier, House Republican Leader Charles Halleck, in a debate with minority leader John McCormack, had told the editors:

"What are we Republicans going to tell the American people in our campaign this fall? Well, first of all, we are going to tell them that we ended the war in Korea."

☆ ☆ ☆

A month and two days ago it was the vice president himself who took this line in the assignment given him by President Eisenhower to answer Adlai Stevenson. The text of his radio and television speech shows him saying:

"Right now the question is how has the administration policy worked? . . . . Well, first, the Korean war has been brought to an end.

"Now, since Mr. Stevenson objects to this policy and since he hasn't said what he is for, I would like to ask him some questions.

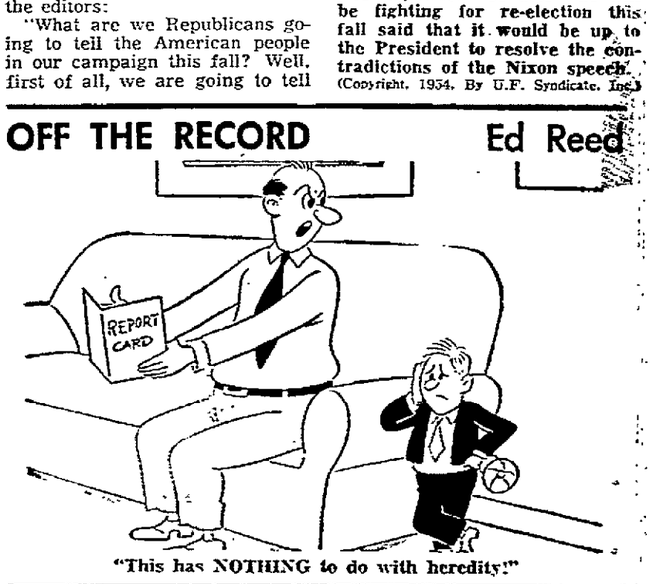

"First, does he think the Korean war should not have been stopped? Does he favor having more Korean-type wars all over the world?"

Most experienced politicians are wary of rhetorical questions. Some of them are now saying that they were never more sure that such questions are apt to backfire in a most embarrassing manner.

A Republican senator who will be fighting for re-election this fall said that it would be up to the President to resolve the contradictions of the Nixon speech.

OFF THE RECORD — Ed Reed

"This has NOTHING to do with heredity!"

For A Bipartisan Policy

We think Sen. Sparkman's plea for a return to bipartisan policy in foreign affairs is both timely and urgent.

Surely there is nothing in the gathering crisis in Indo-China that divides Republicans and Democrats. In a very large sense, partisanship should and must end at the water's edge if this nation is to survive in a dangerous world.

There seems to be something in the air destructive to the spirit that brought about unified action by the free peoples in their struggle against totalitarian ideas. Britain, for example, in its maturity by common consent presented a united front in the foreign field until recent months. Now the Labor group there, or an essential part of it, is at sword's point with the Churchill government, and still worse, the British Labor party is split into two sharply warring factions no less divided than British Labor and the British Conservatives under Churchill.

There is no real unanimity within Republican ranks on foreign policy. The split there is deeply rooted and is serious. Mr. Eisenhower actually can depend more upon Democratic support in certain areas of foreign policy than he can rely upon the two factions of his own party.

The recent blowup resulting from a speech made by Vice President Nixon is not clarified in any sense by Secretary of State Dulles's latest statement to members of Congress. Two senators meeting in Washington Tuesday with Mr. Dulles told newsmen that no decision to dispatch American fighting forces to Indo-China is being considered. If that is the case, then what was the vice president talking about when he addressed the American Society of Newspaper Editors? He had been asked a hypothetical question, it is true. What he said in answer fitted in very well with recent statements coming from the administration.

While bipartisan policy will not influence developments in Indo-China, a little closer liaison between Republican and Democratic leadership in Washington will contribute materially to understanding here at home. There will be fewer confusing charges and counter charges.

The Quiet Places

One Nebraska newspaperman has given the matter some careful thought over a period of time, and has worked out to his own satisfaction the exact psychological moment for a proposed course of action.

Harold L. Spence, who edits the worthy Holdrege Citizen, only recently acquired membership in a unique organization known as the Underground Press Club, the headquarters of which is a five-story cave near Stanton, Mo. Here one descends deep into Mother Earth—so far, indeed, that nothing more distracting is to be heard than, in Mr. Spence's words, "an occasional tiny drip of water from the roof or the stealthy slithering of a lizard across the floor." There are facilities for hunting there, and for fishing and for boating and a lodge has been constructed for housing and meals. And to this subterranean seclusion Editor Spence will beat his retreat "just before the jangling phones, the clatter of the teletype and linotypes, the rumbling of presses and the constant looming of deadlines drives the writer of these paragraphs to the bughouse."

We can well understand the daily pressures prompting the desire of a fellow worker to "get away from it all." But we can't quite go along with his choice of a utopian Shangri La for complete enjoyment of what should in the very nature of the enterprise be an ethereal exile.

Take fishing, for example—and who could not take a little those warming days, with spring beckoning one out and away? The pleasure lies not wholly in the take-home catch. Indeed, with many avid anglers, that is the least of the game. For the full measure, one must prop oneself against a friendly willow or find a curve of earth in the stream bank to fit the contours of relaxed body muscles. Prime ingredients include also an ancient, battered and well-loved hat, the fishing gear—and here simplicity is the order, since it is the complexities one has cast aside for the moment—and a paper sack containing peanut butter sandwiches and an apple. No dank, dark depths for us, please, nor "slithering of a lizard across the floor." We'll take the feel of the warm sun on the back of our neck and shoulders, and the dapple of sunlight and shadow on bank and stream, an occasional trill of a woodland warbler and the small water sounds as the cork bobs lazily at line's end. Time is a myth here and the tempo of living slows to a state of near-suspension. The unsnarling of nerve knots is done so effortlessly that there is not even an awareness of its accomplishment.

The increasing need for these quiet havens of serenity was emphasized in the recent news story concerning Justice William Douglas's pilgrimage on foot along the old Chesapeake and Ohio Canal for a distance of 189 miles. There had been some advocacy of building a roadway bordering the now-abandoned canal. Mr. Douglas wanted it left as it was, took the walk to prove it. "A refuge," he described it. "A long stretch of quiet and peace . . . a wilderness where man can be alone with his thoughts . . . a place not yet marred by the roar of wheels and the sound of horns."

And if in the end, another Nebraska writer comments, man deprives himself of the spots where from time to time he can step out of the mainstream for a period of contemplation, he will eventually lose sight of the meaning of his existence.

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

We do not envy the conscientious members of the Nebraska Unicameral Legislature in the assigned task which falls to them in the calling of a special session, starting Tuesday. In the fullest sense, the business at hand is not an emergency. To dismiss it as such is folly. Actually what they are called in special session for is a revision of Nebraska's tax structure, which is not a short-order assignment.

★

What it is proposed shall be done may influence Nebraska thinking for years to come. In the field of taxation, there is nothing in human behavior to suggest the will in political leadership to apply the system of trial and error generously. Chances are that we will live with whatever decisions are reached for a long time. One paragraph of Gov. Crosby's address to the special legislative session is unforgettable. "As of that time (Nebraska's tax procedures prior to the supreme court decision on January 9, 1953), the assessment picture in Nebraska was a fantastic pattern of injustice," the governor said. "Among the 93 counties, farm land assessments ranged from an estimated 56 per cent of market value to as low as 21 per cent; and town real estate, from 37 per cent to as low as 13 per cent. Cattle were assessed at 75 per cent of market value, automobiles at about 80 per cent, grain at still a different per cent. Non-exempt household goods and personal equipment (excepting special household equipment) in some counties averaged $127.50 per schedule; in other counties, as low as $11.68. In some counties, schedules of business merchandise were estimated to average 49 per cent of actual value; in other counties, as low as 15 per cent. All of this was true notwithstanding that the constitution required uniformity and the state law required assessment at 100 per cent of actual value."

Is This A Portrait Of Nebraskans?

★

We assume the figures utilized by the governor were furnished him from the records of assessing authorities. Yet it is a little bit difficult to believe that this is a full, complete, finished portrait of the conscience of most Nebraskans. If it is, then there can be only one conclusion. The people of Nebraska in honest spirit do not accept the tax structure which they say shall constitute an adequate base for raising the revenue necessary for the support of government at the state level, and for political subdivisions below that.

★

In the truest sense, this special legislative session is not for the purpose of drawing up a tax program to fit needs in 1955, 1960, or any immediate year ahead. If that is the objective, then all that we are doing is improvising to meet an emergency. Over the long pull, we are settling nothing. Thoughtful people, we believe, will have doubts in their minds when it comes to thinking that the appointment rather than the election of assessors would furnish the answer to the fundamental problem involved. That fundamental problem, it must be acknowledged in honest spirit, is whether the present tax base can continue indefinitely to bear all the burdens of the costs of government, burdens which have continued to increase through years of inflation. We are sure that economies are possible, and equally sure that even the practice of the sternest frugality in state government still will not make a great deal of difference in the individual tax bill. State government itself claims a relatively small share of the tax dollar. Other political subdivisions take more of it.

What Of The Years Ahead?

★

Perhaps the finest development that could take place at this time is the revelation of a spirit of understanding on the part of all of us. We want to grow. We want to take our place in the nation. We insist upon marching forward. If we are to attain reasonable objectives, then we cannot think narrowly in terms of a few months or a few years. It would be a wonderful privilege to gaze upon Nebraska life 25 or 50 years hence. This special session called to deal with the tax problem could have a hand in the outline of this state as it will be a quarter of a century or more hence.

Communism

If any American is thinking about turning Communist, it is beginning to look as though Karl Marx provided the wrong textbook. One had better take a good stiff refresher course in capitalism instead. He will catch the Moscow swing better that way.

Moscow is not saying much about workers' democracies nowadays. Instead, it is announcing bigger production quotas for television, vacuum cleaners and refrigerators. More than that, Anastas Mikoyan (he is the minister of trade) thinks Russian advertising is too dull. He admires the American approach and is ordering the copy writers to get a little dash into their words.

Actually if Rusisa didn't have such a bad temper, it would be the world's most amusing nation.

Nixon Speaks For Ike, May Be '56 Candidate

WASHINGTON—The international and political furor kicked up by Vice President Nixon's speech before the American Society of Newspaper Editors has now subsided, leaving two main points very clear:

1. Dicky Nixon looms more and more definitely as the man Eisenhower has picked to succeed him in 1956.

2. There is no question whatsoever that the Eisenhower administration contemplates the use of armed force in Indo-China if necessary. Despite a modifying statement by the State Department following Nixon's speech, both the use of American ground troops and small atomic bombs have been under discussion.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEGREE IN ORATORY

The Nixon speech before the editors was not only a masterpiece; it was calculated to win him recognition from a powerful group of opinion-makers. Even Democratic editors who didn't like Nixon came away admitting that the college degree he took in public speaking was paying dividends. Jim Bassett, Nixon's old public-relations man, now PRO for the GOP National Committee, purred as he listened.

Nixon spoke for one hour without reading a manuscript and scarcely looking at his notes. His delivery had force, earnestness and a grasp of his subject. He was not partisan. The first half hour was devoted to a disarming exposition of the problems of Southeast Asia, interlaced with a pleasurable variety of personal "I was there" observations.

For instance, he told about the difficulty of getting along with cantankerous but courageous President Syngman Rhee in Korea. Then in almost the same breath he quoted a British general who was asked what was needed most in Indo-China.

"Nothing would stand us in such good stead," said the general, "as another Syngman Rhee."

The latter part of Nixon's talk was devoted to the difficulties faced in Indo-China, the political problems of the French Laniel government which could easily be overthrown because of Indo-China; the great problem of creating a spiritual leadership among the native peoples; and the U.S. alternative policy of appeasing Red China by admitting its Communist government to a seat on the United Nations.

Someone has to grit his teeth and face up to things, Nixon warned . . . It would be more expedient to compromise by giving Red China a seat on the UN, but we must adhere to principle . . . The administration has a duty to the higher interests of the nation, even if unpopular . . . It is necessary to take definite action despite the handicaps . . . American policy cannot be bogged down by uninformed public opinion on one hand or reluctant allies on the other . . . We may have to go it alone in Indo-China even though unpopular. We must hold the line at any cost regardless of political repercussions.

Note—General reaction among editors was that the vice president did a brilliant job and enhanced himself with the newspaper profession, but that the American public was a long way from being ready to send troops to Indo-China.

☆ ☆ ☆

NO TRIAL BALLOON

Some editors figured the Nixon fireside chat was a mere trial balloon sent up by the administration's No. 2 man, so that Eisenhower himself, if necessary, could deny it later. This writer deduces differently for the following reasons:

A. Ike has repeatedly, deliberately relied on Nixon to speak for him, no later than the reply to Adlai Stevenson. He has also let Nixon carry to ball as negotiator with Joe McCarthy, as the pacifier on Capitol Hill, and as the all-around political handyman of the administration.

This began partly because Ike gets both bored and tired while Dick is an eager beaver; partly because Ike doesn't understand politics and Dicky loves politics; partly because Ike hates political chores and the vice presidency is a job where time hangs heavily on one's hands. Subbing for the President began as an accident, but has now become a habit—a habit likely to be recognized when the Republicans start looking for Ike's successor in 1956.

B. The plan to stand firm in Indo-China, with U. S. forces if necessary, was drawn by the National Security Council to which Ike now delegates major decisions on foreign policy. Its Indo-Chinese decision has now become the hard-and-fixed policy of the Eisenhower administration.

As reported by this column April 8, eight days before the Nixon speech: "The current education campaign to prepare the American people for war in Indo-China was preceded by a special study by the National Security Council . . . The sending of ground troops has been under discussion. They would replace French metropolitan troops, thus relieving the political furor in Paris where it's demanded that French troops come home . . . U. S. admirals propose sending two or more airplane carriers." (The carriers are now off the Indo-China coast.)

CLOSE TO WAR

Again on April 6, ten days before the Nixon speech, this column reported: "The White House has made careful but pointed overtures to Democratic leaders to get their support in case the Eisenhower administration becomes military involved in the jungles of Indo-China."

Again on April 12, it was reported: "How near the United States has been to full scale intervention, even war in Indo-China, was emphasized as a secret meeting between Secretary of State Dulles and Adm. Arthur Radford with top congressional leaders of both political parties . . . They proposed two moves which startled Republican congressmen as much as Democrats . . . send air plane carriers from the Philippines; also long-range bombers based on Manila . . . second, a joint resolution by Congress giving the President blanket authority to do anything he deemed advisable.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Asia Defense Firmed By United Front Plea

PARIS—While it is too early for a final verdict, U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles by his sudden bold proposal for a united front to create an Asian defense system may have succeeded in maintaining the resistance to Communism in Indo-China and, therefore, in the rest of Southeast Asia. Fortunately for the West, the Dulles proposal was made against the background of the defense of Dien Bien Phu, which almost for the first time in eight years of war dramatized in personal and heroic terms that bitter jungle conflict.

So long as official French communiques from Saigon proclaimed battles in progress, battles won and rarely battles lost, the policy was to give the French almost everything they asked without putting any embarrassing questions. One of the tragic consequences is that with no pressure from the outside and with America finally taking over nearly 80 per cent of the cost of the war, the French government has never come to grips with the issue of independence for the associated states in any really meaningful sense.

There have been so many lost opportunities. Last June the French sent to Washington an urgent appeal for additional aid of $385 million to step up the war. This request precipitated a sharp division within the American government.

Some American military men and some of our diplomats here in Paris took the view that this represented a last chance. They argued that America should attach certain conditions to this new and larger grant, the first one being a pledge to ratify the European Defense Community in 90 days and the second being a promise to grant independence to the associated states.

Harold Stassen, as director of Mutual Aid, insisted that a great power such as France should not be subjected to that kind of bargaining in the midst of a war. Dulles finally decided with Stassen and the French got their increased aid with no strings either visible or invisible attached to it.

So much has happened behind the screen of words reciting battles lost and won and so little has been really known. Because their forces have been limited inasmuch as no draftee in France may be sent to Indo-China, the French had to put a strict limit on casualties. According to American sources, this limit over long periods was three per cent, so that headlined battles were often hardly more than skirmishes. Americans in both the diplomatic and military side in Saigon have found it difficult and often impossible to get facts and figures.

The situation was definitely worsened after the U.S. agreed to an armistice in Korea. When that happened the French could no longer believe that they were part of a common front against Communism in Asia. They were fighting a lonely war 10,000 miles away, with no intervening bases on that long sea route.

What one comes back to is the strange lack of co-ordination and apparently even any common base of information between Saigon, Paris and Washington. At the very time Defense Minister Rene Pleven was saying privately here that the French simply could not go on without a great augmentation both in men and in bombers that could come only from America, Eisenhower and Dulles were talking about victory and these victory assertions had been preceded only a short time before by statements that it would be a disaster for America to become engaged in the Indo-Chinese war.

Talk of America taking over a large share of responsibility for the war—particularly in the training of Viet-Namese and other local troops—gives Americans with knowledge of the conflict and the country a slight chill.

There is no use, however, walking blindly into this situation. Dulles, in the course of his talks with Bidault and Laniel, said that it was essential to get neighboring powers such as Siam, the Philippines and the British in Malaya to show their willingness to commit forces to the struggle. Otherwise he said, as reported by French participants in the discussion, the American congress would never understand a request for American military commitments. This last is certainly a diplomatic understatement. It is just possible that with a little more candor, understanding—and resolution—would increase.

FACTS FORUM BACKER

Made His Millions In Oil

Editor's Note: Edward T. Folliard of the Washington Post went into Texas for a close look at H. L. Hunt, reputed to be America's richest man, whose largess greatly supports radio's controversial Facts Forum. What he learned follows:

★

H. L. Hunt, the Texas oil colossus, doesn't reject the tag of America's "richest man." He didn't, at least, in talking to me. He merely laughed, mentioned all the money he owned, and told me how the whole thing started.

Hunt said that Life, in April of 1948, carried a picture of him (which had been snapped on the street without his knowing it) and a story, quoting its sister magazine Fortune, to the effect that he was "the richest single individual in the United States."

But though he doesn't argue about the "richest man" title, Hunt does try to combat the idea that he is the angel and guiding spirit of Facts Forum. In our talk, he agreed that he had helped it financially but he insisted that it was started in 1951 "by a group of white-collar office workers, nonprofessional young men and women."

He obviously does not want Facts Forum regarded as a one-man show—an H. L. Hunt enterprise.

Yet his office is piled high with Facts Forum literature, which he showed me, and I found that back in 1950 he was calling for the formation of an Educational Facts League.

☆ ☆ ☆

"The Facts League," he wrote in a pamphlet, "must maintain and prove that the public is entitled to the facts on both sides of all issues and cannot be pacified with the . . . kind of news which left-wing workers are willing to let them have."

He suggested that the people who would form the Facts League might call themselves "Constructives." He said that the word "conservative" had been none too popular since 1929, when the stock market crash wiped out those trying to get "something for nothing."

As for the words "liberal" and "progressive," these were fine in the beginning, he said, but had been taken over by vicious, spendthrift elements.

Constructives, Hunt said, would "expose and condemn the liberality of the Yalta-minded liberals infesting the State Department and the Commerce Department and other high places in the government, who have been and are still giving up or assisting in the surrender of the liberty of many nations and hundreds of millions of people into the tyranny of alleged people's parties ruled by the ruthless and murderous dictators who say they also are liberals."

☆ ☆ ☆

Hunt, in our interview, said that Facts Forum was out to help the American people to be so well informed that they would be their own "strong man."

Hunt broke off the interview, led me to another room, and up to a table with stacks of Forum literature. He began handing me photostatic copies of letters that had come in from notables.

He said he hoped he would be able to find one that was critical and so show me that Facts Forum always was ready to give both sides.

There were copies of letters from Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas, Gov. Johnston Murray of Oklahoma, Gov. John S. Fine of Pennsylvania, and from Senators Price Daniel (Dem.), Texas and George W. Malone (Rep.), Nevada. All were congratulatory.

Hunt finally gave up his search for a letter "on the other side." He later suggested that I listen that night to a radio broadcast by Dan Smoot, regular moderator of Facts Forum.

Smoot's talk turned out to be a fiery reply to Time magazine's article on Hunt and Facts Forum. In the course of it, he gave Hunt far more credit for Facts Forum than Hunt had been willing to assume in talking to me.

He said it was true that, since Facts Forum is listed as a non-profit, educational organization, Facts Forum is exempt from taxes and that Hunt can deduct his contributions from his personal income tax. He said the same opportunity was open to all Americans.

Smoot said that Facts Forum programs went out over 22 television and 360 radio stations, and that the organization was getting $3,000,000 worth of free time from the broadcasting industry annually as public service.

☆ ☆ ☆

Answering Time's charge that Facts Forum's point of view was compounded of "isolationism, ultraconservatism and McCarthyism," Moderator Smoot said:

"Facts Forum has presented—and will continue to present—the views of such outstanding Americans as Senators Bricker, Jenner, McCarthy and McCarran, as long as they are prominent in public affairs. Whenever we present their point of view, we also will present the opposite point of view."

H. L. Hunt—the initials stand for Haroldson Lafayette — was born on a farm near Vandalia, Ill., in 1889.

H. L. learned to read and write by the time he was 3 years old. He attended school through the fifth grade. Then he took what amounted to an eighth-grade examination and got a diploma.

Thereafter, he began to wander and to get a very practical education as a ranch hand in California, the Dakotas and Canada, and as a lumberjack in Arizona.

In 1921 he drilled his first well on a small proven lease near El Dorado, Ark. He just about broke even on the venture, but he had picked up the oil fever. Once H. L. got started in oil, he moved fast and far, eventually winning the title of "King of the Wildcatters."

THE PEOPLE SPEAK

Local 'Honesty'

Diller, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: The governor of our state has brought forward a thought which deserves the loyal support of every citizen of Nebraska—"Operation Honesty." It is true that some people will scoff and say that this is only a slogan, designed to pull the wool over the eyes of the people. But I believe it can be much more than a slogan, and that carefully applied to the civic affairs of our state, it could mean a great improvement in the welfare of all.

In the face of this, a condition has arisen which comes as a shock to a good many citizens in the Diller area. The town maintains a good high school which receives the support of the majority of the citizens in and around Diller. Since the school building burned down last winter, the school has continued to meet and hold its high standards in the three churches, Legion hall, town hall, library and store buildings.

The need for a new high school building is apparent, and this pressing need has been recognized by the majority of citizens in 12 school districts which include the town of Diller. This majority has petitioned for the formation of a rural high school district centering in Diller. A determined minority has attacked the proposed rural high school district, either on the grounds that it would increase taxation or on the basis of personal disagreement with some of the proponents of the measure. Despite this attack, it is a matter of record that the majority of voters in the area involved have petitioned for the formation of a rural high school district.

However, those who oppose the formation of the district are finding ways to block and possibly in the end even to defeat the clearly expressed will of the majority of the citizens in this area. The issue here is indeed clear. On the one hand, the majority of voters in the area are concerned with the adequate education of the youth and the maintenance of a school which has proved its value to the community. On the other hand, a determined minority seeks to save taxes by the false idea of economizing on the education of youth.

The minority has resorted to obstruction and legal technicalities.

Comparing Prices

Riverton, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: First I must say that by all means we want a two-party system and that we all have our pro's and con's concerning each party. Do some people blame the low prices of eggs and cream on the Republican party? If so, just take a look at the record books and see that we sold eggs for 20 cents a dozen in December of 1948, with the price of feed about the same as now.

Yes, we are under a Republican administration. Things we buy are going up while what we sell is going down. But take another look at hog prices today compared to 1948. Corn was $2.50 per bushel, and I sold 80 head of hogs for $15.15—and that was under a Democratic administration. I believe the peak in high prices has been reached and after the peak, the fall must come regardless of who is in office. Under a Democratic administration, we have gone through two wars. I spent 40 months in the service during World War II, and what do wars bring? Lots of work, lots of good pay—but at the same time lots of boys killed, blinded, wounded, and in prison camps. That's the sad part. Do we know for sure that all the American boys who were captured are home and not perhaps in work camps behind the Iron Curtain? We'll never know.

Wheat, corn and other crops will fall in price, too. Why? Think of the thousands of bushels of grain now in storage, and who put it there. Yes, the Republicans get a kick in the pants for what the Democrats have done for the past 20 years.

Now, may I ask, would we rather see 24-cent eggs and 51-cent cream—or would we rather see our boys, husbands and friends fighting and have 50-cent eggs and 90-cent cream? For myself, I'll take it as it is at the present time and I'll vote again for the man we now have—Ike. I believe he is the man we need—great and honest—and that we haven't had for a long time.

Yes, if anyone wants high prices for cream, eggs and grain, he should cast his vote for the Democrats. They'll get them one way or another—and might even get a Russian "egg" in the back yard with a great big b-o-o-m.

Nixon Talk Forces Fast GOP Turnabout

WASHINGTON—The politics of the Nixon affair is that the vice president has left the Republicans up the creek on their favorite campaign issue which is that they ended the war in Korea.

For Mr. Nixon answered still another important question with remarkable candor in his famous briefing on Asia for the American Society of Newspaper Editors. That answer, as reported by the press, was as follows:

By hindsight a "better decision might have been made during the Korean war" that would have "inflicted a substantial defeat on the Chinese Communists." The end of the Korean war produced the present French crisis by permitting the Chinese Communists to increase their help to the Communist-led Viet Minh forces.

The vice president in these remarks planted a land mine on the well-defined GOP campaign trail. At least one astute Midwest editor spotted it immediately and a number of senators are about to give it their attention.

Just 24 hours earlier, House Republican Leader Charles Halleck, in a debate with minority leader John McCormack, had told the editors:

"What are we Republicans going to tell the American people in our campaign this fall? Well, first of all, we are going to tell them that we ended the war in Korea."

☆ ☆ ☆

A month and two days ago it was the vice president himself who took this line in the assignment given him by President Eisenhower to answer Adlai Stevenson. The text of his radio and television speech shows him saying:

"Right now the question is how has the administration policy worked? . . . . Well, first, the Korean war has been brought to an end.

"Now, since Mr. Stevenson objects to this policy and since he hasn't said what he is for, I would like to ask him some questions.

"First, does he think the Korean war should not have been stopped? Does he favor having more Korean-type wars all over the world?"

Most experienced politicians are wary of rhetorical questions. Some of them are now saying that they were never more sure that such questions are apt to backfire in a most embarrassing manner.

A Republican senator who will be fighting for re-election this fall said that it would be up to the President to resolve the contradictions of the Nixon speech.

Arbor Day Planting

At the Arbor Day program of Saratoga PTA Tuesday afternoon, Dr. Steven Watkins, superintendent of Lincoln schools, accepted the gift of four, large pin oak trees from the PTA and presided at the planting ceremony, in which each pupil of Saratoga School participated.

Following a program by the Lincoln PTA Mothersingers and the Saratoga chorus, the members elected officers for the ensuing year: Mrs. Alexander Bauer, president; Mrs. Myron White, first vice president; Miss Irene Williams, second vice president; Mrs. Max Wells, secretary; Mrs. Victor Bender, treasurer; and state convention delegates, Mrs. White and Mrs. Bauer.

Appointed to help with the Saratoga polio clinic were Mrs. Donald Peterson, Mrs. John Schick, Mrs. Gerald Lovgren, Mrs. Richard Pri, Mrs. Wells, Mrs. Bauer and Mrs. Bender.

NEWS AROUND TOWN

THE NEWS around town isn't particularly startling this morning—we haven't any surprise announcements to make at the moment—but we have some coming up—We have no travelers trekking off to exotic places—no noted guests arriving—but we do have mild, pleasant activity on the home front.

* * *

BUT WHEN we mentioned guests a moment ago, we were reminded that Mr. and Mrs. Ben James of Carlinville, Ill., left yesterday to return to their home after spending a long Easter week-end in Lincoln—the guests of their son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Ben James, Jr., and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Eiche.

* * *

SOMEONE told us that Miss Barbara Curry had an 18th birthday anniversary last Sunday, but celebrated the event on Tuesday evening when she entertained 25 feminine members of the Lincoln high school senior class, at dinner at her home. The after dinner hours were spent informally.

* * *

UNDERSTAND that Dr. and Mrs. George Westgate of Kansas City, who are coming for the wedding of their nephew, Robert W. Kinsey, and Miss Dorris Newman on Saturday afternoon, will not arrive in time for Friday evening's prenuptial dinner. However during their week-end stay Dr. and Mrs. Westgate will be the house guests of Dr. Westgate's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wythers.

* * *

WE HEAR that Mrs. Eugene Argo, who will be remembered by former Lincoln school friends as Miss Tri McFarland, plans to plane in from Kansas City on Friday afternoon, and will be the house guest of her aunt, Mrs. C.W.D. Kinsey, and Mr. Kinsey.

* * *

TONIGHT is the night that Mrs. Ted Barger and her daughter, Mrs. William Hein, Jr., are to be hostesses at the home of Mrs. Barger, when they entertain at a dessert supper in prenuptial courtesy to Miss Ruthe Jewett whose marriage to John T. Small takes place on May 1. The soon-to-bride will be presented with a hostess gift.

* * *

AND THE parties already have begin for Miss Ann Sidner—Kappa Alpha Theta at Nebraska—whose marriage to Everts Sibbernsen will take place on June 30.

Last Thursday Miss Sidner was the honoree at a party in Fremont when Mrs. Francis Orshek, Mrs. Alfred Christiansen and Mrs. Robert Brown were hostesses at the home of Mrs. Orshek. The 25 guests presented Miss Sidner with a kitchen shower.

* * *

LEARNED this morning that Kappa Kappa Gamma Sally Hall, who is to marry Kenneth Rystrom on June 13, has chosen Mrs. Lawrence Ozenberger, the former Terry Barnes, as her matron of honor. Her maid of honor will be Miss Ann Griffis, and the bridesmaids will be Miss Barbara Rystrom, Bayard, sister of the bridegroom; and Miss Barbara Raun, Dennison, Ia. Miss Nancy Misko of York is to be the junior bridesmaid.

Walter W. Barton of Grand Island will serve Mr. Rystrom as best man, and the ushers will include Stanley Sipple, Nebraska City; Victor Hall, Holdrege, and Gary Fussleman, Bristow.

Guest Of Tri-Delta

The honored guest at the April meeting of the Delta Delta Delta Alliance, Tuesday evening, was Mrs. Walter Mead (center) of Ames, Ia., district chairman of the sorority, who arrived in Lincoln Tuesday afternoon for an official visit with the alumnae members.

Pictured with Mrs. Mead are Mrs. Earl Lampshire, Alliance president (at right) and Mrs. Sidney Bradley (at left), who was elected new president of the group Tuesday evening.

Other new officers will be Miss Marlene Oehrle, first vice president; Mrs. Raymond Dein, second vice president; Mrs. Paul Burden, recording secretary; Mrs. Robert Mullen, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Fritz Davis, treasurer; and Mrs. Evan Benjamin, publicity chairman.

Theta Alumnae Honor Seniors

The members of the Kappa Alpha Theta Alumnae Club will entertain at a brunch honoring the graduating seniors at the home of Mrs. James Swanson, 12 o'clock on Saturday, April 24.

Included in the hostess committee are Mrs. Fred Stiner, chairman; Mrs. Don Etmund, Mrs. Martin Aitken, Mrs. Lee Chapin, Mrs. Richard Spangler, Mrs. William Kimball, Mrs. R. W. Smith, Mrs. John C. Whitten, Mrs. Thomas Woods, Mrs. J. R. Stilwell and Mrs. Richard Smith.

New Officers Elected

Following a dessert luncheon Tuesday afternoon, the members of the University of Nebraska Faculty Newcomers club elected officers for next year. From left to right are Mrs. Everett E. Peterson, vice president; Mrs. Warren Engelhard, president; and Mrs. Robert DeWitt, treasurer. Mrs. Francis Haskins, new secretary, is not included in the picture.

Mrs. Paul Clayton, outgoing president, presided at the meeting which was followed by a program on flower arranging.

WOMAN'S EXCHANGE

Tricks With Blouses

By JOHN POWERS

A smartly dressed woman possesses a wardrobe of blouses to vary her suits, and make costume-perfect her skirts and leisure-time trousers. There are few items that expand your "what to wear today" potential the way a blouse does.

Suppose you are going directly from the office to a dinner date. The suit that looks so trim in your at-work atmosphere may not satisfy your wishes for at-play sophistication. But a jeweled costume shirt or a halter blouse of interesting fabric may be your answer, hidden 'neath your jacket by day, revealed by night.

For at-home entertaining, wear a gaily tucked or ruffled shirt in an exciting, "hot" color with your tapered slacks or your wide skirt — the perfect hostess costume for the perfect hostess!

Judging by what the Powers Girls are wearing these days, the shirt's the thing. With straight skirts and suits they wear tailored shirts — striped, solid color or patterned — in silk, linen or dacron. They borrow a man's style note by wearing French cuffed shirts with glittering cuff links larger than man-size.

I asked my stylist for suggestions to give you on what is newest in blouses. Here are her fashion notes just as she gave them to me:

"Cotton knits (once limited to the T-shirt) in fancy versions; tweed and tapestry patterns; new silhouettes — the halter top, the ribbed knit "bell hop" jacket;

"Feminine jewel-sparked linens; ruffled embroidered cottons for dressy occasions; the dimity 'choir boy' blouse, frill-touched nylon or dacron tricot; silk and orlon surah with permanently pleated accents (even pleated sleeves) and printed or pique-weave dacron; acetate sharkskin."

Epilogue to my stylist's fashion talk is this: The appearance of your blouse is as important as the way it is styled. Soap-and-water freshness is indispensable to the well-groomed look, so check on a blouse's upkeep (is it washable?) before you buy it!

Touch with Pepper

Pepper turns that trick with ever so many foods—and especially with toasted cheese sandwiches——Try it this way:

TOASTED CHEESE SANDWICHES

Brush bread slices with melted margarine or butter on one side. Place cheese slices on unbuttered sides of half the slices. Sprinkle with freshly ground black pepper. Cover with remaining bread slices—buttered side up. Toast on electric sandwich grill until golden brown and cheese is melted. If desired, thin tomato slices, cooked bacon strips, thin onion rings, stuffed olive slices, etc. may be arranged on top of the cheese before toasting.

If electric grill is not available, sandwiches may be made in a greased heavy skillet or on a pancake griddle. A small plate or wooden block placed on top acts as a weight and presses the sandwiches together, but is not necessary.

For open faced sandwiches, toast one side of the bread. Spread untoasted sides with margarine or butter and cover with cheese slices. Sprinkle with freshly ground black pepper. Broil just until cheese is melted and edges of bread are golden brown. Thin tomato slices, onion slices, cooked bacon strips, etc., may be arranged on cheese before broiling.

To Entertain Birthday Club

Mrs. Frank Effinger Sr., will be hostess to the members of her Birthday Club at a 1 o'clock dessert luncheon, Thursday, honoring Mrs. O. C. Schreiner. Gifts will be presented to the honoree, and the afternoon will be spent with cards.

I asked my stylist for suggestions to give you on what is newest in blouses. Here are her fashion notes just as she gave them to me:

"Cotton knits (once limited to the T-shirt) in fancy versions; tweed and tapestry patterns; new silhouettes — the halter top, the ribbed knit "bell hop" jacket;

"Feminine jewel-sparked linens; ruffled embroidered cottons for dressy occasion; the dimity 'choir boy' blouse, frill-touched nylon or dacron tricot; silk and orlon surah with permanently pleated accents (even pleated sleeves) and printed or pique-weave dacron; acetate sharkskin."

Epilogue to my stylist's fashion talk is this: The appearance of your blouse is as important as the way it is styled. Soap-and-water freshness is indispensable to the well-groomed look, so check on a blouse's upkeep (is it washable?) before you buy it!

Touch with Pepper

Pepper turns that trick with ever so many foods—and especially with toasted cheese sandwiches——Try it this way:

TOASTED CHEESE SANDWICHES

Brush bread slices with melted margarine or butter on one side. Place cheese slices on unbuttered sides of half the slices. Sprinkle with freshly ground black pepper. Cover with remaining bread slices—buttered side up. Toast on electric sandwich grill until golden brown and cheese is melted. If desired, thin tomato slices, cooked bacon strips, thin onion rings, stuffed olive slices, etc. may be arranged on top of the cheese before toasting.

If electric grill is not available, sandwiches may be made in a greased heavy skillet or on a pancake griddle. A small plate or wooden block placed on top acts as a weight and presses the sandwiches together, but is not necessary.

For open faced sandwiches, toast one side of the bread. Spread untoasted sides with margarine or butter and cover with cheese slices. Sprinkle with freshly ground black pepper. Broil just until cheese is melted and edges of bread are golden brown. Thin tomato slices, onion slices, cooked bacon strips, etc., may be arranged on cheese before broiling.

The Hope for Hopeless Hair

A RESTOR TREATMENT is just what the name implies, it restores hair to a normal condition, for the many ills of hair, excessive dryness, split ends or damage from improper treatment. It is the quick restoration with the help of keratin, a protein found in normal hair which is often lost when the hair is abused or neglected for a month or two.

RESTOR is a solution of elements for hair designed to penetrate the hair shaft and remain there to revive, strengthen and add weight to limp, dull, scanty, bleached, drab and dyed hair. It will definitely change the appearance with just a single treatment to a more natural look and will make it feel like new grown hair, resulting in a defined and lustrous appearance. more satisfactory permanent waves and will prevent fading in tinted hair.

The whole process takes no longer than a few more minutes and helps to make a bygone of unruly hair.

Horseplay Highlights Opening Session

By ODELL HANSON
Associated Press Writer

They greased the Nebraska legislative machine with horseplay to get it rolling Tuesday.

For 25 minutes, while Lt. Gov. Charles Warner and Clerk Hugo Srb were pressing the buttons and pulling the switches to put the nation's only Unicameral in gear, the senators let themselves go.

It was something akin to a reunion of the class of '36 at the old alma mater.

And it was fun while it lasted.

Sworn In

Clyde Cretsinger of Paxton, who had just been sworn in as a replacement senator, got up to acknowledge a greeting and explain why his predecessor, Sen. Josh Brown of Brule, had resigned.

Brown did not want to come back, said Cretsinger.

"Who did?" interjected a colleague and laughs rolled around the chamber.

Then there was Sen. Harry Pizer of North Platte, a bachelor, who got up to move that a committee of one (normally there are more) be named to escort Mrs. Robert Crosby and Mrs. Charles Warner into the chamber.

Lt. Gov. Warner, presiding, took the cue, and the beaming Pizer strode proudly down the aisle, one woman on each arm. He deposited them with a low bow in chairs at the front of the chamber while Warner philosophized aloud: "The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world."

That's the way it went—good-natured, light-hearted stuff.

Sen. Arthur Carmody of Trenton made a welcoming speech for Sen. Cretsinger.

He and his colleague, said Carmody, represent an area "with more cowboys and more beautiful cowgirls than any area in the state."

"Not only that," he said, "some say you can see farther—and see less—than any place in the state."

Sen. Otto Liebers of Lincoln supplied the speech welcoming the other replacement senators—Mrs. Fay Britt of Lincoln, appointed to fill the term of her late husband, Howard Britt.

Sen. Liebers recalled going to school with Mrs. Britt, remembered her as a brilliant student and counselled his colleagues: "If you're going to match wits with the new senator, you're going to have to have the right answers."

Mrs. Britt, the only woman senator at the current session, will "add dignity to our deliberations," he said.

Acknowledging the remarks, Mrs. Britt, speaking over the bouquet of flowers gracing her desk, declared: "I cannot bring (to the Legislature) the qualifications of my beloved husband, but I do bring his sincerity and earnestness of purpose."

The routine preliminaries went quickly.

Srb read the governor's proclamation for the session.

A credentials committee was moved and named—and did its business—in the time it takes to sneeze.

Routine documents and communications were read with nobody paying any attention.

Perodically, three raps of Warner's gavel brought the assembly to its feet while someone or other was being escorted into the chamber.

Oaths to Mrs. Britt and Cretsinger were administered by Chief Justice Robert Simmons of the Supreme Court, who got an escort of three senators.

Not until a five-senator committee left the chamber to escort in the governor did faces of the senators begin to reflect the serious business confronting them.

Mrs. Britt walked with the governor down the aisle. There was no applause.

Gov. Crosby shook hands with Warner, then turned to the rostrum.

"Not in many years has there been a special session as important as this one," said the governor.

Nobody was laughing now.

The session was in business.

Public Hearings To Be Held Monday And Tuesday On Bills

For public hearings on bills proposing constitutional amendments, the Legislature Tuesday decided that the judiciary and revenue committee should sit jointly with Sen. Robert McNutt, judiciary chairman, presiding.

Sen. McNutt announced that hearings would be held on LB 1, 2, 3 and 9 on Monday at 2 p.m. and LB 5, 7 and 8 on Tuesday at 10 a.m.

The Legislature debated at length the amount of time necessary for the public to become informed on the bills and for those desiring to give testimony to reach Lincoln. It was finally decided to follow rules and give the usual five days notice.

The other bills introduced on opening day and any that may be introduced today will be set for Wednesday, Sen. McNutt said.

The Monday bills will include the ones dealing with assessors and boards of equalization and homestead exemption.

Tuesday's bill will include the controversial sales tax proposals and hearings are expected to last all day.

The sales tax bill which the tax study committee agreed to sponsor, provides for a vote by the people in November on a provision that the Legislature "shall adopt a general sales tax as a method of raising revenue for the State of Nebraska for state purposes."

Revenue from the proposed new tax would be used:

1. To pay the obligations of the state of Nebraska payable from the state general fund.

2. The remainder to be equitably distributed at the end of each fiscal year exclusively to the support and maintenance of the common schools among the several school districts as may be provided by law.

The state would be prohibited from levying direct taxes upon property for state general fund purposes.

It has been estimated that a two per cent sales tax would produce about $26,000,000 a year in Nebraska.

State general fund obligations amount to about $19,000,000 or $20,000,000 a year.

This would leave about $6,000,000 a year for distribution to the schools. This is about three times the amount the schools are receiving from the state school fund this year out of rents, royalties and interest.

Many of the senators were quick to point out that the sales tax as proposed is not a "replacement" tax but an "added" tax. They said that the door would be left wide open to continuance of property taxes for state purposes by making "special levies" to meet any revenue desire beyond the sales tax income.

Sober Bartenders

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Superior Court ruled a bar operator should not be his own best customer. Pleading for revocation of a liquor license, Deputy Atty. Gen. William Bennett asked how an intoxicated operator could "even look at the clock and tell when it's time to close up?" and the court concurred.

Horseplay Highlights Opening Session

By ODELL HANSON
Associated Press Writer

They greased the Nebraska legislative machine with horseplay to get it rolling Tuesday.

For 25 minutes, while Lt. Gov. Charles Warner and Clerk Hugo Srb were pressing the buttons and pulling the switches to put the nation's only Unicameral in gear, the senators let themselves go.

It was something akin to a reunion of the class of '36 at the old alma mater.

And it was fun while it lasted.

Sworn In

Clyde Cretsinger of Paxton, who had just been sworn in as a replacement senator, got up to acknowledge a greeting and explain why his predecessor, Sen. Josh Brown of Brule, had resigned.

Brown did not want to come back, said Cretsinger.

"Who did?" interjected a colleague and laughs rolled around the chamber.

Then there was Sen. Harry Pizer of North Platte, a bachelor, who got up to move that a committee of one (normally there are more) be named to escort Mrs. Robert Crosby and Mrs. Charles Warner into the chamber.

Lt. Gov. Warner, presiding, took the cue, and the beaming Pizer strode proudly down the aisle, one woman on each arm. He deposited them with a low bow in chairs at the front of the chamber while Warner philosophized aloud: "The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world."

That's the way it went—good-natured, light-hearted stuff.

Sen. Arthur Carmody of Trenton made a welcoming speech for Sen. Cretsinger.

He and his colleague, said Carmody, represent an area "with more cowboys and more beautiful cowgirls than any area in the state."

"Not only that," he said, "some say you can see farther—and see less—than any place in the state."

Sen. Otto Liebers of Lincoln supplied the speech welcoming the other replacement senators—Mrs. Fay Britt of Lincoln, appointed to fill the term of her late husband, Howard Britt.

Sen. Liebers recalled going to school with Mrs. Britt, remembered her as a brilliant student and counselled his colleagues: "If you're going to match wits with the new senator, you're going to have to have the right answers."

Mrs. Britt, the only woman senator at the current session, will "add dignity to our deliberations," he said.

Acknowledging the remarks, Mrs. Britt, speaking over the bouquet of flowers gracing her desk, declared: "I cannot bring (to the Legislature) the qualifications of my beloved husband, but I do bring his sincerity and earnestness of purpose."

The routine preliminaries went quickly.

Srb read the governor's proclamation for the session.

A credentials committee was moved and named—and did its business—in the time it takes to sneeze.

Routine documents and communications were read with nobody paying any attention.

Perodically, three raps of Warner's gavel brought the assembly to its feet while someone or other was being escorted into the chamber.

Oaths to Mrs. Britt and Cretsinger were administered by Chief Justice Robert Simmons of the Supreme Court, who got an escort of three senators.

Not until a five-senator committee left the chamber to escort in the governor did faces of the senators begin to reflect the serious business confronting them.

Mrs. Britt walked with the governor down the aisle. There was no applause.

Gov. Crosby shook hands with Warner, then turned to the rostrum.

"Not in many years has there been a special session as important as this one," said the governor.

Nobody was laughing now.

The session was in business.

Public Hearings To Be Held Monday And Tuesday On Bills

For public hearings on bills proposing constitutional amendments, the Legislature Tuesday decided that the judiciary and revenue committee should sit jointly with Sen. Robert McNutt, judiciary chairman, presiding.

Sen. McNutt announced that hearings would be held on LB 1, 2, 3 and 9 on Monday at 2 p.m. and LB 5, 7 and 8 on Tuesday at 10 a.m.

The Legislature debated at length the amount of time necessary for the public to become informed on the bills and for those desiring to give testimony to reach Lincoln. It was finally decided to follow rules and give the usual five days notice.

The other bills introduced on opening day and any that may be introduced today will be set for Wednesday, Sen. McNutt said.

The Monday bills will include the ones dealing with assessors and boards of equalization and homestead exemption.

Tuesday's bill will include the controversial sales tax proposals and hearings are expected to last all day.

The sales tax bill which the tax study committee agreed to sponsor, provides for a vote by the people in November on a provision that the Legislature "shall adopt a general sales tax as a method of raising revenue for the State of Nebraska for state purposes."

Revenue from the proposed new tax would be used:

1. To pay the obligations of the state of Nebraska payable from the state general fund.

2. The remainder to be equitably distributed at the end of each fiscal year exclusively to the support and maintenance of the common schools among the several school districts as may be provided by law.

The state would be prohibited from levying direct taxes upon property for state general fund purposes.

It has been estimated that a two per cent sales tax would produce about $26,000,000 a year in Nebraska.

State general fund obligations amount to about $19,000,000 or $20,000,000 a year.

This would leave about $6,000,000 a year for distribution to the schools. This is about three times the amount the schools are receiving from the state school fund this year out of rents, royalties and interest.

Many of the senators were quick to point out that the sales tax as proposed is not a "replacement" tax but an "added" tax. They said that the door would be left wide open to continuance of property taxes for state purposes by making "special levies" to meet any revenue desire beyond the sales tax income.

Sober Bartenders

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Superior Court ruled a bar operator should not be his own best customer. Pleading for revocation of a liquor license, Deputy Atty. Gen. William Bennett asked how an intoxicated operator could "even look at the clock and tell when it's time to close up?" and the court concurred.

Crosby Outlines 6-Point Program Before Solons

Five Tax Proposals In Acts

A six-point program was outlined by Gov. Robert Crosby for consideration by the Nebraska Legislature as the lawmakers met in special session at the governor's call to consider proposed constitutional changes dealing with taxation.

Five of the six points are embodied in bills prepared jointly by the governor and the Legislative Council's Tax Study Committee headed by Sen. O. H. Liebers of Lincoln. They are:

1. Exemption of household goods and personal affects from taxation "to the extent that the Legislature deems advisable."

Only 1.9 per cent of the property tax revenue in Nebraska is derived from taxation of household furnishing and personal effects. But probably more than 90 per cent of the assessment effort is applied to this kind of property, and this type of property is the most difficult to assess, the governor asserted.

2. A better means of equalizing tax assessments among the counties.

The constitution now provides for a State Board of Equalization consisting of four elected officials and the Tax Commissioner. But it has been the experience of other states that an official or a board removed from elective partisan politics can best discharge this function, Crosby commented.

3. Appointment rather than election of county assessors.

"The experience of other states shows that an appointive system on the basis of merit may produce much better results. Even the State Association of County Assessors has recommended an appointive system," the governor continued.

4. Special methods of assessment for some types of property.

The constitution now requires absolute uniformity among all classes of property on the basis of value. But "it is obvious that the assessment of a business building presents different problems than the assessment of a cow," Crosby declared.

5. A constitutional amendment protecting the people against extravagant use of supplemental taxes that might be enacted.

"Anyone who is acquainted with the thinking of Nebraska recognizes that more people than ever before have expressed themselves as being favorable to a sales tax or an income tax or a combination of both.

"I have always opposed both sales tax and income tax as a means of raising revenue for state and local purposes. I do not now advocate them. But I recognize clearly that those who do advocate such taxes desire to see them used for the replacement of property tax revenues," the governor continued.

"If there are to be such supplemental taxes, however, I want some constitutional guarantee that they will be used as a substitute for property taxes in traditional areas of government activity," he added.

The sixth proposal is for a reasonable exemption of homestead-owner-occupied homes and farms. This will be submitted to the Legislature in a bill prepared separately by the Liebers committee, the governor said.

"It has been said that the foregoing proposals are Bob Crosby's program because I collected them together and stated them publicly on March 22," the governor told the lawmakers.

"To be sure, these proposals are the natural and necessary outgrowth of my careful observation of events during the past year when we have been earnestly trying to obey the tax provisions of our state Constitution. However, I hold no copyright on these proposals."

The governor asserted the state's tax problem has no connection with the 50 per cent assessment law passed by the 1953 regular session.

"This entire problem—which was not of my making or choosing—came to a head with the Supreme Court decision that was handed down my first morning in office. It was a unanimous decision. It commanded equalization of assessments. I have resolutely obeyed the mandate of the court," the governor asserted.

"Probably no governor ever received a more difficult assignment. Temporary unpopularity was the certain result of a full discharge of my duty. The requirement of our constitution for uniform assessments had been disregarded so long that many people no longer understand it," Crosby said.

He reviewed the State Board's equalization effort, the popular confusion of the problem with the 50 per cent law; the "Operation Honesty" drive for fuller reporting of personal property for assessment; and the calling of the special session at the urging of the study committee.

NU Students Study Geography From Air

Five University of Nebraska geography graduate students have found out what the world looks like from an airplane—and they agree that it looks different.

The five, Mabel Matlock, Vincent Larocco, James Thompson, Donald Knutzen and Castellano Rocco, were experimenting with the possible use of the airplane as a laboratory aid. All teach in geography classes at the University.

The group was headed by Dr. Frank E. Sorenson, chairman of the department of educational services and geography lecturer, who planned the 700-mile trip and defined the purposes of the trip.

The journey, made in a Nebraska Department of Aeronautics plane, was to Kansas City, Wichita, and back.

Members of the party all were impressed, they said, with the way a plane enables them to see the "whole picture" at once. Particularly noticed were the drought areas and river drainage problems.

NU Team Wins Drill Meet

The University of Nebraska Pershing Rifles team won the annual regimental drill meet for second consecutive year. The meet was held this year at the University of Iowa.

Twenty-five Army, Navy, and Air Force ROTC cadets at the University competed against teams from Universities of Minnesota, South Dakota, Iowa and St. John's of Minnesota, and Iowa State College.

Jack Keene of Lincoln, Infantry ROTC senior, is commander of the Nebraska company, and Maurice Norton of Elgin, artillery senior, is second in command.

Other company officers include: William Cecil, Plattsmouth, operations officer; George Medley, Lincoln, and Val Anderson, Wakefield, platoon leaders. Darrel DeGraw of Fremont is first sergeant.

For individual drill, Val Markussen of Lincoln won a first-place citation in the advanced cadet category, Harold Smith in the freshman group, and Charles Pyle in the Pledge Division.

State Wheat Outlook Remains Unchanged

92 Pct. Of Oats Crop Is Planted

Nebraska's winter wheat managed to hold its own last week, according to government crop experts.

Deterioration of wheat in the two southern tiers of counties was offset by improvement from the rains in central, east central and northeastern Nebraska, the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics reported in its weekly crop review.

The net result is that the wheat outlook generally remains unchanged.

Panhandle wheat needs moisture but the crop still made satisfactory progress except in Kimball County, where root rot was reported heavy and abandonment was expected to be high.

Some southeastern counties share the poor wheat condtion of southwestern counties.

Farm field work made good progress over Nebraska last week. About 92 per cent of the oats and 90 per cent of the spring wheat and barley have been planted.

Oats and barley showed some improvement over the previous week. Alfalfa, wild hay and pasture also showed some improvement but are slow.

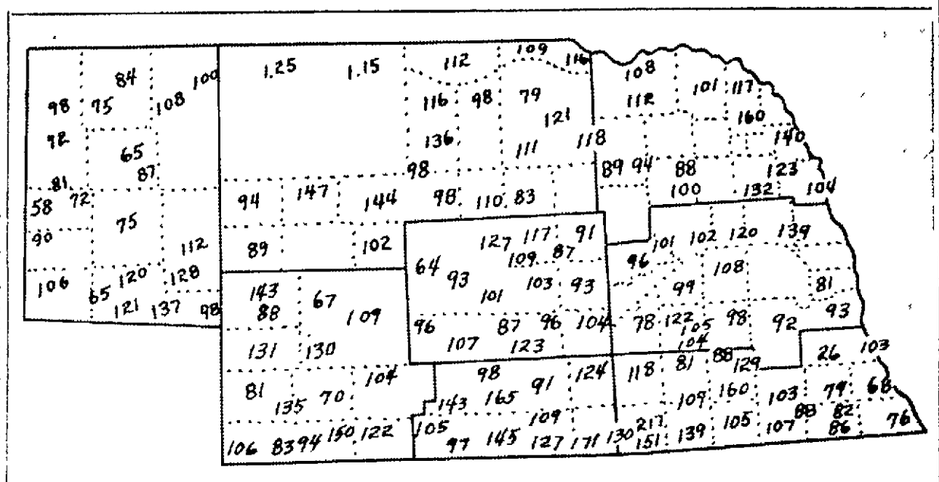

Good spring rains are needed badly throughout the state, the report stated.

Feed supplies for livestock are reported ample. Cattle on feed in Nebraska on April 1 totalled three per cent less than a year ago.

Temperatures during the week averaged about nine degrees above normal, although the mercury did get as low as 14 degrees at Bridgeport. Showers fell over most of the state during the week, with a few localities in east and central portions reporting moderate to heavy amounts.

Precipitation reports are as follows:

Eastern Division
Grand Island	13	Omaha	.39
Lincoln	.26	Sioux City	.59
Norfolk	1 67
Western Division
Chadron	15	Imperial	.01
Central Division
Burwell	.26	North Platte	.06
Lexington	1 22	Valentine	.16

Seeing Is Believing—Moisture Spread Widely

The figures on rain or snowfall precipitation totals in Nebraska counties during the last six months show, surprisingly enough, that the southwestern area received more moisture than did southeastern counties. In spite of this, the southwest has been the scene recently of many dust storms while the southeast has suffered far less from blowing dust. (State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics map.)

It's A Fact, Nebraskans

Rain, Snowfall Totals Above Normal

This may come as a surprise to drought-conscious Nebraskans. But precipitation in the state in the six months ended March 31 averaged 106 per cent of normal.

Fifty-five per cent of the Weather Burau reporting stations in the state listed above-normal moisture in the half year period.

One-third of the stations reported precipitation 80 to 100 per cent of normal. Only 12 per cent recorded less than 80 per cent of normal.

The figures were contained in the weekly crop and weather report of the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics, quoting a Weather Bureau summary.

The report indicates, A. E. Anderson, head of the division, pointed out, that the moisture supply "is generally better than believed."

High winds and blowing dust—and their evaporating effect—probably have contributed as much or more to damage of winter wheat in the state than lack of moisture, he observed.

Also a factor is uneven distribution.

Some local areas got little moisture, while nearby areas were dealt with generously.

Southeast Driest

Surprisingly, the six-month tabulation shows extreme southeast Nebraska to have been drier than southwest Nebraska, where drought complaints have been strongest. The southwest section, however, has had more dust storm trouble than the southeast.

Another characteristic of precipitation since Oct. 1 is the fact it came in rather large amounts, widely spaced, the report noted.

This type of precipitation favors replenishment of subsoil moisture, but leaves the surface dry for extended periods.

Moisture from heavy rains or snows like those which have been received in Nebraska penetrates deeply into the soil, and evaporation then only dries the surface layer. On the other hand, snows blew off the fields over much of western Nebraska.

Except for the dry areas and where most of the moistture fell as drifting snow, there should be a fairly good supply of subsoil moisture this spring, the report said.

More will soon be known about the soil moisture condition in the state. A spring soil moisture survey in wheat fields started this week and will be completed next week.

Wahoo Pastor Takes Kansas Church Post

WAHOO, Neb. — The Rev. E. L. Jorden, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Wahoo for the past five years, has accepted a post with the Antioch Baptist Church at Ada, Kan. He plans to leave Wahoo about the first of May.

Bride-To-Be Dies In Millard Crash

MILLARD, Neb. (AP)—A young Omaha bride-to-be was killed when the car in which she was riding was struck by a Union Pacific freight train at a crossing at the Millard outskirts.

The victim was Mary Lou Donaldson, 24. She was riding in a car driven by Daniel D. Koperski, 27, Omaha. He suffered cuts and possible chest injury. He was in "good" condition at Douglas County Hospital Tuesday.

Koperski told officers he and Miss Donaldson were to have been married next week.

The death was the state's 81st traffic fatality compared with 54 on the same date a year ago.

Watson Firm ICC Hearing Is Ended

OMAHA (AP)—A week-long Interstate Commerce Commission hearing to determine whether the permits of Watson Brothers Transportation Co., Ins., should be revoked has ended.

The hearing was ordered following three Watson Brothers ammunition truck explosions last fall.

Attorneys for the government and for the carrier will be given until June to file briefs. Then an initial decision will be made by examiner Otto Hanson of Washington.

The decision can be appealed by either side.

At the concluding session Watson Brothers presented as witnesses executives from several firms with which it does business to demonstrate the need for its service.

James Diesing, administrative assistant to Gov. Crosby, testified on behalf of the governor.

Two Changes In Voting Law Are Advocated

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb. (AP)—John F. Jirdon, leading western Nebraska Republican party figure, believes the state badly needs two changes in its voting laws.

The Morrill businessman and livestock feeder said they are:

1. That a party nominee must obtain 51 per cent of the vote in the primary or the two top candidates go into a runoff.

2. That all voters must register without exception to participate in a primary.

Jirdson commented that the chances are there will be about six candidates for the full six year senate term in the coming primary for the Republican party and perhaps as many Democrats. So, he said, the party choice could be determined by as little as 20 per cent of the party vote.

That, he declared, is wrong.

Jirdon advocated full registration because it is possible to change party affiliation "overnight" now in order to vote in either party primary.

This, he said, means "they can be Democrats on Monday, Republicans on Tuesday and Democrats again on Wednesday. As few as 5,000 Democrats could control the Republican party by voting as Republicans. The same thing could happen to the Democrats."

Fete Planned For Grange At Friend

The Lincoln Chamber of Commerce on May 5 will honor members of the Friend Grange, winners of the 1953 Community Betterment Contest jointly sponsored by the Sears Roebuck Foundation and the National Grange.

According to I. W. Wheeler, vice chairman of the chamber's agriculture committee, the event will be in the form of a dinner meeting.

The dinner, scheduled for 6:30 p.m. in the main dining room of the Chamber Building, "will give Lincoln people an apportunity to attest to the fact that they appreciate the magnitude of the accomplishments of the Friend Grange, and have a genuine interest in its consistant record of achievement over the past two years," Wheeler said.

In 1952 the Friend organization was awarded second place in the same nation-wide competition.

The Grange will be represented at the gathering by the chairmen of its 1953 community betterment committees; its immediate past master, George Asmus, and its present master, Oliver Johansen.

First Degree Assault Filed Against Pair

BIG TIMBER, Mont. (AP)—Two Nebraska fugitives, captured after a 54-mile running gun fight, Tuesday were charged with first degree assault.

An undersheriff died of a heart attack during the chase.

Sheriff Walter H. Osborne said he signed the complaints against William J. McClellen, 22, Maxwell, Neb., and Lloyd Crudzinski, 19, Grand Island, Neb. They told police that two weeks ago they fled the Nebraska reformatory where they were serving sentences for writing bad checks.

Montana Highway Patrolman Gene Brown stopped the pair to warn that a headlight of the car was out. The next thing, Brown said, "I was looking into the face of a 30-.30 rifle." They took Brown's gun and disabled the patrol car radio. Then they raced through three roadblocks, stopping after Livingston Policeman Charley Graves emptied his tommy gun into their stolen car.

Church Meet Attracts 275

NORFOLK, Neb. (AP) — Approximately 275 persons, including more than 200 delegates, attended the opening session of the Nebraska Congregational Conference's 98th annual meeting here Tuesday.

Dr. Henry Smith Leiper of New York, executive secretary of the Missions Council of the Congregational Christian churches and featured speaker, told the delegates that the cross, which was the instrument of Christ's death, has become a symbol of faith and hope for Christian people all over the world.

'Christ-Centered'

The Rev. Louis M. Albrecht of Ogallala, moderator of the conference, said: "We must recognize the importance of individual life, and that life can only be important if it is Christ-centered."

Family Sundays at church, family nights at home, summer family camps and adult participation with children in all activities of family life were recommended in discussions of the Christian Education round table.

Milton O. Laib of Lincoln served as moderator. Others on the panel were the Rev. Samuel Cushing, Stanton; the Rev. Edward Branz, Ralston; the Rev. Kenneth Locke, Aurora; and the Rev. H. R. Kasper, Dunning. Emory D. Alvord of Salisbury, South Rhodesia, Africa, spoke Tuesday night on "Chikore Agricultural work."

Mrs. Waggener, Humboldt, Dies; Rites Thursday

Lincoln Star Special

HUMBOLDT, Neb. — Funeral services for Mrs. J. A. Waggener, widow of a pioneer physician of Humboldt, will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday at the Humboldt Christian Church. She died in a Lincoln hospital.

Her husband, the late Dr. J. A. Waggener, who died in 1948 at the age of 97, served this community for 75 years.

Surviving are three sons, Dr. H. A. Waggener of Hollywood, Calif., Dr. William R. Waggener of Denver, Colo., and Dr. J. T. Waggener of Adams; a daughter, Lillith Waggener of Beatrice; and a grandson, Dr. Donald Waggener of Lincoln.

Kansan To Head Beatrice Schools

BEATRICE, Neb. (AP)—Dr. William M. Staerkel, 33, has been named to succeed Dr. Barton Kline as superintendent of Beatrice schools.

The Beatrice school board hired Dr. Staerkel, now principal of El Dorado, Kan., high school, on a three year contract at a salary of $7,500.

Dr. Kline has been named president of Chadron State Teachers College.

Fighting, Not Playing, Profirio's Desire

By FRED PAINTON

CANNES, France (INS)—Profirio Rubirosa says he would rather have been a bullfighter than a playboy.

The Dominican diplomat-Don Juan was in one of his rare, reflective moods as he considered his million dollar career with women and fast horses and cars.

He stretched out on a bed in his suite at the swank Hotel Cannes and sipped his scotch slowly, pondering the "ifs" in his life, some bad publicity and a lingering cold that has cut down on his dates with Zsa Zsa Gabor, the blonde bombshell from Hungary and Hollywood.

Family Objected

"I always wanted to be a bullfighter," he said wistfully, "but my family wouldn't let me

"I would have been glad, too. Bullfighting gives me a real thrill."

Thrills and a gnawing fear of growing old probably are the keys to his life.

"To stay young," he offered, "you have to do the things young people do. That's what I try to do. Zsa Zsa kids often about age."

Champion Material

Rubirosa is 45 and has been married four times. His last marriage, to dime store Heiress Barbara Hutton broke up after 72 days.

Rubirosa said he could have been a champion boxer, too

"When I was in college," he began, "I used to kill my friends. My hero was Jack Dempsey. I had a big picture of him in my room.

"I started boxing at the age of 8 and always have a ring in my house. I mean I was a good boxer and could have gone far."

Rubirosa believes taking chances helps keep him young, and that's why he drives fast, plays fast and lives fast. He said:

"When I start playing it safe, I'll be old."

'No Breaks' Reported In Pen Slaying

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Two lie dectectors were in operation at the State Penitentiary on Tuesday, the fifth day of the investigation into the slaying of Guard John M. Claussen

Co. Atty Frederick Wagener said the second machine was added to "expedite" the investigation in which "progress is being made" but with "no breaks so far."

Detective Lt. E. R Henninger and the Lincoln Police's lie detector equipment were enlisted in the investigation with the approval of Lincoln Police Chief Joseph Carroll, Wagener said

For the past four days, Safety Patrol Sgt Robert Nichols has been giving the lie detector tests and the "burden on him has been terrific" Wagener said

The investigation has not been confined to the 19 inmates who were assigned to the prison print shop where Claussen was killed.

Chief Dep Co. Atty. Elmer Scheele explained that additional inmates and guards were interviewed whenever a "new name or lead appears"

Stories are checked and rechecked by additional questioning with "discrepancies" finally being checked out on the lie detector equipment, Scheele said

Even the "most minute" discrepancies in the stories are checked out in the slow-moving, but methodical investigation.

Investigators continued working into Tuesday night.

Bus Drivers Strike

HARRISBURG, Pa. (INS) — The first city wide transportation strike since 1916 hit Harrisburg Tuesday.

Thousands of workers, including state capitol employees, were forced to seek alternate transportation due to the walkout of 263 employees of the Harrisburg Railways Co.

The AFL-bus drivers union seeks a 22 cents-an-hour wage boost and the company has countered with an offer of 5 cents.

JAYNE'S P-W tablets KILL PIN-WORMS

(You may have them and not know it)

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms... ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed but be led in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do ...and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge... the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

JAYNE'S P-W tablets KILL PIN-WORMS
(You may have them and not know it)

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms ... ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do ... and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge ... the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

Congress Asked To Set Up Missouri R. Basin Commission, Compact Board

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress has been asked to set up a commission and compact board to supervise and develop the Missouri River Basin.

Sen. Hennings (D-Mo) offered a bill to create the commission and authorize the compact board to bring about close co-operation of federal and state governments in basin activities.

He told the Senate in a speech his plan would provide "a workable plan for bringing harmony between regional and local interests and those of the nation.

Grew Out of Study

For years there has been argument over the best method of developing the many resources of the huge Missouri Basin. Hennings was vice chairman of the Missouri Basin Survey Commission whihch surveyed the issue and sent President Eisenhower a long report in February, 1953. Hennings said his bill grew out of the commission's work.

The proposed new commission would be responsible to the President and Congress. It would direct the development program but the compact board—made up of representatives of the Missouri Basin States—would have what Hennings termed a "limited veto" over the commission's recommendations.

Hennings said this "would assure realistic participation by the states without trespassing upon the responsibilities of the agencies authorized and directed by Congress—and accountable to the Congress—to carry out specific tasks."

He added:

"Moreover, the interstate board would open the way for the states to accept and carry out successfully an ever larger share of the resource development work."

The bill would have the President name, with the consent of the senate, five commissioners from a list of 30 submitted by governors of North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Montana, Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska, Wyoming, Kansas and Colorado.

It would authorize the states to negotiate an interstate compact which would become effective when ratified by Legislatures of seven of the 10 states. Prior to this and the formation of the compact board, governors of the states would form an advisory committee to consult with the committee on resource development policy. The commission's program would be submitted to the advisory committee for review and approval.

All commission proposals submitted to Congress would specify the position of the advisory committee of the commission's recommendations.

Farmer At Polk Suffers Burns In Hog House Blaze

Lincoln Star Special

POLK, Neb. — Flames destroyed a hog house filed with 1,200 bushels of ear corn on the Walter J. Fisher farm south of Polk Tuesday morning and sent Fisher to a York hospital with burns.

Lack of an adequate water supply handicapped Polk volunteer firemen in their efforts to halt the blaze. However, they were able to keep the flames from spreading to other farm buildings.

Fisher was taken to a York hospital for burns on his hands as a result of attempting to fight the flames. He had been burning husks when the wind apparently carried the flames to the hog house.

NEBRASKA CITY — Falls City, southeast Nebraska's strongest track squad, Tuesday edged powerful Omaha North and won the thirteenth annual Nebraska City Invitational Track and Field meet here, 80⅓ to 69.

A strong field trailed the two top teams.

Tom Thompson of North set a new record of :10.2 in the 100-yard dash and George Peterson of Nebraska City ran the 220 in the record time of :22.8.

North's Bob McIntyre set the 100-yard low hurdles mark at :11.4 and Gail Heffelfinger of Lincoln Teachers ran the mile in the new time of 4:37.5 to break the old mark mark set by "Miracle Miler" Marvin Zimmerman of Nebraska City in 1947.

Wickstrand of North tied the six feet high jump which Stan Matzke of Teachers set in 1951.

Ron Fritz of Verdon set B marks in the 60-yard high hurdles at :08.2 and in the 100-yard lows at :11.8.

Warren Etter of Humboldt set records in the dashes. He ran the 100 in :10.6 and the 220 in :23.5. Gordon Bergholz of Syracuse tied the 100 mark.

John Schulze of Dawson threw the discus 139-10 and the shot 47-2 for new marks and Barrie of Nebraska Deaf did the 440-yard dash in the new time of :52.5.

The results:

The Arm That Did It

Pitcher Dick Geier of the Nebraska baseball team lifts the left arm that accounted for an amazing no-hit game against Kansas Tuesday. Outfielder Jim Cederdahl, who doubled and scored Nebraska's only run in the fifth inning, is on hand in the dressing room to give the 19-year-old sophomore from Lincoln a pat on the back. Only one Kansan reached first base (on an error) and Geier faced only 27 men as the Huskers won, 1-0. (Star Photo.)

Rained Out Chiefs Now Meet Bruins

Rained out at Sioux City Tuesday night, the first-division Lincoln Chiefs move on to Des Moines tonight to start a two-game series.

Bob Bandelier, 20-year-old rookie lefthander, is expected to be Manager Whitey Wietelmann's starting mound choice against the Bruins.

The Chiefs won the series with the Soos, 2-1, with Andy Bush tossing a four-hitter and Charley Griffith hurling a two-hitter.

The Chiefs return to Sherman Field Friday night against Sioux City.

VERN GAGNE

Gagne Heads Next Wrestle

... Meets Sky Hi

Vern Gagne, the United States heavyweight champion, will headline Promoter Adam Krieger's fairgrounds wrestle card Tuesday night.

Krieger, after flooding the Chicago and New York booking offices with telephone calls and telegrams, finally signed Gagne to meet Sky Hi Lee, the 6-foot 7-inch Canadian.

"Vern is the most popular wrestler in the business and he is the best," said Krieger. "The people of Nebraska have been demanding his return, so I went all out to sign him."

The Promoter said that the remainder of the card will be announced Thursday.

"It will be a good one," he said. "I promise that."

Omaha U. Wins 1-0

OMAHA (AP) — Don Claussen tripled and scored on a wild pitch in the fourth inning to give Omaha University a 1-0 baseball victory over Simpson College of Indianola, Ia., here Tuesday.

It was Omaha's fourth straight win.

Only 27 Kansans Bat In 1-0 Husker Win

By BILL FITZGERALD
Star Sports Staff Member

Dick Geier, a sophomore lefthander who was knocked out of the box in his first start for the University of Nebraska, Tuesday afternoon pitched his way into the Cornhusker record books with a brilliant 1-0 no-hit victory over the University of Kansas on the campus diamond.

The husky Lincoln kid who almost worked a no-hitter last summer in semi-pro ball, gave the Huskers their second straight victory of the Big Seven season against a Jayhawk squad which is rated as a fairly strong conference contender.

With two down in the ninth he sent two fast balls past Pinchhitter Harold Hixon for called strikes. Then he came in with the curve ball which had been especially effective against the Kansans and Hixon went down swinging.

It was the tenth strikeout for the tall sphomore who had been noted for his speed but was rated as only a fair curve baller who sometimes went haywire on bases on balls.

Tuesday he walked no one. Only one batter reached first, on an error, and a fast double play killed him moments later when the hit-and-run was on and the batter popped up to Catcher Murray Backhaus. The Millard veteran threw to First Baseman Ray Novak for the twin killing.

No one else came close, and it was important that the big lefty stopped them because the Huskers were not hitting another capable lefthander named John Broese.

Broese, a big fellow who had a 2-0 record before the game, was throwing hard, had a good curve and a smooth change of pace.

He stopped Nebraska's power through four innings and had two down in the fifth when the hitting star of Monday's game, Jim Cederdahl, cracked a line drive into left center for a double.

Broese was working against the bottom of the Husker batting order and figured to be out of trouble because of the stuff he had shown.

But Backhaus hung in there and worked him for a walk. Geier took his turn and walked to fill the bases as Broese began to crack.

Dierkes Rolston, the lefthanded swinging shortstop, who had lined hard to center in the third, took a strike but waited for the pitch which never came as the Kansan threw four balls and walked Cederdahl across the plate with the winning run.

Broese settled down but the game was in the books except for a continuation of Geier's effective work.

Fred Seger and Virg Gottsch got the only other Nebraska hits. Seger beat out an infield hit and Gottsch dropped a bunt and beat it out.

So the game went as a pitching duel with Geier coming out on top because of his achievement of overcoming the wildness which had plagued him last summer when he pitched for Columbus in the Pioneer Night League and which had been evident in his earlier work this spring. It was at Columbus that he had a no-hitter going for eight innings.

In the locker room when asked about his pitching Geier said: "I used my fast ball and curve most of the way. The curve was sharper than ever before and my control was right."

Catcher Backhaus said Geier used his fast ball against the right handers and the curve against the lefties. Three times he called for the change-of-pace pitch and Geier responded correctly for strikeouts.

With Backhaus, the capable and experienced catcher, the control of his pitcher was the aspect of Geier's work which was most pleasing.

Perhaps the happiest Husker next to Geier was Rolston, the shortstop who has been in a slump and was to be jerked for a pinch hitter in the fifth. He stayed in the game when Backhaus walked and came through with the base on balls which sent that run across.

Tony Sharpe smiled broadly after the ninth and analyzed Geier's work with this statement: "He was just very sharp, just very sharp."

Trucks Notches Easy 7-2 Victory

DETROIT (AP)— Virgil Trucks, Chicago's 34-year-old right-handed ace, fireballed his way to an easy 7-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers in gloom-shrouded Briggs Stadium Tuesday and stretched the White Sox' winning streak to four straight games.

The White Sox, who dropped their first three games of the season before finding the winning formula, raked four Tiger hurlers for a dozen hits, including three by L'il Nellie Fox.

Fox and Shortstop Chico Carrasque each knocked in two runs and Minnie Minoso batted in one with his second home run of the season.

Lefty Ted Gray, a loser for the last three seasons, was removed in the fourth after pitching shaky ball. He was charged with Chicago's first five runs.

Trucks, meanwhile, had little trouble under the overcast skies which made his fast ball difficult to hit. He gave up six hits and squared his record at 1-1.

It was his fifth win compared to no defeats against the Tigers, who traded him away in 1952.

Chicago pecked away and scored its runs in one's and two's, making it a long day for the 5,709 fans. The game ran two hours and 45 minutes.

Cass Michaels knocked in the first run with a second-inning single and Ferris Fain drove in the second tally with a hit-and-run ground out in the third. Then Carrasquel knocked in the deciding two runs in the fourth with a two-out bloop single to left.

Antonelli Wins

NEW YORK (AP)—Johnny Antonelli, the lefthanded starter the New York Giants got in the Bobby Thomson deal, steadied after a shaky start to down Pittsburgh Tuesday 6-2, allowing eight singles.

Winning his first game for the Giants after a shutout defeat in a rain-shortened game in Philadelphia, Antonelli closed strong. The 24-year-old pitcher walked six men, all in the first three innings, and struck out seven.

Whitey Lockman's single scoring Monte Irvin broke a 2-2 tie in the sixth but the Giants unloaded on Rookie Nelson King, a 6-foot-6 inch sidearmer, for five hits and three runs in the eighth.

Singles by Irvin, Hank Thompson and Pinchhiitter Don Mueller loaded the bases. Sacrifice flies by Lockman and Katt drove in two. Davey Williams' single, following a base hit by Antonelli, knocked in the final run.

Pittsburgh got to Antonelli for a run in the first on two walks and a single by Hal Rice. After the Giants took the lead with two in the second on walks, a single by Katt and a balk by LaPalme, the Pirates rookie-dotted lineup tied the score in the third.

The Firing Line

Who Is Nebraska's Best Golfer?

As green descends on them thar hills and the greens contain frustrated citizens brandishing putters, a question comes to mind.

Who is Nebraska's best golfer?

Spangler

Such pros as Bud Williamson and Bunny Richards have told The Firing Line that Dick Spangler, for all-around consistency, is the best Lincoln can offer.

Surely no follower of the fairways can dispute that choice. Dickie's past history includes state championships, city titles and an excellent showing in past Western Amateur, Broadmoor and National Amateur meets.

If Spangler had grown up in a climate where he could golf the year around, we would predict he'd presently be among the nation's five top amateurs. As it is, the modest 160-pounder has to sandwich his golf between his law studies at the University of Nebraska.

For this reason, we'd have to lean to the Omaha Field Club's new pro, 24-year old Dick Knight, as Nebraska's best linker, pro or amateur.

A native Omahan, Knight holds three local course records. His 62 is the Omaha Field Club record and he has the Happy Hollow archive with a 64 and the Omaha Country Club standard with a 66. Three records on three Omaha courses, Mister, constitutes a pretty fair brush with the birdies and eagles.

After an excellent record as an amateur, Dick turned professional in 1951 shortly after his 21st birthday. He had just returned from Navy duty in Hawaii where he was the All-Navy and Pacific Fleet champion.

Knight returned to the islands in 1952 and won the Hawaiian Open and PGA. His first pro tour (1953) produced a fifth in the San Diego Open with a 280. Only six shots separated him from the first as he had rounds of 70-68-71-71 and won $600. Out of the 18 meets he entered in 1953, Knight got in the money eight times and earned over $1,500.

As the 1954 season gets started, Knight has already tied for 17th in the Texas Open with a total of 271, his lowest competitive score to date for 72 holes. After a 64 first round, Dick shot two rounds of 68 and then a par 71.

His top 18-hole mark in competition was a 63 at Ft. Wayne, Ind., in 1953.

Before joining the Navy, Knight was a member (in 1948) of the Oklahoma A&M golf team.

The 5-foot 10-inch, 155-pounder's first triumph was as winner of the Omaha City Junior title in 1940. From there, he became state high school champ and, in 1950, was crowned Nebraska State Open champion.

Knight, of course, has a definite advantage over Spangler in that he's now a pro and plays every day.

Once Spangler gets in the midsummer swing, we'd like to see a match between the Lincoln smoothie and Mr. Knight.

As we've often said before, young Spangler is not the golfer we like to bet against.

Afterthought: For another pair of rugged match play linkers, you can toss in Whitey Reed and Bill Mowbray, both of Lincoln.

It was mighty good seeing Ol' Jawn Pesek return to the fairgrounds arena Monday night, even if he was in the guise of referee.

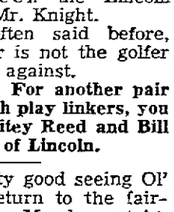

The former heavyweight wrestling great, now in his late fifties, did a good job as referee of the rugged Hans Hermann-Pat O'Connor bout. He was in the right places at the right time and he kept the match well under control.

The crowd liked Ol' Jawn, too, in his new role of referee. When Promoter Adam Krieger led the Ravenna Tigerman down to the ring, the rafters quivered with a roar of approval.

Here's hoping Ol' Jawn returns to the fairgrounds. He has something definite to add to wrestling, even as a referee.

Ty Cobb, the old baseball wizard, used to claim that spring training was for the robins . . . and not for baseball players. And it's beginning to look as though he was as right as you can be in baseball. This spring the anxious ballhawks have been cracking up like fancy China at a kid's birthday party. They've suffered everything from broken bones to sprained pinkies.

And no one's immune. Stars like Georgie Kell, Ted Williams, Harry Simpson, Andy Pafko, Jimmy Piersall, Harvey Kuenn, and many others have wound up by seeing stars . . . instead of being same. Spring training has developed into an elimination contest. It's been so bad with some teams that there were dire predictions that many a season opener would find only a couple of healthy umpires playing catch.

Lincoln Star Special

NEBRASKA CITY — Falls City, southeast Nebraska's strongest track squad, Tuesday edged powerful Omaha North and won the thirteenth annual Nebraska City Invitational Track and Field meet here, 80⅓ to 69.

A strong field trailed the two top teams.

Tom Thompson of North set a new record of :10.2 in the 100-yard dash and George Peterson of Nebraska City ran the 220 in the record time of :22.8.

North's Bob McIntyre set the 100-yard low hurdles mark at :11.4 and Gail Heffelfinger of Lincoln Teachers ran the mile in the new time of 4:37.5 to break the old mark mark set by "Miracle Miler" Marvin Zimmerman of Nebraska City in 1947.

Wickstrand of North tied the six feet high jump which Stan Matzke of Teachers set in 1951.

Ron Fritz of Verdon set B marks in the 60-yard high hurdles at :08.2 and in the 100-yard lows at :11.8.

Warren Etter of Humboldt set records in the dashes. He ran the 100 in :10.6 and the 220 in :23.5. Gordon Bergholz of Syracuse tied the 100 mark.

John Schulze of Dawson threw the discus 139-10 and the shot 47-2 for new marks and Barrie of Nebraska Deaf did the 440-yard dash in the new time of :52.5.

The results:

The Arm That Did It

Pitcher Dick Geier of the Nebraska baseball team lifts the left arm that accounted for an amazing no-hit game against Kansas Tuesday. Outfielder Jim Cederdahl, who doubled and scored Nebraska's only run in the fifth inning, is on hand in the dressing room to give the 19-year-old sophomore from Lincoln a pat on the back. Only one Kansan reached first base (on an error) and Geier faced only 27 men as the Huskers won, 1-0. (Star Photo.)

Rained Out Chiefs Now Meet Bruins

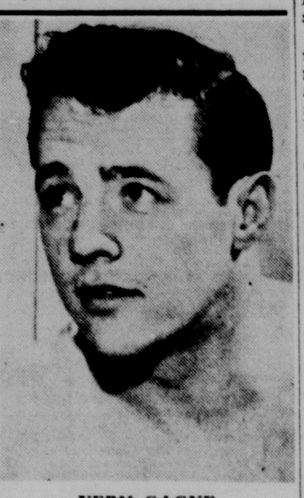

Rained out at Sioux City Tuesday night, the first-division Lincoln Chiefs move on to Des Moines tonight to start a two-game series.

Bob Bandelier, 20-year-old rookie lefthander, is expected to be Manager Whitey Wietelmann's starting mound choice against the Bruins.

The Chiefs won the series with the Soos, 2-1, with Andy Bush tossing a four-hitter and Charley Griffith hurling a two-hitter.

The Chiefs return to Sherman Field Friday night against Sioux City.

VERN GAGNE

Gagne Heads Next Wrestle

...Meets Sky Hi

Vern Gagne, the United States heavyweight champion, will headline Promoter Adam Krieger's fairgrounds wrestle card Tuesday night.

Krieger, after flooding the Chicago and New York booking offices with telephone calls and telegrams, finally signed Gagne to meet Sky Hi Lee, the 6-foot 7-inch Canadian.

"Vern is the most popular wrestler in the business and he is the best," said Krieger. "The people of Nebraska have been demanding his return, so I went all out to sign him."

The Promoter said that the remainder of the card will be announced Thursday.

"It will be a good one," he said. "I promise that."

Only 27 Kansans Bat In 1-0 Husker Win

By BILL FITZGERALD
Star Sports Staff Member

Dick Geier, a sophomore lefthander who was knocked out of the box in his first start for the University of Nebraska, Tuesday afternoon pitched his way into the Cornhusker record books with a brilliant 1-0 no-hit victory over the University of Kansas on the campus diamond.

The husky Lincoln kid who almost worked a no-hitter last summer in semi-pro ball, gave the Huskers their second straight victory of the Big Seven season against a Jayhawk squad which is rated as a fairly strong conference contender.

With two down in the ninth he sent two fast balls past Pinchhitter Harold Hixon for called strikes. Then he came in with the curve ball which had been especially effective against the Kansans and Hixon went down swinging.

It was the tenth strikeout for the tall sphomore who had been noted for his speed but was rated as only a fair curve baller who sometimes went haywire on bases on balls.

Tuesday he walked no one. Only one batter reached first, on an error, and a fast double play killed him moments later when the hit-and-run was on and the batter popped up to Catcher Murray Backhaus. The Millard veteran threw to First Baseman Ray Novak for the twin killing.

No one else came close, and it was important that the big lefty stopped them because the Huskers were not hitting another capable lefthander named John Broese.

Broese, a big fellow who had a 2-0 record before the game, was throwing hard, had a good curve and a smooth change of pace.

He stopped Nebraska's power through four innings and had two down in the fifth when the hitting star of Monday's game, Jim Cederdahl, cracked a line drive into left center for a double.

Broese was working against the bottom of the Husker batting order and figured to be out of trouble because of the stuff he had shown.

But Backhaus hung in there and worked him for a walk. Geier took his turn and walked to fill the bases as Broese began to crack.

Dierkes Rolston, the lefthanded swinging shortstop, who had lined hard to center in the third, took a strike but waited for the pitch which never came as the Kansan threw four balls and walked Cederdahl across the plate with the winning run.

Broese settled down but the game was in the books except for a continuation of Geier's effective work.

Fred Seger and Virg Gottsch got the only other Nebraska hits. Seger beat out an infield hit and Gottsch dropped a bunt and beat it out.

So the game went as a pitching duel with Geier coming out on top because of his achievement of overcoming the wildness which had plagued him last summer when he pitched for Columbus in the Pioneer Night League and which had been evident in his earlier work this spring. It was at Columbus that he had a no-hitter going for eight innings.

In the locker room when asked about his pitching Geier said: "I used my fast ball and curve most of the way. The curve was sharper than ever before and my control was right."

Catcher Backhaus said Geier used his fast ball against the right handers and the curve against the lefties. Three times he called for the change-of-pace pitch and Geier responded correctly for strikeouts.

With Backhaus, the capable and experienced catcher, the control of his pitcher was the aspect of Geier's work which was most pleasing.

Perhaps the happiest Husker next to Geier was Rolston, the shortstop who has been in a slump and was to be jerked for a pinch hitter in the fifth. He stayed in the game when Backhaus walked and came through with the base on balls which sent that run across.

Tony Sharpe smiled broadly after the ninth and analyzed Geier's work with this statement: "He was just very sharp, just very sharp."

Trucks Notches Easy 7-2 Victory

DETROIT (AP)— Virgil Trucks, Chicago's 34-year-old right-handed ace, fireballed his way to an easy 7-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers in gloom-shrouded Briggs Stadium Tuesday and stretched the White Sox' winning streak to four straight games.

The White Sox, who dropped their first three games of the season before finding the winning formula, raked four Tiger hurlers for a dozen hits, including three by L'il Nellie Fox.

Fox and Shortstop Chico Carrasque each knocked in two runs and Minnie Minoso batted in one with his second home run of the season.

Lefty Ted Gray, a loser for the last three seasons, was removed in the fourth after pitching shaky ball. He was charged with Chicago's first five runs.

Trucks, meanwhile, had little trouble under the overcast skies which made his fast ball difficult to hit. He gave up six hits and squared his record at 1-1.

It was his fifth win compared to no defeats against the Tigers, who traded him away in 1952.

Chicago pecked away and scored its runs in one's and two's, making it a long day for the 5,709 fans. The game ran two hours and 45 minutes.

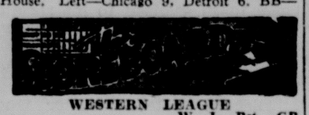

Cass Michaels knocked in the first run with a second-inning single and Ferris Fain drove in the second tally with a hit-and-run ground out in the third. Then Carrasquel knocked in the deciding two runs in the fourth with a two-out bloop single to left.

Antonelli Wins

NEW YORK (AP)—Johnny Antonelli, the lefthanded starter the New York Giants got in the Bobby Thomson deal, steadied after a shaky start to down Pittsburgh Tuesday 6-2, allowing eight singles.

Winning his first game for the Giants after a shutout defeat in a rain-shortened game in Philadelphia, Antonelli closed strong. The 24-year-old pitcher walked six men, all in the first three innings, and struck out seven.

Whitey Lockman's single scoring Monte Irvin broke a 2-2 tie in the sixth but the Giants unloaded on Rookie Nelson King, a 6-foot-6 inch sidearmer, for five hits and three runs in the eighth.

Singles by Irvin, Hank Thompson and Pinchhiitter Don Mueller loaded the bases. Sacrifice flies by Lockman and Katt drove in two. Davey Williams' single, following a base hit by Antonelli, knocked in the final run.

Pittsburgh got to Antonelli for a run in the first on two walks and a single by Hal Rice. After the Giants took the lead with two in the second on walks, a single by Katt and a balk by LaPalme, the Pirates rookie-dotted lineup tied the score in the third.

The Firing Line

Who Is Nebraska's Best Golfer?

As green descends on them thar hills and the greens contain frustrated citizens brandishing putters, a question comes to mind.

Who is Nebraska's best golfer?

Spangler

Such pros as Bud Williamson and Bunny Richards have told The Firing Line that Dick Spangler, for all-around consistency, is the best Lincoln can offer.

Surely no follower of the fairways can dispute that choice. Dickie's past history includes state championships, city titles and an excellent showing in past Western Amateur, Broadmoor and National Amateur meets.

If Spangler had grown up in a climate where he could golf the year around, we would predict he'd presently be among the nation's five top amateurs. As it is, the modest 160-pounder has to sandwich his golf between his law studies at the University of Nebraska.

For this reason, we'd have to lean to the Omaha Field Club's new pro, 24-year old Dick Knight, as Nebraska's best linker, pro or amateur.

A native Omahan, Knight holds three local course records. His 62 is the Omaha Field Club record and he has the Happy Hollow archive with a 64 and the Omaha Country Club standard with a 66. Three records on three Omaha courses, Mister, constitutes a pretty fair brush with the birdies and eagles.

After an excellent record as an amateur, Dick turned professional in 1951 shortly after his 21st birthday. He had just returned from Navy duty in Hawaii where he was the All-Navy and Pacific Fleet champion.

Knight returned to the islands in 1952 and won the Hawaiian Open and PGA. His first pro tour (1953) produced a fifth in the San Diego Open with a 280. Only six shots separated him from the first as he had rounds of 70-68-71-71 and won $600. Out of the 18 meets he entered in 1953, Knight got in the money eight times and earned over $1,500.

As the 1954 season gets started, Knight has already tied for 17th in the Texas Open with a total of 271, his lowest competitive score to date for 72 holes. After a 64 first round, Dick shot two rounds of 68 and then a par 71.

His top 18-hole mark in competition was a 63 at Ft. Wayne, Ind., in 1953.

Before joining the Navy, Knight was a member (in 1948) of the Oklahoma A&M golf team.

The 5-foot 10-inch, 155-pounder's first triumph was as winner of the Omaha City Junior title in 1940. From there, he became state high school champ and, in 1950, was crowned Nebraska State Open champion.

Knight, of course, has a definite advantage over Spangler in that he's now a pro and plays every day.

Once Spangler gets in the midsummer swing, we'd like to see a match between the Lincoln smoothie and Mr. Knight.

As we've often said before, young Spangler is not the golfer we like to bet against.

Afterthought: For another pair of rugged match play linkers, you can toss in Whitey Reed and Bill Mowbray, both of Lincoln.

It was mighty good seeing Ol' Jawn Pesek return to the fairgrounds arena Monday night, even if he was in the guise of referee.

The former heavyweight wrestling great, now in his late fifties, did a good job as referee of the rugged Hans Hermann-Pat O'Connor bout. He was in the right places at the right time and he kept the match well under control.

The crowd liked Ol' Jawn, too, in his new role of referee. When Promoter Adam Krieger led the Ravenna Tigerman down to the ring, the rafters quivered with a roar of approval.

Here's hoping Ol' Jawn returns to the fairgrounds. He has something definite to add to wrestling, even as a referee.

Overhauling THE NEWS

By WALLY DeBROWN

Ty Cobb, the old baseball wizard, used to claim that spring training was for the robins . . . and not for baseball players. And it's beginning to look as though he was as right as you can be in baseball. This spring the anxious ballhawks have been cracking up like fancy China at a kid's birthday party. They've suffered everything from broken bones to sprained pinkies.

And no one's immune. Stars like Georgie Kell, Ted Williams, Harry Simpson, Andy Pafko, Jimmy Piersall, Harvey Kuenn, and many others have wound up by seeing stars . . . instead of being same. Spring training has developed into an elimination contest. It's been so bad with some teams that there were dire predictions that many a season opener would find only a couple of healthy umpires playing catch.

Gil Eventually Wants Gavilan

Turner-Jones Victor Faces Giardello

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Gil Turner, who insists he only has eyes for Kid Gavilan, fights Bobby Jones here tonight for the right to meet Joey Giardello.

If that sounds as clear as the mud in your eye, that's the way it's meant to sound. This nationally televised return match between Jones of Oakland, Calif., has more ramifications than football's "sucker shift."

Let's start this story of intrigue at the beginning. You see, last March 24, Jones, a 3 to 1 underdog, won a split decision over Turner. Almost everyone at ringside agreed Jones won. One judge, apparently watching through one eye, called it a draw.

Promoter Herman Taylor said the crowd—there were about 1200 customers—clamored for a return bout. So, after much dickering over money and weights, the promoter obliged. An unestimated throng, plus the CBS TV audience can sit in on the encore starting at 9 p.m. CST.

Turner's manager George Katz, insists his boy has completed the cycle of welterweight to middleweight and back to welterweight. Katz is angling, so he says, for a Turner-Carmine Basilio fight, the winner to meet Gavilan for the 147-pound crown. Meanwhile, he keeps Turner at 151 pounds or more and campaigns against middleweights.

Should the 23-year-old Turner reverse the last Jones verdict, Promoter Taylor says he'll face Giardello in an outdoor ball park show this summer. Giardello is listed as the next challenger for Carl (Bobo) Olson's 160-pound title and holds one decision over Turner. Katz says nothing when Giardello's name is mentioned. After all, Turner's a welterweight, remember.

The 29-year-old Jones, father of four, seems to have the most at stake in this scheduled 10-round battle. Another win over Turner is supposed to earn him the Giardello shot. If he's licked, the Jones boy will drift back into obscurity he emerged from with his triumph here a month ago. If Jones can fight anything like he did in his last meeting with Philadelphia Gil, he should repeat.

Another odd thing about this strange-as-it-may-seem return bout is the odds. Turner, a well-beaten gladiator in the first Jones clash, is a 2 to 1 wagering choice. Turner has won 42 and lost five, while Jones carries a 36-19 and eight draws record into action.

Panama Wins Over Lincoln Reserves

Lincoln Star Special

PANAMA — Lincoln High Reserves rallied in the last two innings here Tuesday but could not catch a Panama baseball team which had built a 9-0 lead in the first two innings. The Reserves lost, 13-9.

Bill Burk struck out 13 hitters for Panama and had a 13-1 lead when Lincoln exploded in the sixth inning.

Del Vanderbeek, Bill Steward, Ed Kroese and Burk got two hits each for Panama. Burk tripled with the bases loaded in the fourth for the biggest blow.

Second Baseman Anderson had two for two for Lincoln.

Eighth Inning Single Spoils Kellner No-Hitter; A's Win

WASHINGTON (AP)—Wayne Terwilliger's single with two out in the eighth inning deprived Alex Kellner of a no-hitter Tuesday night as the Philadelphia Athletics' lefthander defeated Washington, 7-0.

Kellner, who struck out six and walked three, retired 15 batters in order before Terwilliger rammed his single through the box into centerfield for the Senators' lone hit. Terwilliger was forced by pinch-hitter Clyde Vollmer, and Kellner retired the Senators in order in the ninth.

Terwilliger, a .235 hitter, ruined Kellner's bid to become the first pitcher to hurl a no-hitter at Griffith Stadium since Bobby Burke of the Senators achieved the feat against the Boston Red Sox Aug. 8, 1931.

Dickson Wins Second

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Murry Dickson, Philadelphia Phillies' righthander whose 1953 record was 10-19, cruised to his second win of the young season Tuesday night, a homer-punctuated 6-3 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Dickson, veteran hurler who came to the Phillies from the Pittsburgh Pirates in a winter deal, wasn't exactly sensational, but pitched steady ball, holding the Dodgers to eight scattered hits.

Menking 3-Hitter Wins 2-0 For Des Moines Over Cards

OMAHA (AP) — Paul Menking threw a three-hitter at the Omaha Cardinals Tuesday night to give Des Moines a 2-0 victory and salvage the last of a three-game series.

The big right-hander from Arlington, Neb., fresh out of the Army, worked easily and smoothly throughout.

The first hit off Menking came in the third inning when Fred DeSouza tapped the ball over the infield. The Cuban third baseman was Omaha's only base runner until the eighth, when Al Viotto singled.

Menking never showed a sign of wavering. He was backed by errorless fielding, which included one double play. Paul struck out three and failed to issue a base on balls.

Gil Eventually Wants Gavilan

Turner-Jones Victor Faces Giardello

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Gil Turner, who insists he only has eyes for Kid Gavilan, fights Bobby Jones here tonight for the right to meet Joey Giardello.

If that sounds as clear as the mud in your eye, that's the way it's meant to sound. This nationally televised return match between Jones of Oakland, Calif., has more ramifications than football's "sucker shift."

Let's start this story of intrigue at the beginning. You see, last March 24, Jones, a 3 to 1 underdog, won a split decision over Turner. Almost everyone at ringside agreed Jones won. One judge, apparently watching through one eye, called it a draw.

Promoter Herman Taylor said the crowd—there were about 1200 customers—clamored for a return bout. So, after much dickering over money and weights, the promoter obliged. An unestimated throng, plus the CBS TV audience can sit in on the encore starting at 9 p.m. CST.

Turner's manager George Katz, insists his boy has completed the cycle of welterweight to middleweight and back to welterweight. Katz is angling, so he says, for a Turner-Carmine Basilio fight, the winner to meet Gavilan for the 147-pound crown. Meanwhile, he keeps Turner at 151 pounds or more and campaigns against middleweights.

Should the 23-year-old Turner reverse the last Jones verdict, Promoter Taylor says he'll face Giardello in an outdoor ball park show this summer. Giardello is listed as the next challenger for Carl (Bobo) Olson's 160-pound title and holds one decision over Turner. Katz says nothing when Giardello's name is mentioned. After all, Turner's a welterweight, remember.

The 29-year-old Jones, father of four, seems to have the most at stake in this scheduled 10-round battle. Another win over Turner is supposed to earn him the Giardello shot. If he's licked, the Jones boy will drift back into obscurity he emerged from with his triumph here a month ago. If Jones can fight anything like he did in his last meeting with Philadelphia Gil, he should repeat.

Another odd thing about this strange-as-it-may-seem return bout is the odds. Turner, a well-beaten gladiator in the first Jones clash, is a 2 to 1 wagering choice. Turner has won 42 and lost five, while Jones carries a 36-19 and eight draws record into action.

Panama Wins Over Lincoln Reserves

Lincoln Star Special

PANAMA — Lincoln High Reserves rallied in the last two innings here Tuesday but could not catch a Panama baseball team which had built a 9-0 lead in the first two innings. The Reserves lost, 13-9.

Bill Burk struck out 13 hitters for Panama and had a 13-1 lead when Lincoln exploded in the sixth inning.

Del Vanderbeek, Bill Steward, Ed Kroese and Burk got two hits each for Panama. Burk tripled with the bases loaded in the fourth for the biggest blow.

Second Baseman Anderson had two for two for Lincoln.

Babe 'Satisfactory'

BEAUMONT, Tex (AP)—Babe Zaharias' family physician said that blood tests showed the famous golfer's condition to be satisfactory.

Dr. W. E. Tatum said X-rays will not be ready for examination until later.

Dr. Tatum, senior surgeon a year ago when Mrs. Zaharias was operated on here for cancer, announced also that a complete physical check-up will be given her "sometime while she is in Beaumont."

Waverly Athletes Honored

A banquet was held at Waverly Tuesday night to honor all high school athletes and music students. Ralph Bowmaster (right), coach at Seward and former Waverly coach, was the speaker. Eighth Inning Single Spoils Kellner No-Hitter; A's Win

WASHINGTON (AP)—Wayne Terwilliger's single with two out in the eighth inning deprived Alex Kellner of a no-hitter Tuesday night as the Philadelphia Athletics' lefthander defeated Washington, 7-0.

Kellner, who struck out six and walked three, retired 15 batters in order before Terwilliger rammed his single through the box into centerfield for the Senators' lone hit. Terwilliger was forced by pinch-hitter Clyde Vollmer, and Kellner retired the Senators in order in the ninth.

Terwilliger, a .235 hitter, ruined Kellner's bid to become the first pitcher to hurl a no-hitter at Griffith Stadium since Bobby Burke of the Senators achieved the feat against the Boston Red Sox Aug. 8, 1931.

Dickson Wins Second

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Murry Dickson, Philadephia Phillies' righthander whose 1953 record was 10-19, cruised to his second win of the young season Tuesday night, a homer-punctuated 6-3 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Dickson, veteran hurler who came to the Phillies from the Pittsburgh Pirates in a winter deal, wasn't exactly sensational, but pitched steady ball, holding the Dodgers to eight scattered his.

Cards Blasted 13-6

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Cincinnati's Redlegs blasted five pitchers for 16 hits, including three home runs, Tuesday night to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals, 13-6.

The victory kept the Redlegs in a first place tie with the Philadelphia Phillies, who defeated Brooklyn, 6-3.

Gus Bell and Wally Post hit their second home runs of the season for the Redlegs while Andy Seminick connected for his first.

Wholesale Romania Red Party Purge Is Indicated

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Romania's Premier Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej has resigned as Communist Party boss in a government and party reshuffle in which thousands of Communists may have been purged.

Radio Bucharest announced that the 53-year-old dictator of Romania had quit his party post, telling a party meeting: "Hero worship must be completely wiped out."

Gheorghiu-Dej thus became the third Communist boss in East Europe to adopt Moscow's year-old "collective leadership" principle in which no man ostensibly holds posts in both government and party. He had been both premier and party general secretary since June, 1952.

Hungary's Matyas Rakosi resigned as premier but kept the No. 1 spot in the Politburo. Boleslaw Bierut turned the premiership in Poland over to Josef Cyrankiewicz but became first secretary of the Communist Party. A similar shakeup is expected in Bulgaria, where Premier Vulko Chervenkov is also party secretary-general.

Gheorghiu-Dej handed over his party job to Gheorghe Apostol—in the same way that Russia's Premier Georgi M. Malenkov gave his party post to Nikita Khrushchev. Apostol had been deputy premier and agriculture minister and he gave up these posts to become first party secretary.

In a speech monitored here, Gheorghiu-Dej indicated that a widespread purge in party ranks may have accompanied his resignation which was accepted April 19 by a meeting of the party central committee.

He told the central committee that the new Communist Party cards have been issued throughout the country to "prevent the infiltration of class enemy elements posing as party members and shielding under party membership."

Gheorghiu-Dej said that only 80,000 to 100,000 party members were actually doing what they could to improve the nation's standard of living in 1954. "Those not willing to work body and soul for the goals set in the 1954 plan cannot be tolerated as party members," he added.

Without referring to himself, he declared: "We must, with all determination, wipe out any form of personal worship, no matter toward whom and by whom it is displayed."

Farm Labor Supply Adequate In Most Areas

The supply of farm laborers is adequate in most Nebraska areas although a shortage continues to be reported at Norfolk, Sidney, McCook and North Platte, the State Department of Labor reported Tuesday.

Placements last week totaled 398, with 200 of the workers employed for short-time corn shoveling jobs.

Unfilled demand is about the same as a week ago, the department said, with most of the demand for single farm hands.

Area reports included:

Beatrice: Five placements over a two week period.

Fremont: Placements totaled 240, mostly for corn shoveling. Could use single and married men in Cuming and Dodge counties.

Grand Island: Placements totaled 52. Supply and demand of labor in balance.

Hastings: One placement. Top soil very dry and demand for farm help light.

Kearney: Four placements. Demand and supply of workers about equal.

Lincoln: Four placements. No current supply of qualified workers available.

McCook: Forty--three placements, mostly west of McCook. Still short five single men and two married men.

Norfolk: Thirty-four placements. Shortage of ranch hands alleviated somewhat. Short eight single men, two married men.

North Platte: Five placements. Supply of experienced married farm hands scarce.

Omaha: One placement. Supply continues to meet demand.

Scottsbluff: Ten placements. Farm work in full swing, with some farmers reported exchanging work to keep down costs.

Sidney: Nine placements. Short 15 single men Particularly need workers in Kimball to operate tractors for spring grain seeding.

Wholesale Romania Red Party Purge Is Indicated

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Romania's Premier Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej has resigned as Communist Party boss in a government and party reshuffle in which thousands of Communists may have been purged.

Radio Bucharest announced that the 53-year-old dictator of Romania had quit his party post, telling a party meeting: "Hero worship must be completely wiped out."

Gheorghiu-Dej thus became the third Communist boss in East Europe to adopt Moscow's year-old "collective leadership" principle in which no man ostensibly holds posts in both government and party. He had been both premier and party general secretary since June, 1952.

Hungary's Matyas Rakosi resigned as premier but kept the No. 1 spot in the Politburo. Boleslaw Bierut turned the premiership in Poland over to Josef Cyrankiewicz but became first secretary of the Communist Party. A similar shakeup is expected in Bulgaria, where Premier Vulko Chervenkov is also party secretary-general.

Gheorghiu-Dej handed over his party job to Gheorghe Apostol—in the same way that Russia's Premier Georgi M. Malenkov gave his party post to Nikita Khrushchev. Apostol had been deputy premier and agriculture minister and he gave up these posts to become first party secretary.

In a speech monitored here, Gheorghiu-Dej indicated that a widespread purge in party ranks may have accompanied his resignation which was accepted April 19 by a meeting of the party central committee.

He told the central committee that the new Communist Party cards have been issued throughout the country to "prevent the infiltration of class enemy elements posing as party members and shielding under party membership."

Gheorghiu-Dej said that only 80,000 to 100,000 party members were actually doing what they could to improve the nation's standard of living in 1954. "Those not willing to work body and soul for the goals set in the 1954 plan cannot be tolerated as party members," he added.

Without referring to himself, he declared: "We must, with all determination, wipe out any form of personal worship, no matter toward whom and by whom it is displayed."

Farm Labor Supply Adequate In Most Areas

The supply of farm laborers is adequate in most Nebraska areas although a shortage continues to be reported at Norfolk, Sidney, McCook and North Platte, the State Department of Labor reported Tuesday.

Placements last week totaled 398, with 200 of the workers employed for short-time corn shoveling jobs.

Unfilled demand is about the same as a week ago, the department said, with most of the demand for single farm hands.

Area reports included:

Beatrice: Five placements over a two week period.

Fremont: Placements totaled 240, mostly for corn shoveling. Could use single and married men in Cuming and Dodge counties.

Grand Island: Placements totaled 52. Supply and demand of labor in balance.

Hastings: One placement. Top soil very dry and demand for farm help light.

Kearney: Four placements. Demand and supply of workers about equal.

Lincoln: Four placements. No current supply of qualified workers available.

McCook: Forty--three placements, mostly west of McCook. Still short five single men and two married men.

Norfolk: Thirty-four placements. Shortage of ranch hands alleviated somewhat. Short eight single men, two married men.

North Platte: Five placements. Supply of experienced married farm hands scarce.

Omaha: One placement. Supply continues to meet demand.

Scottsbluff: Ten placements. Farm work in full swing, with some farmers reported exchanging work to keep down costs.

Sidney: Nine placements. Short 15 single men Particularly need workers in Kimball to operate tractors for spring grain seeding.

Newspaper Circulation Up Despite TV

Publisher: 'Video Will Aid'

NEW YORK (AP)—Publishers report that newspaper circulations are rising despite competition from television for the reader's time.

A show of hands at a panel discussion at the American Newspaper Publishers Assn. annual convention indicated that a ratio of three newspapers out of four gained circulation during the past six months.

"I think TV will help newspaper circulations the same way radio did," commented E. B. Jeffri Jeffress, publisher of the Greensboro, N. C., News & Record, and owner of a TV station.

Two Effects

Lee Hills, Detroit Free Press, said TV had had at least two effects on reporting and editing. He said:

First, many stories must be written now with the knowledge that the public already has witnessed the event.

Second, with many women watching sports on TV, sports stories must be pointed toward the whole family rather than only to the men.

The entire first day's session was given over to closed panel discussions on a variety of newspaper problems. The three-day convention will close Thursday night with an address by President Eisenhower before the Bureau of Advertising.

Postal Policy Hit

Subject matter of the panel discussions was outlined to the press afterward by Robert C. Millar, publisher, Jacksonville, Fla., Times-Union, for newspapers over 50,000 circulation; by Buell W. Hudson, publisher, Woonsocket, R. I., Call, for those of 10,000 to 50,000; and by Robert M. White II, publisher, Mexico, Mo., Ledger, for those under 10,000 circulation.

These general trends developed in the discussions:

The publishers are opposed to the Post Office Department policy of permitting bulk mailing of flysheets and direct mail advertising.

Under this practice, the advertisers send pamphlets or circulars in bulk to the post office, which distributes them, unaddressed, to every house in the community. The publishers held that the post office was, in effect, serving as the circulation department for direct mail advertisers in competition with newspapers.

The publishers foresaw little likelihood of any increase in the price of newspapers to the reader in the near future, but felt an eventual increase was possible.

Offers More

They attributed this possibility to rising costs and the belief that a newspaper offers the reader more return for the money expended than any other product.

Some publishers said they still were encountering a closed door policy at county and city governmental meetings despite the newspapers' constant efforts for freedom of information.

General sentiment was against printing names of juveniles arrested for crimes, but some publishers reported an increasing disposition by law enforcement officers to have such names printed as a deterrent to curb an upswing in youthful lawbreaking.

On the question of letters to the editors, the general attitude was to edit them only for reasons of space or to eliminate bad taste.

GE Plans Record Spending In 1954

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (INS)—General Electric Co. President Ralph J. Cordiner said that his company will spend a record total of $175 million this year for new and modernized plants and equipment.

He added that first quarter earnings for 1954 were $48,028,000, or $1.67 a share, representing an increase of 42 per cent over last year's first quarter earnings of $33,849,000, or $1.17 a share.

Cordiner told more than 2,800 share owners and their guests gathered in Schenectady for the company's annual share owners' meeting that the planned expenditure represents a 24 per cent increase over last year's record high of $141 million.

Cordiner reported that GE sales during the first quarter of 1954 reached $715,596,000, a decline of 8 per cent from last year's record-breaking first quarter sales volume.

Curtis Pays Senate Seat Filing Fee

Lincoln Star Special

MINDEN, Neb.—Rep. Carl Curtis (R-Neb.) made his entry into the crowded race for the six-year Senate seat here Tuesday.

Rep. Curtis

Kearney County Treasurer Jesse Petersen said that the filing fee in connection with the candidacy for the Republican nomination for U. S. Senator was paid late Tuesday by Attorney B. H. Bracken of Minden. Minden is Curtis' home town.

Curtis had indicated earlier that he would file for the Senate post left vacant by the death of Sen. Dwight Griswold this month. Before the death of Griswold, Curtis had announced that he would not be a candidate for re-election to Congress.

Bracken confirmed Tuesday evening reports that Curtis would be in Lincoln Thursday to complete details of his filing.

Van Deusen Will Face Charges Of Drunken Driving

SENECA, Neb. (AP)—Jerry Van Deusen, Seneca, will be charged with drunken driving and driving without a license in the automobile accident death last week of Art J. Spurlock, Seneca, Thomas County Attorney Joe Divis said.

Divis made his statement after a coroner's jury of six Seneca and Thedford businessmen found Van Deusen was not guilty of a felony in the death.

Divis said the evidence showed that as near as could be determined the accident and death were caused by turning off the switch and pulling the key which caused the steering column to lock. Van Deusen was driving the car.

Youth Admits Theft

Police were holding a 16-year-old boy Tuesday after the youth admitted taking a purse in a local store. The youth admitted the theft after he was picked up in a local music store. Police said he would be turned over to juvenile officials.

WHAT IS PETROX? Petrox is a new element, or additive, wholly derived from petroleum. Developed by Texaco engineers, Petrox is an exclusive Texaco product.

It is a petro-chemical completely different in composition from any other additive. It is the only such additive being used in any gasoline. The fact that it is made entirely from petroleum is important because it does not contain anything that can leave harmful engine deposits.

Furthermore, Petrox adds a brand new function: the ability to reduce engine wear. As a result, the consistent users of new Sky Chief gasoline are assured maximum power and longer engine life.

Some publishers said they still were encountering a closed door policy at county and city governmental meetings despite the newspapers' constant efforts for freedom of information.

General sentiment was against printing names of juveniles arrested for crimes, but some publishers reported an increasing disposition by law enforcement officers to have such names printed as a deterrent to curb an upswing in youthful lawbreaking.

On the question of letters to the editors, the general attitude was to edit them only for reasons of space or to eliminate bad taste.

GE Plans Record Spending In 1954

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (INS)—General Electric Co. President Ralph J. Cordiner said that his company will spend a record total of $175 million this year for new and modernized plants and equipment.

He added that first quarter earnings for 1954 were $48,028,000, or $1.67 a share, representing an increase of 42 per cent over last year's first quarter earnings of $33,849,000, or $1.17 a share.

Cordiner told more than 2,800 share owners and their guests gathered in Schenectady for the company's annual share owners' meeting that the planned expenditure represents a 24 per cent increase over last year's record high of $141 million.

Cordiner reported that GE sales during the first quarter of 1954 reached $715,596,000, a decline of 8 per cent from last year's record-breaking first quarter sales volume.

Quick Brown Fox?

ORANGEBURG, S. C. (AP)—There was no gun handy when a fox showed himself near a residence here. Caldwell Brown picked up a tire pump and took off on foot after the animal—caught it, too, and killed it with the pump.

Curtis Pays Senate Seat Filing Fee

Lincoln Star Special

MINDEN, Neb.—Rep. Carl Curtis (R-Neb.) made his entry into the crowded race for the six-year Senate seat here Tuesday.

Rep. Curtis

Kearney County Treasurer Jesse Petersen said that the filing fee in connection with the candidacy for the Republican nomination for U. S. Senator was paid late Tuesday by Attorney B. H. Bracken of Minden. Minden is Curtis' home town.

Curtis had indicated earlier that he would file for the Senate post left vacant by the death of Sen. Dwight Griswold this month. Before the death of Griswold, Curtis had announced that he would not be a candidate for re-election to Congress.

Bracken confirmed Tuesday evening reports that Curtis would be in Lincoln Thursday to complete details of his filing.

Van Deusen Will Face Charges Of Drunken Driving

SENECA, Neb. (AP)—Jerry Van Deusen, Seneca, will be charged with drunken driving and driving without a license in the automobile accident death last week of Art J. Spurlock, Seneca, Thomas County Attorney Joe Divis said.

Divis made his statement after a coroner's jury of six Seneca and Thedford businessmen found Van Deusen was not guilty of a felony in the death.

Divis said the evidence showed that as near as could be determined the accident and death were caused by turning off the switch and pulling the key which caused the steering column to lock. Van Deusen was driving the car.

Youth Admits Theft

Police were holding a 16-year-old boy Tuesday after the youth admitted taking a purse in a local store. The youth admitted the theft after he was picked up in a local music store. Police said he would be turned over to juvenile officials.

WHAT IS PETROX? Petrox is a new element, or additive, wholly derived from petroleum. Developed by Texaco engineers, Petrox is an exclusive Texaco product.

It is a petro-chemical completely different in composition from any other additive. It is the only such additive being used in any gasoline. The fact that it is made entirely from petroleum is important because it does not contain anything that can leave harmful engine deposits.

Furthermore, Petrox adds a brand new function: the ability to reduce engine wear. As a result, the consistent users of new Sky Chief gasoline are assured maximum power and longer engine life.

County Pay 'Fixed;' Elbow Room Left

Lancaster County salaries for deputies and employees have been "fixed" by the Commissioners who left plenty of elbow room with which to make needed salary adjustments later.

The board resolution "fixes the salaries of chief deputies, deputies and employees . . . at rate of compensation . . . in effect on April 30, 1954."

However, it is provided that "individual salaries may be increased or decreased from time to time" either upon recommendation of the employees' office head or "by a merit system the county may adopt."

Salary adjustments will take into "consideration merit, length of service, or nature and extent of duties."

The salary-fixing resolution is in line with Legislative Bill 9 allowing all 93 counties to set salaries for elected officers, but also stipulating salaries of "deputies and employees" are to be set by county boards 60 days before the closing of filings—or by April 30 in this county.

Salaries for elected officers—generally increased from $1,500 to $2,000—were set last October for the four-year office term beginning next January.

But the county board has felt salaries of deputies and employees cannot be "strait jacketed" for a four year period in view of possible economic fluctuations, personnel changes, and other factors.

In adopting the resolution, the Commissioners pointed out that it has the approval of the state attorney general and state auditor's offices.

Burglar Suspect Trio, Caught After Gun Fight, Won't Talk

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Three tight-lipped burglary suspects who lost a running gun fight with police defied detectives' questioning with a stock answer:

"I don't care to make a statement."

Detective Chief Harold Haus said his men had failed in several grilling sessions to get any information from the trio.

Haus said the prisoners told detectives: "We have been advised by our lawyers not to say anything."

Charges of second degree burglary and assault with intent to kill were filed against Frank J. Ellsworth, 35, and Charles C. Taylor, 32, both of Omaha, and Rubin Shetsky, 47-year-old Russian-born Chicagoan.

They were captured after a high speed chase in which officers exchanged gunfire with them and blasted the rear tires of their loot-laden automobile.

Ellsworth, who with Taylor was listed by the FBI in 1951 as part of the Kenneth Kitts midwest bank-robbing gang, was wounded in the right hand. The third finger was amputated.

The wounded man refused to submit to a general anesthetic for the surgery, telling a doctor and nurses: "I know about that truth serum."

Police said he apparently feared he might talk while unconscious.

The pursuit that ended in the trio's capture started when a patrolman saw them leave a women's apparel shop, their car loaded with expensive furs and other garments.

Haus said a preliminary $50,000 estimate on the merchandise was lowered by inventory to $31,600.

Shetsky, a former Minneapolis bartender, was acquitted in 1950 of the murder in 1945 of a Minneapolis union organizer, Albert Schneider. In an earlier trial he had been convicted and sentenced in absentia after he fled to California. He subsequently was granted the second hearing.

POSTCARD

When the Wright Brothers were still wondering what kept those things up in the air, I was wondering, too. I remember making some pretty tricky experiments.

You take some theme paper. And you fold it in the middle. Then you fold——. Well, this is probably too technical.

What I am getting at is difference between me and the rest of the acronautical experts. I am still wondering.

☆ ☆ ☆

I suppose I am as unlikely as any to induct youth into the upper air. Yet parents are called upon for many things. So the other day I must take my 10-year-old daughter on her first flight to New York.

"I'm scared," she said quite frankly.

Well, frankly, I am slightly nervous, too. Up in the wild, blue yonder. Will it go up? Will it stay up? It always does. But I see no reason for it than when I sailed papers in the classroom.

"There is absolutely nothing to be afraid of," I said firmly. "Ten thousand people are flying in airplanes every day between 4 and 5 in the afternoon. Or so I read somewhere in the cheery statistics sent to me by Mr. Ralph Damon, the cheery president of TWA."

"You are braver than me," she said. "Anyway, you have more experience."

Well, that is me, children. What an actor! The Iroquois chief at the stake. Smiling disdainfully through the flames as the howling squaws slice pork chops off me.

☆ ☆ ☆

Out on the hardstand at San Francisco airport, the big red and silver Constellation stood waiting with open doors.

To tell the truth, I had visions of dragging this moppet screaming into the big silver bird. She was shuttled like cargo on airplanes when she was at the bubbling age. But she has forgotten, of course.

"I sincerely hope you will make no scene," I said gloomily. "For possibly the other passengers would think you inherited your craven attitude from your intrepid parent."

"I'm not scared any more," she said. "I think you're scared of airplanes."

"Who, me?" I cried. "Why, sometime I must tell you of my early classroom experiments. Wilbur and Orville came to me, frankly at wit's end and . . ."

"I don't believe a word of it," she said.

The younger generation not only flies so calmly I am enraged. There is also little respect for aeronautical pioneers, it seems to me.

☆ ☆ ☆

Anyway, the big silver bird took off like a big silver bird. Which they always do, to my amazement.

The lady in the TWA uniform said she welcomed us aboard. She gave us chewing gum and said would we kindly belt ourselves to the seats and refrain from smoking.

The small fry gave my arm one clutch as we roared down the runway. Then as we lifted into the air, she grew a great big smile.

"There isn't anything to it, is there?" she said.

"Just as I told you," I said.

A surprised look came on her face. She prodded her mouth with her tongue.

"Anything wrong?" I said.

"I swallowed my gum," she said.

At Chicago, she had settled in a complete disorganization of cards, jacks, spare socks. The various gear which small girls find indispensable. She said she would stay right on the airplane. She didn't care to get off.

When we landed at New York, she was playing rummy with a passenger. She didn't even look up when we bumped on the runway.

Livestock Meet Called In Omaha

OMAHA (AP)—The national executive committee of Livestock Conservation Inc. meets here Thursday to pool information on causes of prevention of livestock losses.

Dr. Fred O'Flaherty, national president and director of the Tanners Council, will speak at a noon luncheon.

Official business following the duncheon will concern a broadened program of research and reports from affiliated organizations on progress toward reduction in livestock waste through injury, disease and parasites.

Both luncheon and afternoon sessions will be open and all livestock interests have been invited to attend.

The national committee includes representatives of all segments of the livestock industry.

Wilber Elevator Expansion Starts

Lincoln Star Special

WILBER, Neb.—Work has begun on expansion of the Farmers Elevator here. The new structure will be constructed of concrete and will accommodate 170,000 bushels of grain.

This is an addition to the concrete elevator constructed several years ago in Wilber with a 150,000 bushel capacity.

The new elevator, in addition to those under construction in Dorchester, Plymouth and Lincoln, will help alleviate the storage problem in this vicinity.

Completion of the project will be prior to this summer's wheat harvest, according to Charles Gehnert, manager of the Farmers Elevator.

Missing Nebraskan

George Heinz, prominent cattle rancher at Henry, Neb., is among the five persons missing since the Saturday night disappearance of a chartered twin engine plane in the Hawaiian area. Coast Guard, Navy, Air Force and civilian aircraft and vessels have joined the search. He reportedly was returning from a trip to Australia with his wife. Mrs. Heinz, however, did not make the plane side-trip out of Honolulu on which her husband is now mising.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Grains Drop With 'No War' Selling

CHICAGO (AP)—All grains declined on the Board of Trade Tuesday although May soybeans jumped above the $4.00 mark about midway in the session. By the close it had tumbled to $3.96-$3.95½.

Selling in most pits was pegged largely on the statement by Secretary of State Dulles that it was "unlikely" U.S. troops would be sent to Indo-China. That seemed to put an end at least temporarily to the war scare which created urgent buying Monday.

Wheat closed ⅝-2⅛ lower, corn ⅞-1⅛ lower, oats ⅛-⅜ lower, rye 2½ to 3 cents lower and lard 5 to 57 cents a hundred pounds lower.

Except for May and July soybeans the market had a weak tone throughout the session. The temporary runup in May and July beans, which carried both to new seasonal highs, was attributed largely to covering on the part of previous short sellers.

When May soybeans sold above $4.00 it was the first time that mark had been crossed since July 10, 1948, when the July contract sold at $4.02½. That was the year the March contract set an all time soybean high of $4.21 on Jan. 16.

As for new crop soybeans, they never showed much strength. At the finish they were 6¾ to ⅞ cents down. Substantial gains were received overnight and during the day in Illinois, the major soybean producing state, and they should be beneficial in getting the new crop off to a good start.

Wheat failed to respond to news the Foreign Operations Administration had granted 10 million dollars to Yugoslavia and $235,000 to Norway to buy surplus American farm products. Yugoslavia will use $8,750,000 to buy American wheat. Norway will buy both wheat and peanuts.

Rails' Dip Carries Stock List Down

NEW YORK (AP)—Railroads carried the stock market lower Tuesday in highly selective trading.

Motors and distillers also tended to ease, but other departments were nearly a balance of gains and losses. Though changes extended to two points in both directions, stocks generally moved only minor fractions.

Volume declined to 1,860,000 shares from 2,430,000 Monday, when the market suffered a sharp shakeout.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks reclined 10 cents at $119.00. It lost 90 cents Monday. The industrial component climbed 30 cents but railroads dropped 50 cents and utilities held steady.

The market opened fast and irregular, but soon the trading pace slowed and top quality industrials came into selective demand. During the afternoon, profit takers took charge and many early gains were wiped out. A rally at the close pushed some industrials upward again, but the list remained heavy at the final gong.

The American Stock Exchange closed irregular with trading at 500,000 shares compared with 660,000 Monday.

BOND MARKET

NEW YOK (AP)—The bond market turned mixed in the late dealings Tuesday after a show of moderate strength earlier in the session.

It was still slightly on the upside at the close, but many of the earlier gains were whittled down in a flurry of selling. Price changes of a point or more in either direction were rare.

Intermediate and long-term government issues were off a little from the previous day in quiet over-the-counter trading.

Total bond sales on the New York Stock Exchange came to $3,305,000 par value compared to $4,200,000 Monday

Airman, 20, Draws Guardhouse Time For Beer Offense

A 20-year-old Lincoln Air Force Base airman Tuesday received a court martial sentence for using a false identification card in an attempt to obtain beer at a Lincoln tavern.

The man, A/2c Rudolph Leon, was given 30 days at hard labor in the guardhouse and was fined $60.

It was emphasized by base officials that any future attempts to use false or misleading identification to obtain liqu

Grains Drop With 'No War' Selling

CHICAGO (AP)—All grains declined on the Board of Trade Tuesday although May soybeans jumped above the $4.00 mark about midway in the session. By the close it had tumbled to $3.96-$3.95½.

Selling in most pits was pegged largely on the statement by Secretary of State Dulles that it was "unlikely" U.S. troops would be sent to Indo-China. That seemed to put an end at least temporarily to the war scare which created urgent buying Monday.

Wheat closed ⅝-2⅛ lower, corn ⅞-1¼ lower, oats ¼-⅝ lower, rye 2½ to 3 cents lower and lard 5 to 57 cents a hundred pounds lower.

Except for May and July soybeans the market had a weak tone throughout the session. The temporary runup in May and July beans, which carried both to new seasonal highs, was attributed largely to covering on the part of previous short sellers.

When May soybeans sold above $4.00 it was the first time this mark had been crossed since July 10, 1948, when the July contract sold at $4.02½. That was the year the March contract set an all time soybean high of $4.41 on Jan. 16.

As for new crop soybeans, they never showed much strength. At the finish they were 6¼ to ⅝ cents down. Substantial rains were received overnight and during the day in Illinois, the major soybean producing state, and they should be beneficial in getting the new crop off to a good start.

Wheat failed to respond to news the Foreign Operations Administration had granted 10 million dollars to Yugoslavia and $235,000 to Norway to buy surplus American farm products. Yugoslavia will use $8,750,000 to buy American wheat. Norway will buy both wheat and peanuts.

Rails' Dip Carries Stock List Down

NEW YORK (AP)—Railroads carried the stock market lower Tuesday in highly selective trading.

Motors and distillers also tended to ease, but other departments were nearly a balance of gains and losses. Though changes extended to two points in both directions, stocks generally moved only minor fractions.

Volume declined to 1,860,000 shares from 2,430,000 Monday, when the market suffered a sharp shakeout.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks reclined 10 cents at $119.00. It lost 90 cents Monday. The industrial component climbed 30 cents but railroads dropped 50 cents and utilities held steady.

The market opened fast and irregular, but soon the trading pace slowed and top quality industrials came into selective demand. During the afternoon, profit takers took charge and many early gains were wiped out, a rally at the close pushed some industrials upward again, but the list remained heavy at the final gong.

The American Stock Exchange closed irregular with trading at 500,000 shares compared with 660,000 Monday.

WHAT GOES ON IN A WHISKEY BARREL

by J. P. Van Winkle
President
Stitzel-Weller Distillery
Louisville, Kentucky
Established 1849

Want in on a secret? Only two distillers make whiskey that's fit to drink. They're Mother Nature and Father Time.

We give these two partners a free hand in our original open-tub, sour mash process. All we do is help them along.

Take the matter of aging . . :

In 6 days, thereabouts, we convert Nature's grain to the crystal liquid which bubbles over our tail box as NEW FITZGERALD. But Father Time requires at least 208 patient weeks to color it amber, gentle it to taste, and turn it into OLD FITZGERALD.

We furnish the old gentleman only new, heavily charred white oak barrels. The char only clarifies and purifies. What actually does age and color the whiskey is the thin layer of "caramelized" oak which lies just behind the char, and is formed in the stave at burning.

Our wooden warehouses are the open-rick type, designed to take full advantage of the Kentucky climate which, like our water, is unsurpassed in whiskey-making. Our 2,944 warehouse windows are opened each clear morning to permit the whiskey to "breathe." Our window crew alone costs us $14,000 a year.

But what's the sense of being located in the world's best whiskey-aging climate without taking full advantage of it?

No one uproots an oak to promote its growth, so we do not move the barrels or agitate the whiskey in any way—except to recooper an occasional leaker.

In fact our aging method—working slowly and patiently with Time and Nature—is unique in the industry, and accounts for more than a little of OLD FITZGERALD'S unique character.

May we invite you to join the inner circle of business executives who have discovered this satisfying difference, and find it good business to share, in moderation, with associates and friends.

Robert C. Russell To Succeed Bracy On Chamber Board

Robert C. Russell has been elected to the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce board of directors to fill out the unexpired term of Chancellor Carl C. Bracy of Nebraska Wesleyan University, who has resigned.

Russell

President John E. Curtiss said Mr. Russell would be inaugurated at the regular board meeting Wednesday noon and would serve until new directors are elected in December.

Mr. Russell for many years operated the Bob Russell Oil Company. Now he is concentrating on the Russell Farm & Ranch Company, agricultural properties in Nebraska; and Airkem, Inc., a distributing concern with Chicago and Lincoln offices. He is chairman of the Chamber's agriculture committee.

Dr. Bracy resigned from the board since he shortly will move to Alliance, O., where he is to be president of Mount Union College.

Mr. Russell's nomination was presented to the directors by a special committee consisting of Directors Willard E. Townsend, Carl C. Hudson and Earl T. Luff.

Morrison To Address Lincoln CIO Members

A special meeting of Lincoln CIO union members Thursday night will hear a talk by Frank Morrison, McCook, candidate for the Democratic nomination for the First District Congressional seat.

Harvey Townsend, City Industrial Union Council president, announced the meeting would be held at the Communications Workers hall at 142 No. 14th at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Shavings Lumber

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)—One company has announced plans for the first Pacific Northwest plant to convert shavings into wood panels. The ¾-inch boards have been produced previously in England and Germany.

Robert C. Russell To Succeed Bracy On Chamber Board

Robert C. Russell has been elected to the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce board of directors to fill out the unexpired term of Chancellor Carl C. Bracy of Nebraska Wesleyan University, who has resigned.

Russell

President John E. Curtiss said Mr. Russell would be inaugurated at the regular board meeting Wednesday noon and would serve until new directors are elected in December.

Mr. Russell for many years operated the Bob Russell Oil Company. Now he is concentrating on the Russell Farm & Ranch Company, agricultural properties in Nebraska; and Airkem, Inc., a distributing concern with Chicago and Lincoln offices. He is chairman of the Chamber's agriculture committee.

Dr. Bracy resigned from the board since he shortly will move to Alliance, O., where he is to be president of Mount Union College.

Mr. Russell's nomination was presented to the directors by a special committee consisting of Directors Willard E. Townsend, Carl C. Hudson and Earl T. Luff.

Mrs. Sylvester's Services Friday

Services for Mrs. Annie Bessie Sylvester, 61, 6626 Platte, will be at 9:30 a.m. Friday at St. Patrick's Catholic Church, the Rev. Pashal Rollman, OFM, officiating.

Mrs. Sylvester

Mrs. Sylvester, who died here Monday, had been an employee at Ben Wolf's Cigar Store until two years ago.

The rosary will be said at 8 p.m. Thursday at Roper & Sons Havelock Chapel. Burial will be in Calvary.

Revised Swimming Pool Estimate Of $21,000 Okayed

A revised estimate of $21,000 has been approved by the City Council for the repair and improvement of the municipal swimming pool.

The Council rejected the bid of $24,650 submitted by George Cook Construction Co. in the face of an earlier estimate of $16,000. The project will now be re-advertised at the new estimate.

Included in the work is the filling in of the deep center portion of the pool, the construction of sidewalks around the pool and a new baby pool. Specifications require completion by June 5, five days after the usual pool opening date.

Gifts For Mother Of 4

TOKYO (Wednesday) (INS) —Communist Radio Peiping reported that a Chinese woman in Anhwei Province gave birth to a set of quadruplets—three girls and one boy. The Red radio said the woman was presented with 75 feet of cotton cloth, the services of a wet nurse and that the government decided to give her monthly subsidies for the children.

Army Submits Bill Of Particulars In Dickenson Court Martial

Broad Base Of Charges Is Leveled

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army submitted a bill of particulars at the court-martial of Cpl. Edward S. Dickenson listing more than a score of one-time fellow prisoners of war who allegedly complained that Dickenson appeared to follow the Chinese Communist line.

Dickenson's shy, blonde wife, Lottie, listened without apparent emotion as the Army for the first time cited the broad base of its charges against Dickenson. The defense had demanded such a bill.

Defense counsel Guy Emery created a surprise by agreeing to accept the bill of particulars without delay. He had been expected to ask for time to investigate the specific allegations.

However, Emery fought tenaciously to defend his 23-year-old client and moved successfully on several occasions to have the testimony of prosecution witnesses stricken from the record.

Plotting Escape

One of those named on the Army's list, Cpl. Thomas A. Carrick of Blacksburg, Va., who shared a foxhole with Dickenson and was captured on the same day with him in Korea in 1950, testified he heard Dickenson give the enemy the names of American POWs who were plotting to escape from a prison camp.

Under cross examination. Carrick asknowledged he also heard Dickenson admit to the Chinese that he himself was planning an escape.

Carrick, one of the prosecution's star witnesses, testified with obvious reluctance.

"It's hard to say anything against a man you fought in combat with," he said.

Relaxed

Dickenson, who originally chose to stay in enemy hands but finally came home, appeared relaxed and unworried as his court-martial continued into the second day. He smiled frequently and chatted with his attorney. He is accused of informing on fellow POW's to get favored treatment for himself.

Cpl. Johnny W. Moore of San Pedro, Calif., testified that Dickenson sought to influence him to follow the Communist line when they were fellow POW's at Pyoktong prison camp. He said he felt he had been "partially" influenced by Dickenson.

Another witness, Cpl. Franklin Barrett of Richmond, Mo., said Dickenson advised him to attend Communist study groups and to read books written by Red authorities.

Asked whether Dickenson ever told him why he was attending study groups, Barrett replied:

"Yes, he told me it was not to help the Chinese but to help his own country."

Marble Season Arrives, But In Wrong Fashion

Spring has always been proclaimed as the marble season around the country, but it popped up in the wrong way Tuesday.

Police found a marble outside a broken plate glass window belonging to Mrs. Harry M. Johnson of 4101 Randolph Tuesday morning. The marble was evidently used in a slingshot, police said.

Several Hundred Reds Penned Up In Fortress

HANOI, Indo-China, (AP) — A French Army spokesman announced "several hundred" Vietminh prisoners are penned up in the heart of the beseiged French fortess of Dien Bien Phu.

This was the first official indication of how many of the Communist-led troops have fallen into French hands. An announcement two days ago said 25,000 Vietminh had been killed, wounded or captured.

The spokesman said the prisoners were captured in patrol clashes and other fighting since the seige for the northwest Indo-China fortress was begun on March 13.

Army Submits Bill Of Particulars In Dickenson Court Martial

Broad Base Of Charges Is Leveled

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army submitted a bill of particulars at the court-martial of Cpl. Edward S. Dickenson listing more than a score of one-time fellow prisoners of war who allegedly complained that Dickenson appeared to follow the Chinese Communist line.

Dickenson's shy, blonde wife, Lottie, listened without apparent emotion as the Army for the first time cited the broad base of its charges against Dickenson. The defense had demanded such a bill.

Defense counsel Guy Emery created a surprise by agreeing to accept the bill of particulars without delay. He had been expected to ask for time to investigate the specific allegations.

However, Emery fought tenaciously to defend his 23-year-old client and moved successfully on several occasions to have the testimony of prosecution witnesses stricken from the record.

Plotting Escape

One of those named on the Army's list, Cpl. Thomas A. Carrick of Blacksburg, Va., who shared a foxhole with Dickenson and was captured on the same day with him in Korea in 1950, testified he heard Dickenson give the enemy the names of American POWs who were plotting to escape from a prison camp.

Under cross examination, Carrick asknowledged he also heard Dickenson admit to the Chinese that he himself was planning an escape.

"It's hard to say anything against a man you fought in combat with," he said.

Relaxed

Dickenson, who originally chose to stay in enemy hands but finally came home, appeared relaxed and unworried as his court-martial continued into the second day. He smiled frequently and chatted with his attorney. He is accused of informing on fellow POW's to get favored treatment for himself.

Cpl. Johnny W. Moore of San Pedro, Calif., testified that Dickenson sought to influence him to follow the Communist line when they were fellow POW's at Pyoktong prison camp. He said he felt he had been "partially" influenced by Dickenson.

Another witness, Cpl. Franklin Barrett of Richmond, Mo., said Dickenson advised him to attend Communist study groups and to read books written by Red authorities.

Asked whether Dickenson ever told him why he was attending study groups, Barrett replied:

"Yes, he told me it was not to help the Chinese but to help his own country."
